SPEED BOATS CLASH FOR TITLES AUG. 26

First Real Coast Championship Meet Billed.

COLUMBIA BEACH SCENE

Course in River to Measure Between Two and Three Miles; Invitations Sent Out.

Pacific coast motorboat sweepstakes, the first real coast championship speedboat meet in the history of Oregon motorboating, will be held over a course in the Columbia river Saturday afternoon, August 26. The course will measure between two and three miles in length, stretching along the broad expanse of Columbia beach, thus giving thousands an opportunity for an excellent view of the championship races.

Sweepstakes will be held for speedboats of all recognized classes. The affair, which is to be the biggest of its kind ever attempted in the Pacific northwest, has been sanctioned by the Portland motorboat club and will be supervised by Frank Linneman, one of the trustees of the club, an ardent speedboat enthusiast himself and owner of Tee-N-Tee, the fastest 320 class craft in the west.

Invitations Are Sent Out.

Invitations were telegraphed yesterday to every powerboat club on the Pacific coast. The entry list will be open to any boat west of the Mississippi. It is hoped to have entries from Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco, Seattle and Vancouver, B. C.

The races will be real tests, not mile-and-a-half heats with the boats scurrying along for a lap or two. It will be a case of the best boat winning, with plenty of room and time for class to tell.

To make the programme complete and determine the title in every class there will be two heats for 16-foot speedboats, two heats for 320 class speedboats and the grand free-for-all. Each of the heats in the 16-footer and 320 class races will be a six-mile race. The free-for-all will be a ten-mile race—a real test for real speedboats.

There will be substantial purses in every race, making the affair worth while for the best class of craft on the coast. There will also be championship cups for the winner in each class.

Portland Has Two Giants.

Portland has two giants of the river in Vogler Boy IV and Adcox I, rated among the fastest motorboats in the world. These water greyhounds will be eligible for the free-for-all. Motorboat followers have been stirred up all year over the ultimate clash between these two championship contenders. Three or four attempts have been made to bring them together, but some hitch has always arisen.

The Vogler Boy boats have been champions for several years. The Adcox is a new entry threatening the place long held by a Vogler Boy. It is said the Adcox can make the tremendous speed of 66 miles an hour. If the mystery boat, as the Adcox is termed along motorboat alley, can make that speed it is indeed a worthy foe for championship honors at any place.

Details of the sweepstakes, which promise to mean to the Pacific coast motorboat world what the Indianapolis sweepstakes mean to the automobile world, will be worked out soon.

Eddie Collins Has Record for World Series Work.

White Sox Second-Sacker Is Best Batter in Classic.

IF THE world series is to be won by money, we wonder why those American league clubs that are battling for first place have not purchased Eddie Collins, the old war horse who holds down second base for the White Sox. Eddie, all things considered, looks like the best bet for this baseball brief. First and foremost he has had the necessary experience in these titular diamond battles, as he has played in more of them than any other big leaguer.

To date Eddie has been through the war just six times, and it has been his good fortune to be on the winning side in four starts. Unlike most stars, Collins has always come through in a world series, as his record of scoring the most runs of any player ever to participate in the classic goes to show. According to the official scorers he has crossed home plate 20 times in these affairs.

This record is due to his ability with the big stick, for Collins likewise leads the pack in base hits, as he has rapped out 42, 32 which were singles. That he is a team player is also shown by history, for in one series he gained the record for making the most sacrifice hits. That was the series between the Athletics and Chicago in 1919, when he advanced the runner no fewer than eight times.

Because of all this one manager once remarked, upon losing a world series to the Athletics, that no club could win a world series with Collins playing against it. Probably that is why Eddie has been relegated to a non-contender. But we cannot see, if coin is to win the league races through purchase of players at this time, why some club has not garnered Eddie Collins.

Evidently golf is a matter of taste and experience. Which means that no instructor can make a champion. This is clearly indicated by the variety of methods. There is the flat swing and the upright, the aluminum putter and the cleek, the absence of that old standby—the mid-iron—from the bag of Sarazen, Hagen's straight-faced driver, Sarazen's short and long drives, Vardon's mongrel iron and Travers' jigger, for approaching, all to prove that the cracks have by no means agreed upon sticks or methods.

Most clubs are chosen as a result of experience, but an indeterminate quality causes the initial selection. A golfer will spend hours looking over clubs in a shop, suddenly one strikes him as having the right "feel." Or he will borrow one from a friend and if the first result with it is splendid, no amount is too high to pay for it. If not, it is useless.

