

PALESTINE TO KEEP RELIGIOUS LIBERTY

Britain to Maintain Equal Opportunity for All.

COMMONS VOTE CITED

Any Change in Policy Would Be Crime Against Welfare of World, Says Gardiner.

BY A. G. GARDINER. Britain's Greatest Liberal Editor. (Copyright, 1932, by The Oregonian.) LONDON, July 8.—(Special Cable.)—Great Britain's policy of equal opportunity for all creeds in Palestine will prevail. The action of the house of commons in crushing the opposition to the Rutenberg concessions dismisses the likelihood that there will be any departure from the present plans. The formidable attack in the lords and the commons upon Zionism has ended in a fiasco. During the war Balfour committed England to the undertaking that the Jewish return to Palestine would be its policy when hostilities ended in accordance with that promise England, assuming the Palestine mandate, adopted a scheme to promote that end. The object was not to establish a Jewish state. That was impossible in view of the predominance of the Arab population and also in view of the fact that Palestine contains the holy place of three competing religions, Christian, Jewish and Mohammedan. In the circumstances a Jewish state was aimed, not at giving Jews preference, but in establishing a just impartial state where Jews, equally with Arabs and Christians, would find a secure home.

for City, McMinnville, from McMinnville; the Salem Cherrians, the Vancouver Prunarians, the Royal Rosarians and drill team from Portland and several hosts from surrounding communities and commercial concerns, and decorated automobiles. A caravan of more than 20 Ford motorcars and trucks ended the line. The parade passed in review at the city park after passing through the principal streets adjoining which there was another appropriate programme under the auspices of a booster organization and ruled over by Queen Evah and the goddess of Liberty. A prominent feature of the celebration was the fine exhibits of products in Calkin's garage. Free berries and cream were served to all visitors.

OREGON CITY, Or., July 8.—(Special.)—Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Straight and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. They also saw the herds of buffalo, one of the herds being kept for the summer in a corral one mile south of the Mammoth hotel on the road to Hunsdon Peak.

NEWBERG'S BERRY FESTIVAL REFLECTS COMMUNITY PRIDE

Celebration of Week End Replete With Interesting Features and Remarkable for Fine Civic Spirit Displayed by Berrians.

BY ADDISON BRINNETT. THE people of Newberg are of a modest disposition. In a modest way, claiming no credit, offering no apologies or excuses, without the sign or thought of a boast, they pull stunts that would appear wonderful in any other town of three or four times the size of Newberg, which the census bureau defines as a couple of hundred short or 300.

In speaking thus of Newberg the praise should go to their bunch of admirable berrians—the Berrians. Most of the people in this part of Oregon know about the Berrians, and many saw them this year—as they did last year—walk with a 310 prize in the Portland rose parade for having the best decorated float in the parade.

The Berrians are twins, or triplets, or in some way related to the Rosarians of Portland, the Cherrians of Salem, the Prunarians of Vancouver, Wash., and other similar societies. But all of these organizations are for the good of their home town and none of them let an opportunity pass for boosting its town.

Everybody loves a winner, everybody sympathizes with and assists a booster—that is, everybody worth shucks—and that is why the McMinnvillians came down 25 automobiles loaded with people headed by the band, got down early with their mayor, and from every machine was hung a banner, "Our Sister City."

Other features of the parade were the goddesses—especially "Soup," that selection was really made by the audience, for they were supposed to sing only two selections, seemed very, very happy; and as they passed the hats were lifted and he smiled a return. Never will he forget what his fellow Berrians did for him. The parade was headed by the firing squad of the Lester C. Reese post of the American Legion, that is when the marshal of the day or one of his assistants was not in the lead. The marshal was Henry C. Morris; his first assistant, Chondos Chase; second assistant, R. L. Parker. Following the squad in foot came the five cars of the officials, and then—oh, well, I cannot string out the entire marching order as it was; but somewhere was the old float of the Rose Festival, but so differently decorated that but few knew it, then somewhere was the queen, and the Hillsboro Goddess of Liberty, and a few scores of automobiles all filled to the guards, and the entire family of Fords and Fordsons—tractors—and, and—well, let it go at that.

BANDIT DRIVER TALKS

Others Robbed-Cowherd Superintendent, Negro States.

