

TARGETED PREDICTS FUTURE AT GENOA

Catastrophe or Farce Likely, Is View.

MANY NATIONS OMITTED

Solidarity Found Lacking and Revision of Entire Programme Is Held Necessary.

BY ANDRÉE TARDIEU, Former French Ambassador to America.

(Copyright, 1922, by The Oregonian.) PARIS, Feb. 11.—(Special Cable.)—The news that the United States will not participate in the Genoa conference has thrown further confusion into an already complicated matter and no one now believes that the conference will meet March 5 as planned.

This affair is the best illustration of the inextricable misunderstanding caused by the failure to reach an agreement.

Es-Premier Briand declares that when he left Cannes for Paris to request the Genoa programme was undetermined and hence the invitations to the powers to participate should not have been sent without further conference.

But another big obstacle arises. The Genoa conference is defended on the ground that it is a necessary part of the world's economic reconstruction.

On the other hand, South America is omitted and that means many important trading nations have been left out completely.

On the other hand, we learn that North America is approving the principle of the Genoa conference, will not participate.

Where is the solidarity? Meanwhile, America, by her recent law refunding the allied debt has answered Lloyd George in advance that there is to be no reduction in the value of the allied loans.

The Brussels conference of financial experts in 1920, the only one that produced a positive result, considered Germany's conditions and reparations, was preceded by an intense joint study of several months.

An advance agreement had been reached on figures and statistics.

If a conference is attempted at Genoa, or anywhere else, without a preliminary preparation of the reconstruction of Europe will resemble a reconstruction of babel more than anything.

The confusion is the greater because not only the allies are concerned but the neutrals, Germany and the soviets. The latter, whose good will Lloyd George somewhat rashly indulged, do not merit confidence.

The United States holds no reservations to recognize them.

Revisions Thought Necessary. The soviets accepted the invitation to Genoa before they had been thus enabled to avoid commenting on the accompanying conditions, insufficient as they were, but they have decided to begin their discussion as a far-reaching discussion as that planned at Genoa with such a background.

The English press vigorously protests this viewpoint, saying that we are attempting to torpedo the conference.

On the contrary, the best way to torpedo the conference would be to enter it with eyes shut. Only in that case the participants would be blown up with it.

In conclusion, although the Franco-British negotiations have not been terminated, I repeat my prediction that the Genoa conference will not be held on the terms and under the conditions originally proposed.

The whole thing must be revised. Otherwise it will be a catastrophe or a farce.

NORTHWEST FOR PACT

(Continued from First Page.) that time was entirely silent and apparently indifferent, and there is no assurance whatever that even if we had not entered into these agreements there would be any possibility, politically or governmentally speaking, of obtaining the necessary appropriations against the powerful pacifist influence.

"Under these conditions it is much better that we should have a formal written agreement of the powers, with interests in the Pacific, to respect their respective island rights, as a substitute, and perhaps the best substitute, for complete and absolute security, based upon self-dependence."

"I notice some newspapers are asking me if the Puget Sound navy yard is to be scrapped and if the navy is to be scrapped. Undoubtedly not. The Puget Sound navy yard will be needed more than ever for the maintenance and supply of the great Pacific fleet."

The navy is not to be scrapped if those who believe in national security are able to obtain adequate appropriations for personnel and supplies. I trust those who are so insistent upon a strong navy will aid us in obtaining this.

Sea Power Is Increased. "These agreements will leave us both relatively and absolutely more powerful at sea than we have ever been in our history. I had the honor of writing the report of the senate naval committee, declaring the policy of naval equality of the United States with any other power, and this same policy is embodied in the pending treaty. Of course it means nothing if adequate supplies are not provided by congress for maintaining the fleet, which we have left, at a high standard of efficiency, and also of supplying it with all necessary auxiliary branches of the service, which are not limited by the agreement."

"I am also asked how it was that I so vigorously opposed the league of nations and now support the four-power treaty. I do so because the four-power treaty contains all of the proper qualities of an international peace agreement, which were utterly lacking in the constitution of world government, called the league of nations, and possesses none of the vices of the latter instrument. The one set up a distinct entity of world government, with consolidated international power. The other is a mere expres-

America and Japan Agree on Mandate Terms.