Every champion has his methods and his own pet sticks. Considering all of which we are too prone to accept them at face value. Few of us can drive like Sarazen or get out of trouble like Hagen. Neither will their clubs help us. It is entirely a matter of working out the best method for our own particular needs. We have to cut the cloth differently for every customer, as the tailor puts it. That is well to remember when we read the enticing offers to do as the champions do.

IT MAY BE COMEDY FOR SOME FOLKS BUT IT'S TRAGEDY FOR ME.

AGGIE GRID CHANCES DIM

ONLY FOUR REGULARS WILL BE BACK THIS FALL.

Practice to Start About September 15; Doc Stewart After Post-Season Game.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Aug. 12.—(Special.)—Chances for a winning Oregon Aggie football team this fall are slight. Coach Rutherford will not have more than four regulars around whom to build his 1922 aggregation, with five subs from last year's eleven. Practice will start about September 15, only three days before registration.

Captain Percy Locey and Murius McFadden will be the only regulars on the line. Both will be hard to beat, however, both in experience and field playing. In the backfield Everett Miller is the only real regular. Locey will be stationed at tackle, McFadden at end, Miller at half and Hugh McKenna at quarter or half. Coach Rutherford predicts that Miller will have a great year in the backfield, and he also reports that McKenna is weighing 145 pounds now. It will be remembered that weight has been the diminutive quarter's drawback.

Those not on the regular lineup who will be back to try for positions are Ray Loughrey at end, Luke Gill for one of the halves, Dean Mickelwait at tackle opposite Locey and Dick Richert either at end or half. These men all made letters last fall, but did not get into enough games to prove themselves. Ed Clarke also worked to advantage on the Aggie line against Oregon, and may be in the lineup at the start of each game again this year, as he has weight and speed.

From the freshman eleven come several promising men who know how to handle the pigskin, with their chief limitation lack of experience. Big Mush Hjelte looms as one of the best bets for a regular berth. With the yearlings he was used at tackle, dropping back to make forward passes, and his aerials seldom were short of 50 yards. On other occasions his height helped him pull down forward passes just in front of the line. Herb Rich will have a job filling Bob Stewart's vacancy at center. Juddy Ash, a member of Doc Stewart's fighting combination, is back and will be eligible if he makes good.

Quarter is the big hole. Claude Christenson handled that position for the rooks last year, but lacks weight and experience. Two or three of Rutherford's basketball men expect to turn out for football. Besides Hjelte there are Glenn Perry and Moose Lyman, with John Ellertson as another possibility. Other yearlings who look good are Ken Julian, Ray McCart, Paul Irvine and Irving Day.

The Oregon Aggie schedule has been completed, with prospects of two more games. Doc Stewart wanted a post-season game with Rutherford's eleven, but when he left Corvallis there was no understanding that it would be played. According to Rutherford it is not too late yet to arrange a post-season game before the annual New Year's classic, should California win the Pacific coast championship. The Aggies' open date is November 11, Armistice day. Efforts will be made to land a game for that day to give Portland rooters a chance to see the Aggies play, as it would be hard to pass up a holiday with no game.

GAS PIPE PUTTER LATEST

Chicago Professional Comes to Front With Freak.

The finals in freak putters has apparently not yet come, for after nearly every shape of iron, wood and aluminum had been exhausted in an effort to give golfers an implement that would hole a ball regardless of the player's skill, a Chicago professional has come to the front with a putter made of gas pipe.

Following the school that favors the smothered putt, as ably demonstrated by James Barnes of New York, formerly national open champion, this golfer took a five-inch piece of two-inch iron pipe and sawed it in two lengthwise. To the concave side he soldered a shaft at right angles, then he roughened the convex side of the pipe so that it would grip the ball.

Instead of leaning forward so that the putter comes down on top of the ball, as Barnes does in using a straight-faced putter, the user of the gas-pipe club may stand erect and get the same effect.

The new putter is not patented, and may even be barred by the wiseacres of St. Andrews. But if it is legal, everyone can make his own.

SAN FRANCISCO FIGHT CLUBS DECLARED ON EVE OF CLASH

Proprietor of Arcadia, Formerly Operated by American, Complains of Unfair Practice by Opponent, the Observatory Club.

BY HARRY B. SMITH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 12.—(Special.)—There are signs of squabbling between two of the big fight clubs in San Francisco. At present the fire is smouldering, but personally I wouldn't be at all surprised to see it blaze forth shortly.