The holdup of R. E. Shors, superintendent of building for the Fletcher-Cowherd Real Estate & Mortgage company, in which a $400 payroll was taken, was engineered by white men, according to the written confession made by John Bowles, 27 years old, negro. Bowles says he drove the bandit motor car. He implicates Cyril Dougherty, 1114 East Tenth street, and a third negro, known as "Fred," who has gone to St. Louis. Bowles is a taxi cab driver. He states that Dougherty asked him if he desired to earn $50 by driving a car for Dougherty and another man. Bowles went to garage at Fourteenth street and Woodland avenue and borrowed the Hudson motor car of Joseph Cooper.

At sixteenth street and Forest avenue he said that they met "Fred" and drove them to Robert Gilham road and Forty-fourth street, where Dougherty and "Fred" held up Shors. Bowles says that part of the money was split between "Fred" and Dougherty and the remainder went to the white men who engineered the robbery. He did not name the white men. Dougherty, who was arrested with Bowles, will not talk. Both are held at police headquarters.

BOND SALE IS HELD UP

Technical Error in Advertising Delays Highway Funds.

OREGON CITY, Or., July 8.—(Special.)—The sale of highway improvement bonds aggregating $152,350 will not be consummated Monday. A technical error in the procedure of advertising the sale of the bonds has been discovered and arrangement for their disposal is to be held up by the county court for another month at least. Although the representative of a Portland bond house has guaranteed the sale of the bonds by August 1, it is doubtful if the contracts for road work which were to have been let Monday will be carried through. The county court is not in a position to undertake the work until the funds are fully guaranteed, it was indicated.

Entertain White Salmon Women.

WHITE SALMON, Wash., July 8.—(Special.)—A special garden party was given for the members of the Women's Club of White Salmon and Underwood by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Williams at their ranch home, "The Hall of Underwood," in the north White Salmon district Friday afternoon, at which event their daughter, Mrs. E. P. Gardner of Seattle, and Dorothy Hall of Underwood gave a programme of interpretative dances.

for she is a lovely queen, just a lovely woman, and very beautifully appareled. But I thought King Bing treated her shabbily. He did not ride out in the chariot with her; he did not meet her until she came up to the stage at the park—and about 2000 people looking on. Then she spoke her piece. She wore a crown with a coronet of near-diamonds. Then she received the key to the city, looked around for a good-looking stranger, and seeing none, handed it to me—with never a murmur from Black Cap.

Another number on the stage at the grounds was a very pretty dance by a diminutive young lady whose name I did not get. The space is blank on my notes, but she is a very beautiful girl, and she probably the ladies-in-waiting to the queen—and of the goddess of Liberty. I did not attempt to, for there were about 20 in all, 10 little misses, each with a basket of rose leaves scattering them in the pathway of the queen. Then there were four ladies-in-waiting for each royal lady. And there was some speaking, too, not mentioning the casual flow of remarks from the presiding officer, Black Cap Butt. Firm was H. W. Kent, executive secretary of the Portland Rose Festival association. He also presented a silver cup from the Portland Rose Festival. He was followed by William F. Merry, chairman of outside participants of Portland Rose Festival board of governors. That sounds like some title, but the king was very probably a crisp check for $100, won by them at the recent Portland affair. The king, very handsomely and gentlemanly handed it over to me, and she pocketed it! It may be a long time before she gives it up.

Judge Morrow of Portland was loudly called for and finally came forward and said a few congratulatory words—go-rounds, games of chance and games of skill, and then, in the middle of the afternoon, came the ball game between the Salem Senators and the disciples of St. Paul—I mean the ball players of St. Paul.

At last, but far from being the least, I will mention a new building, $5100, built by the Lester C. Reese post of the American Legion. It is not finished yet, but the floor and roof are in place and the dancing was kept up until a late hour. And that building is typical of Newberg. The city gave $2000 towards it, which probably would pretty near pay for the material, and the boys did the work. When completed it will be one of the finest homes of any post in Oregon.

And next year? Well, Newberg will then, no doubt, far exceed the doings of yesterday. The people there are not used to moving backward—their watch word is "Forward."

rade in Portland, and was pronounced much prettier than the float that won so much admiration at the rose fete. In line, too, were 60 Royal Rosarians of Portland, who arrived in a fleet of automobiles and whose appearance was patty and reminiscent of Rose Festival days. The Portlanders brought a note of co-operation from the metropolis to the berry center.
