

CANTON CAPTURED BY GENERAL CHEN

Obstacles to Reunion of China Removed

OUTLOOK IS BRIGHTER

Dr. Sun Yat Sen Is Reported to Have Fled From Canton.

Collapse Is Complete.

Countries into an anti-monarchical organization. When the revolution of 1911 broke and was followed in 1912 by the abdication of the boy emperor, Hsuan Tung, the republican government set up at Nanjing elected Sun Yat Sen president. Soon after he retired in favor of Yuan Shih Kai, but when Yuan turned traitor to the republican cause and attempted himself to ascend the dragon throne Sun vociferously opposed him.

Following Yuan's coup, the then premier, Tuan Jui, dissolved the republican parliament, and with that anti-democratic stroke in 1917 the constitutional government of South China which yesterday collapsed came into being.

Sun fled to Canton, taking the navy with him, and established the South China government and continued to be its dominant figure until he fled from his presidential palace yesterday with Chen Chung-Ming's troops battering the gate.

CANFIELD JR. IN COURT

NOT GUILTY, ASSERTS SON OF FAMOUS GAMBLER.

Reputed Heir to Million Accused of Gaming, Disturbing Peace of Hollywood, Cal.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 17.—(Special).—Hollywood air is so clarified that it carries sound for great distances. It carried a few nights ago the hilarious laughter of women and the raucous shouts of men from a residence at 6574 Fountain avenue to the ears of many neighbors. Therein lies the tale of the arrest of Richard Canfield Jr., self-assured heir to $1,000,000 and the son of the late Richard Canfield, New York's erstwhile leading gambler.

Young Canfield was arrested by Detective Sergeants Jarvis and Nece of the Hollywood division on a charge of disturbing the peace. Neighbors complained that he was shouting obscenities at night because of the "wild orgies" that occurred nightly at Canfield's home. They reported that intoxicated men by the score were seen to leave the house and make their way to the street. "I may be drunk, but I'm not cheating," he said to the police.

But young Canfield, in Police Judge Chambers' court, where he appeared for trial yesterday, declared he never gambled in his life, though his father obtained a fortune that way.

Also, according to the complainants, many fashionably dressed women were seen entering and leaving young Canfield's home.

"Not guilty," said the young man when he appeared in Judge Chambers' court. He said he was the only son of the famous "Dick" Canfield, New York's king of gamblers.

Army Is in Danger

As the result of Chen's coup at Canton, Dr. Sun's principal army is in a precarious position. These forces are facing 12,000 of Wu's troops at Nanchang in Kiangsu province while the host army of General Chen occupies their base at Canton.

General Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian leader, who had previously eliminated in a conciliatory mood as a result of his recent defeat by Wu's Chiang army on the Chihlin-Chiang frontier, is opening communications with the southern army. It is reported to have hoarded a British warship at Chihwangtang to arrange an armistice.

Advices received here vary as to the details of what are called the last hours of the southern constitutional government, nor is it definitely known how many of the troops preceded Sun Yat-Sen's flight.

One dispatch from American sources in Canton declares that Sun's bodyguard continued to hold the presidential palace in the face of the assaults of Yechui's troops after their leader had taken refuge aboard a gunboat and left for Whampoa.

City Suddenly Surrounded

Another report said that Chen Chung-Ming's forces, commanded by Yechui, suddenly surrounded Canton, seized the forts, invaded the city and marched upon the presidential palace. The fall of the southern leader is said to have been the result of an agreement between General Wu Pei-Fu, dominant military chieftain of northern China, and General Li Yuan-Hung and Chen Chung-Ming, formerly Sun Yat-Sen's supporter, but who lately came out in favor of a reunited China.

Official circles here assert the elimination of Sun-Yat-Sen will mean speeding up of the plans to reunify the country. However, they issue the warning that the anti-revolution may develop if Sun is able to gather enough troops about him to launch a drive to regain Canton.

Unless Sun is able to retrieve his lost authority, it is believed that Chen Chung-Ming's coup will result in many southern members of the old republican government proceeding to Peking and establishing the necessary quorum to put that legislative body in legal motion once again.

HIGHWAY RULING ISSUED

Right-of-Way Material Held Open for Use by State.

OLYMPIA, Wash., June 17.—(Special).—Use of the material within the right-of-way of a state highway for construction or maintenance purposes would be a reasonable use and the abutting property owner would have no right to such material beyond the eighth grade applicable for highway purposes, C. G. Jeffers, assistant-attorney general, today advised James Allen, supervisor of highways.

J. Grant Hinkle, secretary of state, left today for Portland to represent the United States at the dedication of the Washington at the dedication of the Columbia river. Governor Hart is attending the ceremonies attendant upon the opening of Rasmus national park.