For some months now the Lynch brothers, Toby Irwin and Frank Schuler have had things very much their own way with the Observatory club that gives weekly shows of a Friday night at Dreamland rink.

Some time back the American Legion announced the opening of the old Arcadia dance pavilion as a fight club. But the legion folks didn't last very long.

About that time Gene Malatesta, who has been running the Royal Athletic club, a small club in the North Beach district, decided to branch out. He took over Arcadia and has been in the saddle for a matter of several weeks. He complains he has been losing money. What is more, he is making the charge, not openly but to friends, that the Observatory club promoters are indulging in sharp practices. He says they have been persuading fighters to withdraw from his cards and also that the police have been unduly strict in the matter of who is to be permitted to fight on the Arcadia club cards.

This week he had a chap named Alexander, a colored boy, scheduled for his main event.

On Monday night Alexander, unbeknown to Malatesta, boxed in Los Angeles where he knocked out Happy Little. To ask a main event fighter to travel all night by automobile, reaching San Francisco in time for a Tuesday night engagement, was asking too much. Naturally, the main event had to be shifted around somewhat.

Those switches at the 11th hour do not help a promoter. Malatesta realizes as much and has just about reached the stage where he is going to do some lively hollering. He may not help his own cause perceptibly but it is quite possible that he will be able to do some damage to the four-round game. The four-rounders are doing mighty well.

Tommy Simpson has been programing some good fights across the bay in Oakland and his weekly audiences have been from 10,000 to 12,000 each Wednesday night.

Dreamland has been drawing in the vicinity of 4000 each Friday evening and the Arcadia club has been packing them in. When you have close to 20,000 people in the bay district taking in fights weekly you have some idea of the interest.

San Franciscans are laughing at Judge Landis and the predicament into which the head of baseball has worked himself over the Portland situation. The truth of the matter is that Judge Landis worked his way into a jam and had to extricate the high commissioner of baseball as best the deed could be done. His ruling, as everyone in baseball knows, is absurd. He has said in substance that as long as Klepper doesn't take an active interest in running the Beavers he can remain as president of the club. There is nothing to prevent Klepper from issuing orders to his representatives and, of course, that is just what he will do.

Judge Landis will do well to look before he leaps the next time he has a momentous ruling to make. This going off half-cocked is bad stuff for a man so much in the public eye as the distinguished Judge Landis.

Stories going the rounds would indicate that Benny Leonard is fighting because he needs the money. One eastern writer has announced that Benny has quit fighting for charity, for Wall street and the ponies and will dig up some coin for himself in anticipation of that time when he will be an ex-champion.

It is well known that Benny in the past few years has been more or less of a stock speculator and also that he has taken a deal of interest in the horses. At times there has come the gossip that Benny has made heavy clean-ups in stock. But it is just as easy—if not easier—to lose money dabbling with the market. Possibly that is just what has happened to the lightweight champion.

So, if he has finally come to his senses and has reached the decision that it is time to be saving something for his old age, there will be nothing but approval.

Ad Santel is out of the harness for several months to come. "Pink eye," the affliction that disturbed the equilibrium of Strangler Ed Lewis for some time and has bothered other wrestlers, has laid Santel low. He has consulted several specialists and they tell him that it will be a matter of a number of months before he can hope to take on matches.

Ad is said to be virtually blind in one eye and has to wear colored glasses whenever he goes out in the sun to keep away the bright glare.

Arlos Fanning, a Kansas City lightweight, is the latest pugilist to come to San Francisco for matches. He reached here recently and hooked up with Frank Carter, who has promised to be his manager.

Fanning passed through San Francisco some six years ago on his way to Australia, but never has done any fighting in this section. He has a good record at his back and while the San Francisco promoters are barred from using him, Tommy Simpson of Oakland has promised to dig up a few matches and there are fights in sight in Los Angeles, where, according to reports, the clubs are going big.

GRESHAM EVENTS GO OVER

Two Harness Races Called Off, Due to Rain.

Rain caused another postponement of outdoor events at the Multnomah county fair at Gresham yesterday. Two harness racing events were called off after a long delay, in which a large crowd waited in the grandstand until it was finally announced that the races could not be held owing to the muddy condition of the track.

In order to provide some sort of a programme for the fair visitors a wild west show was staged in front of the grandstand. An auto polo contest also was tried out, in which two machines ploughed through the track in front of the grandstand. The track was too heavy for the machines to show any speed or furnish any great amount of thrills for the crowd.

