1125 Ultra Smart Dance Frocks Have Long Skirts

HERE (1432) is a new and most interesting effect: A draped bodice that suggests a cape, made of lace matching a deep flounce on the skirt.

Rather different from the brief skirted dance frock of last spring is this (1125) stately affair which almost sweeps the floor.

In a season of brilliant-hued evening wraps this (1699) spotless white one will stand out like a patch of snow in a June flower garden.

AUCTION BRIDGE

By Annie Blanche Shelby

IN ORDER to offset as far as possible the advantage which, in a conceded, the declarant of a hand at auction enjoys in being able to see and play his two hands, the adversaries are given a code of leads, echoes, plays, etc., the correct use of which establishes a system of communication between them and enables each to infer as to the other's holding.

This being so, it can readily be seen that the correct use of such conventions is absolutely essential to the best interests of those who play an auction.

their partner. It is an open fight and there is no reason, certainly, why he should employ such mode of play as would obligingly accommodate them and put them in possession of information which could easily be made to work to his loss and their gain.

as against 26, each in reality plays 13 cards as against 13. Think of the handicap.

Of all the conventional leads known to the game there is perhaps none which is more informative or admits of the partner in his turn giving forth more useful inferences than the lead of king, whether led at a trump or at no trump.

When led against a trump bid the lead of king proclaims the holding of the card immediately above or immediately below it, ace or queen.

This lead, simple in itself, accomplishes three things: It gives one a look at the case, it encourages the player still holds the lead; it tells the partner precisely what high card or cards are back of it, and it admits of the partner starting or not starting an echo, either one of which plays gives useful information.

The echo is made by the play to the lead of king of a higher card of the suit, and to the next round of a lower card. It is made only when the partner holds two small cards only of the suit, or when, holding three, queen is one of them.

So much for the lead of king when ace is in hand. Now for the king lead from king's queen. This lead also is a good lead against a trump declaration, not so good, to be sure, as the ace-king combination (which in reality is the ideal combination from which to lead at a trump), but nevertheless a sound and good lead.

Just as much as is the lead of king from ace, king, etc., it is in perfect accord with the principles governing the lead at a trump declaration, namely, the advisability of making one's high cards early.

Now as to the inferences from one's partner's play to one's lead of king. To this lead should he play the two-spot he is not starting an echo, and either he holds two or more cards of the suit (if two only, queen not being one) or he holds no more.

When king is led from ace, king, etc., the lead is in position to utilize the inference the echo affords at once, but when the lead is from king, queen, etc., and ace is held by the declarer, the inference the declarant generally has two or more rounds of trumps, disarming the adversary, and thus rendering the inference would then be useless.

Now, as to another exceedingly informative lead—the lead when ace and king only are held. When in such case the player still makes his high cards early, he reverses the usual form of lead and leads ace, followed by king. This form is a generally recognized convention to indicate to one's partner that these two cards only of the suit are held, and that the player can trump the third round. This, by the way, is the only time when ace is led when king also is held.

The question, then, is how best to get the lead to one's partner. If he has made a bid there can be but one answer—lead the suit he has bid. While it is important generally at once to lead the suit one's partner has bid; it is usually better if holding an ace-king combination, more especially if holding ace and king only, first to make the high cards of this suit. In so doing one gives important inferences as to his holding, and often furnishes the partner with a clue as to the best lead when it seems no longer advisable to go on with his own suit.

In cases, however, when one's partner has not bid and one is entirely ignorant as to his special holding, the most effective way usually of putting him in the lead is by a trump lead. This, of course, is a king-queen sequence. Suits made up of high and low cards, broken strength and on principle are good suits to lead through: Ace and king, for instance, castles, coopers and, of course, frying pans for pan-broiling meat.

player and often admits of his winning with a card which otherwise it would have been impossible to win. In other words, it gives one's partner the advantage of ace and position in auction has more to do in enabling one's partner to win tricks with otherwise impossible cards than many players realize.

Let us take a concrete example: The dealer, we will say, has the bid at "one spade." The leading player holds three small spades and ace and king only of hearts. With the two-fold object of making his two commanding hearts and of getting a ruff on the third round of the spades, he leads ace and then king of hearts.

His aim now is to get the lead to his partner, but as he has not bid, he knows nothing as to his holding. The dummy hand, however, he notes, contains king, jack and a small club, broken strength. He, therefore, leads a club, and the declarer, who holds small clubs only, realizes his hand—trump, ace and king—and passes, but the dummy will likely play directly over him.

This player, we will assume, holds ace, queen and one small club. He wins the first trick with the queen and then leads, not the ace of clubs (that would be exceedingly bad play), but the king. He, therefore, leads a club, and the declarer, who holds small clubs only, realizes his hand—trump, ace and king—and passes, but the dummy will likely play directly over him.

When can say that the adversaries may not offset to a greater or less extent the very apparent advantage enjoyed by the declarant?

Chicken Can Be Roasted on Top of Range. And Bird Can Be Broiled Just as Crisply and Deliciously.

YOU can roast the Sunday chicken much more economically—and brown it just as crisply and deliciously—if you do part of the cooking on top of the range and part in the oven.

This is a good time for the housewife to buy the double aluminum roaster. It has been yearning for anything else in aluminum ware; for aluminum utensils, for some reason or other, are always dear, and are usually more expensive than iron pots and pans. Some utensils, however, are much better in iron; for instance, cast-iron cooking and, of course, frying pans for pan-broiling meat.