PUPILS PLAN TO GO ON

Lewis County Graduates to Continue School Work.

CENTRALIA, Wash., June 17.—(Special).—The efforts made to induce pupils to continue their school work beyond the eighth grade appear to be bearing fruit in Lewis county. Of the 491 pupils who passed the recent eighth grade examination in the county, 448 signified their intention to enter high school in the fall.

In reply to the question, "What are you planning to do as your life work?" 33 chose the teaching profession, 32 geology, 20 mechanical, 17 engineering, 16 electrical engineering, 15 business, 15 bookkeeping, 13 nursing, 10 music and 10 civil engineering.

Pythians Have Convention.

NORTH BEND, Or., June 17.—(Special).—North Bend was the center of Pythianism when delegates of knights and sisters from Bandon, Myrtle Point and Conque to the number of 235 gathered here in annual convention and banqueted at the Hotel North Bend, with a business meeting in the afternoon and a program at night. Left Pineseth of Dallas, grand chancellor, made an address.

POLITICS ALREADY BUBBLES AT HAGUE

Purely Expert Conference on Russia Impossible.

LOBBYISTS ALSO ACTIVE

More Palatable Dish for Soviet Government Than That Presented at Genoa Likely.

BY SAMUEL SPEWACK. (Copyright, 1922, by the New York World. Published by Arrangement.)
THE HAGUE, June 17.—(Special cable).—Politics has entered The Hague conference on Russia, despite official declarations that this was to be a purely expert meeting.

The political trend is indicated by the Belgian and Czechoslovakian departure from the French path. Belgium has joined the conference actively, while Charles Benoist, French minister to Holland, says he cannot participate actively until he gets instructions from Paris. This latter point resulted in postponement of further meetings until Monday afternoon—and by that time the French cabinet had decided they will have had a chance to discuss the situation.

Even more pronounced is Czechoslovakia's split with French policy in regard to Russia. I am informed that the leader of the little entente has informed France that she is no longer in a position to support the unyielding French stand.

Situation Has Changed.

"We have a commercial agreement in our pockets," the Czechoslovakian representative told me. "We are no longer interested in those questions of property, debts and credits. The situation has changed since Genoa."

But while these political currents are flowing where politics was forbidden, the British and French are making every effort to build up a united front to be presented to the Russians. The British are already talking of the "method of approaching Russia."

They make no secret of their intention to prepare a more palatable dish than was served the soviets at Genoa. But it is doubtful that they will cook up anything like a fixed plan that can be answered by a plain yes or no.

Lobbyists Are Coming.

My information is that the problem will be handled, if all agree, by settling individual cases of confiscated property without academic argument about principles. This is what the British hope for, but they fear French insistence on the letter of the law.

So politics has entered, and with it the lobbyists. Of these Hugo Stinnes is by far the most prominent. He was here only for the day.

"Financiers who have interests in Russia are arriving and the same secrecy marks their movements here as at Genoa. But the real rush will come when the oil men begin coming, as they are expected about the time the Russians are due. They are the men who are prepared—so one hears—to talk business."

Conducted by C. D. Lazenby of Jefferson High and I. A. Melendy of Franklin High, associated with other high school teachers from the various city high schools.

Work in all academic and commercial subjects for which there is a demand. Both review and advanced work is offered. One-hour recitations for review work and two-hour recitations for advanced work. For review work our credits are accepted by all city High Schools without further examination. Advanced work requires an examination by the High School entered. Meet at 9 A. M. (tomorrow), Ladd School Bldg., West Park and Jefferson.

In computing tuition, an advanced subject counts same as two review subjects.

Compulsory Education Indorsed.

MARSHFIELD, Or., June 17.—(Special).—At a general gathering of Masons, Knights of Pythias and Oddfellows, held in this city, it was decided to support a compulsory school law and to prepare and circulate petitions of approval. The meeting was called by E. G. Johnson of Marshfield. The movement to require such a provision to be enacted into law relates, particularly to primary grades, but probably would cover some of the intermediate grades as well. Those attending said that petitions would be placed in circulation immediately.

RAFT SCHEME PROMISING

Increase in Log Supply at Grays Harbor Is Expected.

HOQUIAM, Wash., June 17.—(Special).—Providing the rafting of logs from the Quillayute Boom & Drilling company's operations in the section through which the Quillayute river flows to Grays Harbor is successful, there will be available to local mills additional timber in large amount, including much of that blown down during the storm a year ago, which is now being logged.

G. G. Davis of Vancouver, B. C., inventor of the Davis log raft, is on his way to Quillayute to assist in making the first raft, which is expected to reach the harbor about the end of the month.