A steeplechase over a mile and three-quarter course was the big attraction yesterday. The event was won by W. U. Sanderson on Flying Fox. There were eight entries in the event and the horses were given a hard ride considering the heavy going.

A pageant, featuring the "Spirit of the Home," put on by the 4-H clubs, drew a large crowd to the Chautauqua tent. Rudolph Beer spoke before an audience in the art department.

An attempt will be made today to hold the harness races, another steeplechase and running races provided the track is in shape for the events. Exhibitors, stockmen and concessionaires have agreed to hold over practically all their displays for the show today.

CHESS GETS STIMULANT

WORLD'S CONGRESS ADDS TO INTEREST IN GAME.

Budding Capablancas Seen at All Hours of Day in Tea Shops and Restaurants.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—The world's chess congress, now in session in London, has given a great stimulus to the ancient game and budding Capablancas may be seen at all hours of the day in the tea shops, coffee rooms and restaurants throughout the city puzzling over the opening gambits and complicated moves, completely ignoring their roast beef and boiled potatoes. One firm of caterers which operates 200 shops, provides sets of chessmen for their patrons, which incidentally would seem to give an insight into the amount of time available to English business men for lunch.

However, the chess congress has also brought the enemies of the game into the light, their criticism in the press columns contrasting markedly with Mr. Bonar Law's eulogy of last week. Such statements appear as, "As a mental exercise, chess is a game which leads no where. It teaches no lesson from which practical experience can be gained; it is useless as a means of gambling and has no recuperative value as a recreation. Finally the energy spent in acquiring a knowledge of the game might be compared with a waste of opportunity—the learning of a language which has no literature."

Meanwhile, unperturbed, the chess masters ponder over their boards and the young world's champion from Cuba remains a favorite.

LYNCH TO INVADE WEST

Bantam Champion Hopes to Reap Neat Fortune.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Within the next two weeks Joe Lynch, bantamweight champion of the world, will embark on a strenuous western invasion. The tour, according to Manager Eddie Mead, will last five months.

Lynch will probably participate in 15 bouts in the west, and hopes to reap a neat fortune.

Mead has been offered matches in Texas, Montana, Grand Rapids, Mich., Aurora, Ill.; Denver, Colo.; Rhode Island and several other places. The best offer thus far received, Mead says, is one from Frank Foster of El Dorado, Texas.

"Foster has guaranteed Lynch $15,000 cash to box Artie Simon," declared Mead. "This lad, he tells me, is one of the greatest little wallopers in the game. I haven't closed for the match yet, but I'm not going to let that $15,000 escape Lynch, either.

"Joe is in wonderful form," continued Mead, "and will leave for the country in a couple of days. I am mapping out a strenuous campaign for him, which will bring him to the leading fight centers of the west."

Mead also says that Lynch's first opponent may be Young Montreal of Providence. He is considering several alluring offers from Rhode Island sportsmen, and believes the bout will be consummated. Lynch and Montreal have met before.

MOHLER DISPUTES SCRIBES

Seattle Club Held to Have Record for Consecutive Victories.

Kid Mohler, who will be remembered as one of the best second basemen who ever performed out here, can't quite agree with some coast scribes, who are claiming a record for the Angels, who won 14 straight games. Mohler has the following to say:

"The Seattle club of 1903 won 18 consecutive games near the close of the season. I was playing with the team and ought to know. The spurt brought us from last place up to second, but the Angels were too far ahead and they won the pennant. It was Dolly Gray, Los Angeles pitcher, who stopped our winning streak."

As the league has no record of consecutive victories won by any team "Kid" Memory will have to be the official proof.

Hagen and Kirkwood Win.

ROME, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Walter Hagen, British open golf champion, and Joe Kirkwood, Australian professional star, defeated Gene Sarazen, American open titleholder, and Harold Callaway, local professional, 3 up and 2 to play, in an 18-hole exhibition match here today.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Rain today caused postponement of the final round of the men's invitational singles for the Southampton cup between Vincent Richards of Yonkers, N. Y., member of this year's American Davis cup team, and Robert Kinsey of San Francisco.

Sisler led the attack for the visitors with three hits and a walk in five trips to the plate, and Collins, Hooper and Sheely did the heavy stick work for Chicago, the former pair making three each while Sheely smashed out four. CARDINALS DROP TO SECOND PLACE IN RACE.

