

AMUNDSEN'S SHIP STARTS FOR NORTH

Great Crowd at Seattle Dock as Maud Sails.

SCIENCE IS FIRST OBJECT

Famous Explorer Plans to Study Ocean and Magnetic Currents and Drift of Ice Pack.

(Continued from First Page.) Oceanographical knowledge in the northern hemisphere. The first effort met with delay in 1920 when the Maud lost a propeller in the ice off the northeastern Siberian coast and was forced to put into Seattle for repairs.

Ocean Currents to Be Studied. The expedition, Captain Amundsen has repeatedly declared, is primarily a scientific one, and while he hopes to reach the north pole—he discovered the south pole in 1911—the study of ocean and magnetic currents, the drift of the ice pack and movements of the air will be his first objective.

Plans Important Items. The two airplanes—one capable of carrying nine passengers, and the other a three-seater—and the wireless outfit, the explorer deems the most important items of the vessel's equipment. With the planes—the "eyes of the ship"—he will make an intensive exploration of the huge area of almost a million square miles, covering the "roof of the world."

Every Precaution Taken. Every precaution has been taken to guard the expedition against the whims of fate in the Arctic that so often in the past have caused the failure of explorative efforts and resulted in tragedy for those who took part in them. Captain Amundsen is skeptical of the theory that an explorer can "live on the country" in that part of the world, and the Maud has been stocked with provisions for last seven years. Sixty tons of fuel oil have been taken aboard.

One Native With Expedition. Captain Amundsen expects to drift past the pole from a point off northern Siberia to Spitzbergen, within five or six years.

