HIGH SCHOLARSHIP UNIVERSITY STRESS

Less Attention Paid to Number of Students.

RECOGNITION IS GAINED

Dr. George F Zook, Higher Educational Authority, Has Praise for State School.

The University of Oregon is more concerned with its increased more concerned with its increased scholastic efficiency as indicated in revised and augmented courses, en-larged library and strengthened faculty, then even with the increase in the number of its students or the size and value of its physical equipment, important as are both of these

Recognition of the university's recognition of the university strength in scholarship has come recently from no less an authority than Dr. George F. Zook, specialist in higher education for the United States bureau of education, who recently completed an investigation of the higher educational instituquiry was the first made since the survey by Dr. S. P. Capen for the bureau in 1915, at which time he saw much to praise in the institu-

Progress Is Seen.

"It was, of course, a very inter-esting thing for me to compare the esting thing for me to compare the university at the present time with what it was doing during the time when Dr. Capen made his report," said Dr. Zook in a letter recently received here. "I cannot but feel that the university has made great progress during the time since Dr. Capen made the survey."

Of the situation in the University of Oregon with regard to research. Dr. Zook wrote:

"The provision which you have made for research at the university is fine. Our large universities ought to exist in part for research, but on account of the pressure of students in recent years, it has been nearly impossible for the state institutions to fulfill their proper functions along this line. I trust that it will soon be possible for the University of Oregon to appropriate a larger sum for the conduct of fundamental research." of fundamental research."

Research Is Encouraged.

The first formal budget for regents for the academic year 1921-22 and involved the sum of $5000. This was not all expended in the first year, on account of the heavy teaching schedules of a number of men engaged in research projects. The sum, however, made possible the continuing of about 20 projects. The faculty is rapidly becoming a producing one. New men are sel-

"I need not tell you," he said, "what is pleasure it was for me to see the development of the school of physical education, specially docacily one work may see the and the board of the development of the school of physical education, and the bard of the development which it has made along this line. It is undoubtedly a field in which Oregon takes a place of leadership. Also I was happy to see ership. Also I was happy to see the stimulation which you have given to the artistic side of university work, such as architecture, drama and painting."

Faculty Ranked High.

One of the distinct educational advances of the last two years has been the introduction of the prescribed course of study in all of the departments of the university's work. The course of study has been mapped out without eliminating all electives, in such a way as to give the students a unified course in which no elementary work is which no elementary work is the in the upper division (the rd and fourth years of the
