

ADVENTISTS BUILD SMALL TENT CITY

Western Oregon Camp Meeting to Open Tuesday.

SEVEN PAVILIONS READY

Stores, Bookshops and 300 Family Tents Provided; Prominent Leaders Will Speak.

The western Oregon conference of Seventh Day Adventists will open Tuesday on the camp ground at East Sixteenth and East Glean streets, west of the Benson Tech high school. The campmeeting will continue until Sunday, June 25.

With its seven large pavilions, its display of tents for the various departments, its 300 family tents, its stores and bookshops, the campmeeting is in reality a miniature city.

The main pavilion is 92 by 122 feet and has a capacity of from 1500 to 2000 persons. The other pavilions are 50 by 70 feet in size. In one is housed a cafeteria, which will supply vegetarian meals to the campers, as the Seventh Day Adventists teach and quite generally practice vegetarianism.

Conference Territory Large.

The western Oregon conference comprises that portion of Oregon lying west of Gilliam and Wheeler counties and north of Lake, Klamath and Lane counties, and in addition takes in Skamania, Clarke, Cowitz, Waiilatup and a part of Pacific counties in Washington. In this territory the denomination has 3264 members and employs 15 ministers and other laborers.

G. A. Roberts will preside at all the business sessions. He succeeds H. W. Cottrell as president of the conference.

Several tents of uniform size will contain the exhibits of the various departments. Portland sanitarium, which recently opened its new hospital at East Sixteenth and Belmont streets, will have a tent where doctors and nurses will be in attendance at all times.

Pavilion Is Provided.

Not only a display tent, but a large pavilion is provided for the missionary volunteer department under the care of Miss Minnie E. Dauphinee. This department deals with the devotional and missionary activities of young people.

The Sabbath school department, in charge of Miss Edith Starbuck, has its display tent and two pavilions where sessions will be held twice daily for the children of kindergarten and primary age. This department also conducts the large Sabbath school each week.

The department of home missions, under the direction of C. E. Oleot, is concerned with training church members for helpful Christian service in their own neighborhoods. Still another department is that headed by R. E. Keller, which has to do with the deportments of the denomination. Many of the young people in the academies and colleges earn their scholarships each year by the sale of books and magazines.

For the benefit of those who cannot readily understand the English language, services will be held daily in both German and Scandinavian.

Among the well-known speakers to be present are Arthur G. Danfells, world secretary of the denomination and for 31 years president of the world conference; R. D. Quinn, field secretary of the world conference; C. A. Russell and F. H. Westphal, for 28 years a missionary in South America.

FUEL PLANT DESTROYED

EARLY MORNING FIRE DOES
DAMAGE OF $12,000.

Occupants of Rooming House
Forced to Flee in Night Garb
When Alarm Sounded.

Fire which started in the garage of the Western Fuel company, 285 East Morrison street, destroyed the company's plant and spread through the Bridge apartment and rooming house at 2 o'clock yesterday morning causing damage estimated by fire bureau officials at approximately $12,000.

The fire had gained such headway before it was discovered that the garage, containing four motor trucks and one touring automobile, was totally destroyed. Considerable wood also went up in flames.

Nearly a score of occupants of the rooming house were forced to flee in their night garments when the landlady was awakened by the smoke fumes and sounded the alarm. Some of the guests saved a part of their personal belongings, but for the most part their property was a total loss.

A loss of about $2000 was sustained by the Farm Utilities company through damage to gas engines and other farm machinery. The loss of the fuel company was partially covered by insurance, as was that of the apartment and rooming house.

Three alarms were sounded, bringing fire apparatus from both sides of the river. Both fire boats also responded and did considerable work in combating the flames.

Sleeping Sickness Reported.

The sixth case of lethargic encephalitis or sleeping sickness, was recorded for the year, when Dr. Otis B. Wight yesterday reported to the city health department that Andrew Norgard, 28, had been taken to the sanitarium at St. Vincent's hospital, suffering with this disease. Norgard resides on the Barnes road. His condition was not critical at last report. Three deaths occurred among the five recorded cases previously reported this year.

Collector Leaves for China.

SEATTLE, Wash June 10.—Henry Blackwood, special deputy collector of customs for the district of Washington, left today on the steamer President McKinley for Shanghai, where he will sit as an associate member of the commission on tariff revision in China.