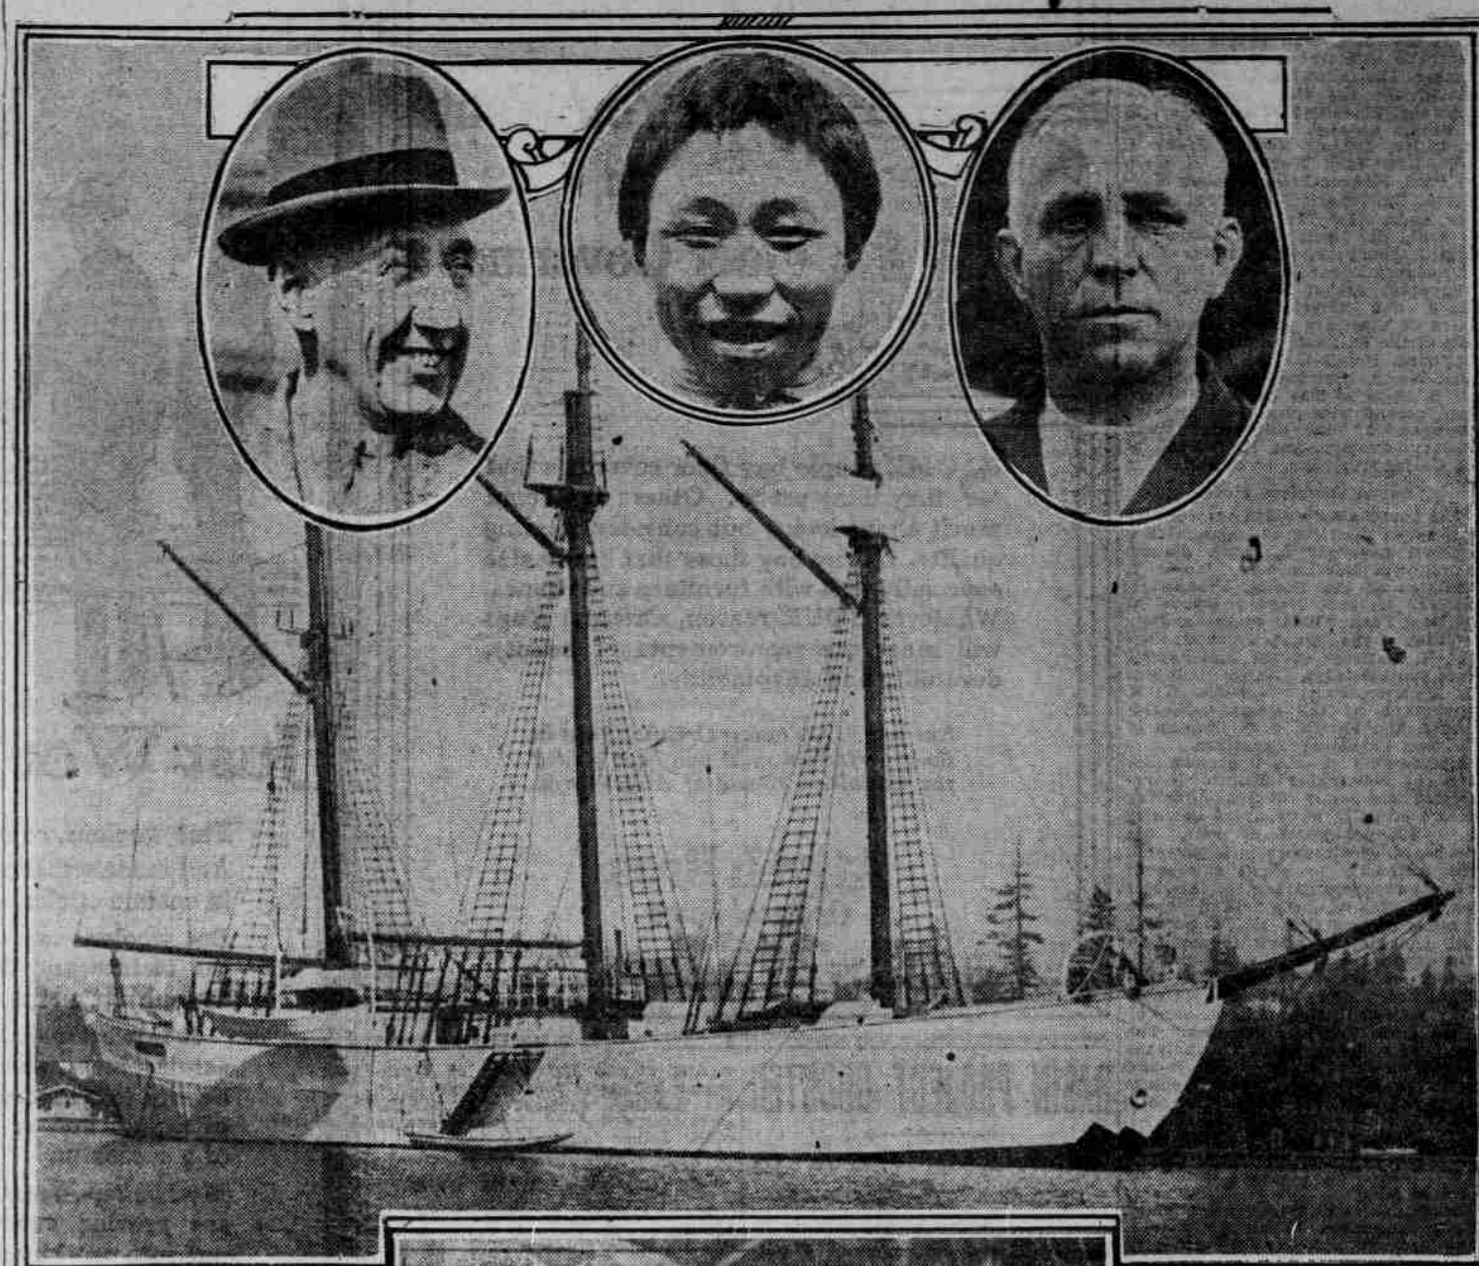

Finns Will Go to Russia. Astoria Party Said to Have Obtained Fishing Rights. ASTORIA, Or., June 3.—(Special.)—A party of 60 Finnish men, women and children, all socialists and many of them naturalized citizens, will leave here tomorrow morning by train for New York en route to the Karelia district of northern Russia.

J. L. Bowman Inspects Operations. BROWNSVILLE, Or., June 3.—(Special.)—J. L. Bowman of Portland has been in Brownsville inspecting the work of the carpenters who are erecting the new buildings at the woolen mill and putting new rustle on old buildings. He said the work on the building which will house the woolen mill store and office will start at once. The new dye house is now finished, and some of the machinery is in place.

WEDDING TO BE NOVEL

TEN-DAY FESTIVITIES TO FEATURE ROYAL MATING.

King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia to Marry Princess Marie of Roumania June 8.

On arrival of the Rumanian royal family at Belgrade there will be an official and national reception, followed by a procession of delegates from all the Jugo-Slav colonies. The king and his future bride then will proceed in state to the cathedral, where a solemn te deum will be sung. The next day a reception of all the deputations from the various provinces, dressed in national costume and bearing gifts for the bride and bridegroom, will be held. In the evening there will be a gala dinner at the palace, followed by a concert by the royal court orchestra.

has all the reserve of a foreign girl reared in seclusion. Mother Is Suspicious. Mathilde's father has never met the man his daughter has chosen for her husband, but her mother, with whom she lived in Switzerland, knows him and knows about him. And what she does not know about him she suspects. She regards him as a seasoned fortune-hunter with a long record of unsuccessfully-pursued heiresses to his credit—or discredit.

Swiss Customs Objection. But it is something more than consideration for money that prompts the mother's heart to cry out in protest against the union. She wants her daughter to have the freedom and equality that is the heritage of every American-born girl. "Why, under the common law of Switzerland," she said through Charles S. Cutting, one of her attorneys, "a husband may even lock his wife up in a room and keep her there if she does not do his bidding."