U. S. RIGHTS PROTECTED

Nipponese Guarantee Freedom of Radio and Telegraph Privileges to Uncle Sam's Citizens.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11.—The long controversy between the United States and Japan relating to the Pacific island of Yap, the subject of many notes and other diplomatic exchanges, was formally and finally permitted complete freedom of conscience and the free exercise of all forms of worship consonant with public order and morality, and shall permit missionaries of all religions freedom of access and travel and the right to own property and to open schools throughout the territory.

Japan further agrees that vested American property rights in the islands will be maintained and respected, and agrees that any modifications in the mandate granted under the treaty of Versailles are to be subjected to the consent of the United States, and that Japan will address to the United States a duplicate record on the administration of the mandate.

It was further agreed that the treaties between the United States and Japan now in force should apply to the mandated islands.

Action Held Not Legal. W. F. Robertson, member of the chapter of the pro-cathedral, who voted against the resolution asking for the resignation of Dean Hicks at the meeting held Thursday, contended yesterday that the meeting in question was illegal and that consequently any action taken was not legal.

Mr. Robertson declared that the canons of the church provide that such a meeting shall be called by the rector, two wardens or three vestrymen and that three days' notice must be given. He said there was no provision for the calling of the meeting by the bishop and that practically no previous notice of the gathering had been given.

He expressed the belief that the majority of the members of the chapter favored Dean Hicks. He said that at the opening of the meeting the chapter members, by a majority, requested the resignation and that it was only after the bishop had expressed his wishes that they consented to indorse the request.

Dean Once Highly Praised. In reply to the charge of mismanagement, Mr. Robertson delivered an address delivered by Bishop Sumner at the meeting of the parish February 3, in which the bishop was declared to have announced that the parish was out of debt for the first time in 30 years. The bishop declared to have praised the dean highly at that time.

The demand that Dean Hicks resign was declared to have been made by a bomb upon members of his congregation as well as other members of the same denomination throughout the state in many instances, and lining them up either on one or the other side of the controversy were made by church members.

Some close friends of the two men knew that there was a little feeling between them, but did not expect that it would be revealed in such a manner.

At a young people's meeting Friday night at the pro-cathedral the young people of many churches gathered to the landing and operation of the existing Yap-Guam cable or any cable which may hereafter be laid by the United States or its nationals.

It was also agreed, according to Secretary Hughes, that the United States and its nationals were to be accorded the same rights and privileges with respect to radio telegraphic service as with regard to cables. In relation to electrical communications, it was agreed that the United States should have rights of residence without restriction, and rights of acquisition, enjoyment and undisturbed possession, upon a footing of entire equality with Japanese or any other nation or their respective nationals, both personal and real, including lands, buildings, residences, offices, work and appurtenances.

Censorship Is Barred. The treaty also provides that no permits or licenses shall be required for the enjoyment of any of these rights and provides that there should be no censorship or supervision of operation or of messages; that there should be free entry and exit for persons or property and that no taxes or exactions of either with respect to operation of cable, property, persons or vessels should be assessed.

Japan also agreed that it will use its power of expropriation to secure to the United States needed property and facilities for the purpose of electrical communication in the island, such property or facilities cannot otherwise be obtained.

On its part the United States consents to Japanese administration of the islands in the Pacific ocean north of the equator, mandated to Japan under the provisions of the treaty of Versailles, subject to all the provisions with the island of Yap, and subject to certain other conditions.

Religious Freedom Promised. These latter are that the United States is to have the benefit of the engagements of Japan as set forth in the mandate, and that Japan shall

SENATE COMMITTEE CONSIDERS TREATY

Four-Power Pacific Pact Is First to Be Discussed.

STAR PHRASES EXPLAINED

Senator Lodge Interprets Text of Agreement and Friends Satisfied With Result.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11.—Consideration of the four-power Pacific treaty, one of the seven laid before the senate yesterday by President Harding, as the products of the Washington conference, was begun today by the senate foreign relations committee, which, after a lengthy discussion of the pact, adjourned to meet again Tuesday.

No definite programme for consideration of the four-power and other treaties was agreed upon by the committee. There was no demand for hearings, however, and senators said they probably would be dispensed with.

Mr. Lodge Explains Phases. The four-power treaty was taken up first by mutual consent, it was said. It was read and re-read at the initial committee meeting with lengthy explanations of star phrases made by Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, chairman, and one of the American force in its observance.

Senator Lodge, after a session, said that it was probable the committee would not consider the seven treaties at one time, but would report out each treaty as its consideration was finished.

