

NEW TOURIST PLAN CREATES INTEREST

Western Washington Drafts
Own Programme.

SEPARATE HAVEN FIXED

Effort Is Made to Prevent Diverting of Settlers to Districts
South and East.

PUGET SOUND BUREAU, Seattle, Jan. 28.—A new plan to bring tourists direct to Seattle and western Washington, announced after a conference at the Seattle chamber of commerce last Thursday, will be a plan to create a separate haven for tourists who have hitherto believed that the Pacific Northwest Tourist association is the only place to go for information. The plan is to create a separate haven for tourists who have hitherto believed that the Pacific Northwest Tourist association is the only place to go for information. The plan is to create a separate haven for tourists who have hitherto believed that the Pacific Northwest Tourist association is the only place to go for information.

Independent Haven Set Up.
The recent Seattle conference, according to the public relations committee of the association, will set up an independent haven for tourists, consisting of western Washington alone. There is no open dispute of the geographic fact that, unless the tourist goes by sea, he must pass through the western Washington tidewater. The plan is to create a separate haven for tourists who have hitherto believed that the Pacific Northwest Tourist association is the only place to go for information.

Confidence Put in Association.
Why should it have seemed necessary to anyone that western Washington set up a separate and independent haven for tourists? The answer is that the Pacific Northwest Tourist association has been successful in its efforts to create a separate haven for tourists who have hitherto believed that the Pacific Northwest Tourist association is the only place to go for information.

HEAVY WATER LOSSES TO BE REDUCED BY PORTLAND FIRE BUREAU

CLASS OF FIREMEN RECEIVING INSTRUCTION IN HANDLING SPRINKLING SYSTEMS, WHICH IS EXPECTED BY FIRE CHIEF YOUNG TO SAVE MUCH MONEY.

FIREMEN VIEW SPRINKLER

LESS DAMAGE BY WATER IS AIM OF CHIEF YOUNG.

Systems Declared Great Aid in Fighting Blazes, but Are Little Understood.

Excess damage from water in buildings where sprinkling systems are in operation and the means of preventing such water damage, were the main points in a course conducted last week for Portland firemen in the central office of the American District Telegraph company in the Lumbermen's building. The course was arranged by John E. Young, chief of the Portland fire bureau. Believing that firemen can save thousands of dollars to buildings and stocks through a more familiar knowledge of the sprinkler systems and the shut-off valves in all buildings in the city, Chief Young selected two groups of firemen and detailed them for instruction.

Botanical Wonder!

Mrs. George Mathews, 58 Alameda street, Portland, Or., says: Botanical Wonder certainly surprised me after using less than a box of full itching of scalp has ceased, dandruff all gone, hair doesn't fall out any more. It made my hair silky and fluffy and now I have thousands of new hairs. Botanical Wonder is not greasy or sticky. Also reliable for babies' scalp. Ask your druggist to show you letters of appreciation from Portland people.

SALEM, Or., Jan. 28.—(Special.)—Enactment of a law extending to motorists and the secretary of state authority to revoke the operator's or chauffeur's license of any person who, on competent evidence, is adjudged an habitual user of narcotic drugs, will be recommended to the next session of the legislature, according to a report completed here today by N. A. Baffety, chief inspector for the state motor vehicle department.

Recommendations also will be made to the present legislature that the present law be amended that a part of the fines collected by county traffic violators shall be turned over to the state and be used to defray the expense of the law enforcement work.