Doak and Osborne Both Driven From Mound; O'Farrell's Homer Wins Contest.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 12.—The Cardinals lost today to Chicago 4 to 6 and dropped to second place in the pennant race, due to New York's double victory over Brooklyn. Doak, who started on the mound for the locals, was batted out in the sixth inning and was replaced by Haines. Osborne, Chicago's first hurler, was driven from the mound, while he relinquished to Jones only after threatening to strike Field Captain Hollocher.

O'Farrel's home run in the eighth inning with two runners on won the game for the visitors after the Cardinals had gained the lead by tallying four times in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings. Score:

TRAP MEDAL HIGH HONOR

GUNS KEEN COMPETITORS IN GRAND AMERICAN.

One Shooter Says He Would Rather Be Victor Than U. S. President.

"I'd rather win the Grand American handicap than be elected president of the United States," declared a clay-target marksman as he signified his intention of traveling to Atlantic City, N. J., to contest for the trapshooting event which for 23 consecutive years has occupied a prominent position among the premiere contests in the sport world. There are indeed sportsmen who are proficient in the use of a shotgun who believe that the highest honor which could be gained by them would be to win the $250 diamond medal emblematic of victory in the Grand American, which is open to any amateur trapshooter in the world.

This year, in connection with the clay target championship tournament which will be staged on the Absecon boulevard, Atlantic City, September 11 to 16, there will be two full days devoted to distance handicap shooting. On Friday, September 15, marksmen will have the opportunity to become accustomed to their respective yard marks by contesting in the preliminary handicap. And on the following day, Saturday, September 16, the Grand American itself will bring to a conclusion what it is expected will be the largest trapshooting tournament ever held.

The first Grand American handicap at clay targets was held in New York in 1900 and was won by Rolla O. Heikes of Dayton, O., who stood on the mark, which was then the limit—22 yards—and broke 91 out of 100 clay birds. In the years that have followed, trapshooting has grown in popularity, scores have improved and the limit mark has been made 23 yards. But no shooter has won the event twice, only one shooter has turned in a perfect score of 100 straight, and no shooter has won from the limit, 23 yards.

No other sporting event can boast of attracting so many active participants, representing all the states and all the Canadian provinces. In 1915, at Chicago, 884 amateurs entered the Grand American. In 1919, at Chicago, the contestants numbered 848. Cleveland attracted 715 handicap shooters in 1920, while last year Chicago had 637. Atlantic City fully expects to break the attendance record this year by having 1000 or more contestants in the Grand American handicap.

WASHINGTON GOLF PLAY NEXT MONTH

Many Portland Players Expected to Enter.

SEPT. 27 TO 30 DATES

Pacific Northwest Tournament to Be Held September 25 to 26, Also at Yakima.

Quite a number of Portland golfers are expecting to enter the Washington state amateur championships at Yakima next month. The dates of the meet are September 27 to 30. Then there is the Pacific northwest open tournament to be held September 25 and 26 at the same place, so visiting golfers will be able to get in a full week of championship play.

The open meet, which is open to amateurs as well as professionals, is sponsored by the Pacific Northwest Professional Golfers' association, organized last year, which already has held one championship this year, the revival of the northwest open at Victoria, B. C., in June.

72 Holes to Be Played.

Seventy-two holes of medal play will constitute the tournament for the pros. Thirty-six holes will be played the first day and the 36 low scores will continue in the tournament on the second day. There are six cash prizes for the professionals and trophies for both the low gross and net scorers among the amateurs entering.

The open will attract many amateurs who will remain over for the state amateur meet, which starts the day after the close of the professional tournament. William Hanley, Waverley Country club, and John Junor, Portland Golf club, are local professionals who will enter the open.

The amateur meeting will be the first attempt by any Washington club to hold a state championship. A. S. Kerry, a member of the Waverley Country club, who also belongs to the Seattle Golf club, has put up a handsome trophy for the winner of the state amateur meet. To gain the cup permanently it must be won three times in succession. The Yakima Country club cup will go to the runner-up.

Qualifying Rounds Wednesday.

The 36-hole qualifying round will be played Wednesday, September 27, with 32 to qualify for the championship flight. On Thursday the first and second elimination round 18-hole matches will be run off and the third and semi-final rounds are set for Friday, both being 18-hole tests. The finals will be played Saturday over 36 holes. There will be additional flights for all players who do not reach the championship 32.

Special features will be a handicap match against bogey, medal handicap and driving, approaching and putting contests. All entries must be in the hands of G. C. Wise, secretary, by Tuesday, September 26.