Senator Borah Is Interested. Friends of the four-power treaty expressed satisfaction over the progress of the first committee session. Senators Borah, republican, Idaho, and Brandegee, republican, Connecticut, who have been inclined to oppose the treaty, were ready to ask questions and raised points as to the treaty's possible implications, including that of a moral obligation for use of American force in its observance.

It was understood that Senator Lodge vigorously reiterated the contention that there was no obligation for the use of force and only one for discussion in the event any question should arise challenging the four powers' insular rights in the Pacific.

Democratic Support Indicated. Indications were said to have been given that there would be considerable democratic support for the four-power treaty. There was no definite declaration today from any quarter of opposition to the treaty and neither was the question of reservations brought up.

A half dozen of the committee members, including some of both political parties, however, were not present today.

Chinese Foreign Minister Resigns and Arms Delegates Summoned.

PEKING, Feb. 10.—(By the Associated Press.)—The resignation of Dr. W. W. Yen, foreign minister and acting premier, was presented to the cabinet last evening. Immediately afterwards the government announced that it had summoned home from Washington Dr. Wellington Koo, Alfred Soe, minister to the United States, and Dr. Chung-Hai Wang, the delegate to the arms conference.

The government called for the return of the delegates to hear their report on the conference and resolve their advice regarding far eastern affairs, it was said.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese minister to London, and one of Chinese three delegates to the arms conference, when informed today by the Associated Press of the action of the Chinese government calling home its conference delegates, said he had received no messages from his government concerning such action. Until then, he added, there was nothing he could say.

Alfred Soe, minister to Washington, another of the delegates, is traveling in Michigan, his secretary said.

Chief Justice Wang, the third delegate, already had planned to leave Washington tomorrow for Seattle, from which he expects to sail for Shanghai February 18.

cordial feeling among the nations of the world, and I shall do all I can to contribute to that end.

The agreement to scrap some of the battleships by the primary nations and to limit the construction of new ones will prove a great saving to the taxpayers of the world, and it gives further assurance of the intention upon the part of the countries involved in the treaty that peace was not only a hope, but a reality, and that taking forward upon mutual good faith."

Farley Called Epoch. "The accomplishment of the peace conference just closed at Washington mark an epoch in human events," declared Senator Gooding of Idaho, "for it is the greatest step towards permanent peace for the world. Ever since the Declaration of Independence first proclaimed the birth of a new nation, America has been the beacon light of civilization, and the fact that our country has been responsible in a large measure for the treaties limiting the great navies of the world, the condemnation of the use of submarines and poisonous gas in warfare, the settlement of the far eastern questions, and the bringing together of the great nations of the world for the first time in the history of the world, is a position in the affairs of the world that should be gratifying to every American citizen. I am for all the treaties without reservations or amendments."

Farley Held Great Success. "The disarmament conference has been a great success and will give hope and encouragement to the war-ridden world," asserted the president of Oregon in view of the president's assurance that the seven treaties offered to the senate for ratification are "freed from commitments on the part of the United States, or any other power, to any kind of alliance, entanglement or involvement, but only simply agreements for the betterment of a relationship that will remove the cause of war, and promote an understanding program of disarmament through the naval holiday and disarmament program of the United States. The treaties should receive the unanimous approval of the senate."

"I have not read any of the treaties," said Senator Jones, "but so far as I know about them I am heartily in favor of them and would like to see them ratified in the shortest possible time."

GUARDIAN'S BOND HUGE

Englishman Must Give Big Surety for Children's Inheritance.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(Special.)—An order signed today by Surrogate Coburn requires Francis Francis, former well-known English war correspondent, to give one of the largest bonds ever required here of a guardian.

Mr. Francis, through his American attorneys, applied to be appointed guardian here of his children, Francis Francis Jr. and Evelyn Francis, who, by the death of their mother, Mrs. Fannie E. Voronoff, have inherited about $10,000,000 of the estate of their maternal grandmother, Mrs. John B. Eastwick, widow of the Standard Oil millionaire.

Surrogate Coburn granted the application on condition that Mr. Francis give a bond for $6,974,000 as a guarantee of the faithful performance of his duties. Mr. Francis already has been appointed their guardian in England. The children, according to the application, live with their father in London and go to school in Rugby.

Mr. Francis was the second husband of Fannie E. Eastwick. She divorced him in 1914.