Beauty Bows at Shrine of Modern Chemistry

FRENCHMAN'S DISCOVERY IS HERALDED AS BETTER MEANS OF "MAKING THE FACE OVER"

AS EVER, chemistry and surgery are head—just when cosmetic surgery is at its height, comes Prof. DeVillers, noted French chemist, with a plastic formula which "takes up" the sagging lines of the face, giving peach bloom complexions, certainly and painlessly in the privacy of the home. This wonderful compound he calls PLEX.

NOTE THE STORY YOUR MIRROR TELLS Here is a simple way to prove what PLEX will do for you. Stand before your mirror—place your hands in an upright position with thumbs on the ears—cover your face with your hands, so little fingers lay on your nose. Now mildly draw the skin by pulling your hands toward the ears until your thumbs touch at back of the head. Hold there. Study your face. What's the result? You look several years younger—don't you? PLEX will do the same thing your hands did, which proves Prof. DeVillers' principle is right. PLEX pulls the tired skin of your face back to place and by its powerful astringent properties, holds it there. It is easy to apply—certain in its work and harmless as the morning dew. Some women's faces age prematurely and they must go through life with the curse of wrinkles. Start today to "make your face over." PLEX will help you and quickly, too. By its use any one may look much younger than their age. In a few days your friends will delight you with expressions of "how much better you look," etc. It may be used in secret if you so desire. Your most intimate friends may never know. Remember that the skin is the foundation of beauty. Your face is the touchstone of your charm, so let it be your first consideration.

HOW PLEX MAKES YOUR FACE OVER You make a creamy mixture from a gray powder which you plaiter all over your face—read or nap for thirty or forty minutes. It is drying you experience a sensation more delightful than a massage and you can feel each pore throbbing with new life. It then pulls the tired skin back to place. Its action is gentle, yet positive. It purges the skin, flushes the pores of all impurities as if squeezed from a tube. You wash it off with a wet soft towel and it then reveals its worth—hardly believable—in this short time every wrinkle is diminished and your face will glow like the youth of healthy childhood—skin soft and velvety. When removed every-thing comes off with it but the skin—its natural healthy color, its clear every pore cleaned of foreign matter. This action allows the pores to close naturally. You must not expect results in any other way. While it is powerful and certain in its work, it is painless, safe, beneficial, safe; is pure as the breath of spring, and is beneficial to the tenderest skin. Modern custom approves and endorses nothing like PLEX, so don't confuse PLEX with face powders, hair-growing creams, salves, plasters, masks, massages, ointments, lotions, or cosmetics of any kind. It is "different," and that "difference" is why it does its work so surely. Now, my good woman, don't let the years slip by the ears. Get PLEX today. IT WILL keep the age from showing in your face.

WHY PLEX WORKS WONDERS NATURALLY By covering the face with PLEX, you keep the air away from the pores. This action brings the blood to the surface and opens the pores so that the skin can breathe. PLEX contains a vegetable oil that goes to the bottom of the pores and dissolves any foreign matter that they may contain. Another brings blood to the surface and invigorates the skin glands, leaving the skin smooth, clear, pink and healthy. Like all the best skin treatments, PLEX is so simple, so beneficial, so effective that it justifies the face by training the skin to function regularly and properly. Keep indefinitely in the habit of using PLEX.

PLEX CANNOT, WILL NOT, FAIL If directions are followed, PLEX will make dry or oily skins normal, take out blackheads almost instantly, pimples certainly and enlarged pores undisturbedly, diminish wrinkles about the eyes, nose and mouth, bring the black from under the eyes, blotches, red nose, freckles, spots, etc., bring bloom to faded cheeks, straighten the nose, brighten the eyes, give the hair a healthy glow. Stop following the old methods. Just try PLEX and see how healthy or retain their beauty will find PLEX the very thing they have been looking for. PLEX will make old faces look younger and will keep young faces from looking old. Used by famous beauties, society leaders, stage favorites and movie stars, PLEX is the most wonderful skin beauty that has ever been discovered. Use it. You will be delighted with it.

NO OCCASION TO BE DOUBTFUL We want you to believe our printed word the same as if we talked to you face to face at the factory. We are honest, sober, serious, and conscientious in our statements. We have seen wonderful results produced by PLEX in our almost unbreakable and by these tests our claims are substantiated. Remember the PLEX standard of purity, the PLEX guarantee and the PLEX formula back of each container marketed. Start its use today—look better tomorrow.

WE CANNOT FURNISH SAMPLES Because we are running the factory night and day to capacity to fill our orders, which run into the thousands daily. A sample, you will see, would necessitate extra machinery, extra help, etc. The extra cost of the sample would be more than the value of the sample. PLEX is sold in 25-cent and 50-cent bottles from high-priced ingredients, by high-salaried chemists, and sold for $5.00 a container before Thomas A. Edison's suggestion made it possible to cheapen the cost of production and still maintain a high standard of quality, which places it within the limit of the average purse. Most women who wished a better face for just one cent composed as Prof. DeVillers has made possible. It sells for $2.50 a container. Not expensive when you consider the work it does. PLEX is the most wonderful skin beauty that has ever been discovered. Use it. You will be delighted with it.

OF COURSE PLEX IS GUARANTEED If, after the first application, according to directions, PLEX does not produce results that you can feel and see, returns the unused portion, and we will give you your money back. PLEX has plastic properties both tried, and sure, that is why we can hardly keep up with our orders. This guarantee makes the way easy for you—because you are taking no chances. Once you use PLEX you are ever after a satisfied customer.
