Dr. Glen Levin Swiggett of the United States bureau of education will speak. Vice-President Bertha McCarthy will preside and E. G. Crawford, first vice-president of the United States National bank, will act as chairman of the day. Dr. Swiggett was formerly a member of the committee on education of the national foreign trade council, and the United States chamber of commerce. Reservations should be made at the Multnomah hotel not later than 10 o'clock Wednesday morning, August 16. Dr. Swiggett is to be entertained at a dinner at the Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday night.

On Friday of last week a group of people interested in the educational programme of this city met at the home of Mrs. Evarts W. Charles, near the Hudson school, for a conference regarding the propriety of urging the establishment of more kindergartens among the public schools. Among those present were representatives from the state and local parent-teacher associations, faculty members from several schools and others interested in progressive movements in education. The honor guest was Miss Elisabeth Cook of Minneapolis, a leading spirit in this branch of work in her state and acting as the official representative of Miss Julia Abbott, head of the National Kindergarten association of Washington, D. C. Miss Cook in her remarks stressed the importance of this branch of education as being among the most important work of Americanization for the foreign-born, as it inculcates at a tender age all the principles of democracy and loyalty for which the Constitution stands. Mrs. C. M. Ogle and Mrs. Harriet Heller of the local kindergarten council spoke strongly, urging the increase of the number of kindergartens in local schools. The city has only four now in operation —at the Albina Homestead, Failing, Shaver and Williams schools—but these few are obliged to hold double sessions, that is, with separate classes for mornings and afternoons, as the enrollment is close to 1000 pupils.

A delicious picnic lunch was served on the spacious lawns, comprising all sorts of delectable foods. Among the after-dinner speakers was Mrs. C. B. Simmons, who has the honor of being the sole feminine representative on the committee for the revision of the city charter. She spoke of the many problems confronting the committee and of their solutions.

On Wednesday friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Chapman journeyed to their new suburban home, Buttercup lodge, near the station of Sweet Home, for an all-day fete. They were cordially received on the grassy lawns and garden spots of the homestead. The guests had brought an ample noon-day meal, which was supplemented by the hosts with contributions from the farm products. No set programme of entertainment was followed. The only formality was the christening of the place "Buttercup Lodge." Miss N. C. Casebere, teacher of the kindergarten department at Williams school, demonstrated, with the aid of some children, examples of the work of her class.

At the regular meeting Friday evening, August 4, the Multnomah circle, Women of the Woodcraft, had an interesting time. This was the end of a visiting contest among the different circles of the order. Two prizes were given to the winners of the contest. Oregon Grape circle of St. Johns won first prize, and Royal circle took second prize. Although Oregon circle did not get in on the prizes, their showing was so good that they received recognition in a special check. The district officers present had charge of the meeting. Another contest is planned to begin with September 1.

Red Cross Worker Mother to Ex Service Men.

Jane V. Doyle Performs Great Work for War Veterans.

IT IS NOT always easy for a man to tell his troubles, even to a Red Cross worker, but probably Miss Jane V. Doyle, in charge of Portland chapter, Platt building, has learned more of Oregon's ex-service, especially disabled, veterans than any other one person in the state, and probably, through the aid of Portland community chest, she has helped as many ex-service men and their families over discouraging little difficulties as any other worker in the state.

Miss Doyle served the boys in France when she was a nurse with American expeditionary forces and since returning to her home in Portland she has been constantly on duty at Red Cross headquarters. She meets the boys with a happy philosophy and with the substantial backing of the chest, which provides funds for her work, under supervision of the Red Cross. She is constantly being called upon to explain some technical point of the federal law and to aid the boys who are waiting for compensation, or who have decided to file for a new vocation, on finding that they are no longer fitted for the old occupation after service in the army.

"Only yesterday," said Miss Doyle, "we had word of a fretting man in the United States veterans' hospital at Second and Multnomah streets. He declared that he had to leave the hospital; that he could not stay for treatment. On investigation we found that he had a wife and small baby who were without means of support and he wanted to leave the hospital to work.

