without the least disturbance or semblance of disorder, railroad ship crafts employed on Oregon railroad lines walked out yesterday morning in answer to the strike order recently voted by members of the various unlens throughout the United States. The walkout was not 100 per cent, but it appeared to be a convincing demonstration. In some of the biggest shops the walkout was 90 per cent.

Trains ran as usual yesterday and this was expected. The heads of the rail systems serving this state declared after their men quit work that there will be no stoppage of usual operation, at least not for the present, and none is expected, they walked the formal rail expected as trike organization, a general committee in the from the received yesterday morning committee in the from the executive committee in Chicago, some of the union committee in Chicago, some of the union Chicago, some of the union chairman of the western rail executives.