"We found the wife and made arrangements to pay the rent and then made her a weekly allowance to care for herself and baby until the government makes proper compensation to the ex-service man."

Hundreds of service men and their families are cared for monthly by this department of Red Cross and community chest work.

Clubwomen gave a luncheon last Wednesday at the University club honoring Miss Vella Winner, who has returned from a trip to California. About 100 club women marched into the decorated dining room, singing an appropriate chant to the honor guest. Flowers decorated the tables. Mrs. Alexander Thompson as toastmistress gave a short speech and read a letter from Mrs. Charles Castner of Hood River. Other speakers who gave a few words of welcome were Miss Grace Phelps, Miss Anne Shannon Monroe, Mrs. Sadie Orr-Dunbar, Miss Julia Spooner, Mrs. E. N. Howe, Mrs. Henry Waldo Coe, Mrs. J. C. Othus, Mrs. L. R. Bailey, Mrs. James N. Davis, Mrs. Albert Johnson, Mrs. G. J. Frankel, Mrs. Charles W. Erskine, Mrs. U. G. Mason, Mrs. George G. Root, Mrs. John Van Zante, Mrs. F. L. A large audience attended the Americanization meeting of the Oregon Woman's Christian Temperance Union at the Multnomah county fair at Gresham Wednesday. The arts and talents that have come to America from other nations were demonstrated. Cartozian Bros. of Portland lent an exhibit of sacred, historical, hand-made oriental art rugs. The entire end of the Chautauqua auditorium was transposed into a bit of the orient, with rich draperies, rugs and art work. Joseph O. Cartozian spoke of the home life of the Armenian people. He explained the meaning of characters and figures in the rugs, exhibited rugs that had taken three generations to complete and others that contained the family history for generations. Miss Hazel Cartozian assisted. Mrs. Lee Davenport presided.

Tuesday was Central Woman's Christian Temperance Union day at the county fair. Mrs. C. W. Barzee and Mrs. G. L. Buland, assisted by C. W. Barzee, who is one of Central's honorary members, were present. The checking booth is a new feature this year, the W. C. T. U. giving the service free. By mid-afternoon the registry book in the rest room had several pages filled and many did not register. The long table was filled with literature for free distribution, including 500 copies of the latest edition of the White Ribbon Review ordered for the fair. Mrs. Lulu Horning, president of Central, who was unable to attend the last meeting, called a special meeting of the members present to hear some reports and transact little necessary business. The annual meeting, usually held in August, was postponed to September 15. The next regular meeting will be August 25, and will be an all-day meeting, with sewing, at the home of Mrs. E. B. Gittings, 861 East Sixty-eighth street North.

Camp Fire girls' summer camp on the Clackamas closed yesterday after a very successful four weeks' outing. The weather was ideal. The instruction covered aesthetic dancing, swimming, basketry, clay modeling, block printing and symbolism. The classes in dancing first were given tests in posture and then divided into advanced pupils and beginners, under the direction of Miss Lucile Morrow. The swimming classes were conducted by Miss Virginia Miller of Multnomah club. The use of Mrs. C. S. Jackson's swimming pool afforded greater privacy and allowed the girls more freedom than swimming in the Clackamas. The swimming instruction has consisted in teaching the beginners to swim and the advanced pupils to dive, perfect their strokes and to do rescue work. Elizabeth Shively in an endurance test swam the length of the pool 20 times, the distance of a mile, and Audrey Jones and Louise Marven succeeded in swimming 30 feet under water.

Basketry was taught by Miss Beatrice Morrow, who will complete her fine arts course at the University of Oregon next June. The botany classes were conducted by Miss Mildred Hutley, a graduate of the University of Oregon, and a special study made of Oregon wild flowers. Classes in clay modeling, basketry and block printing were held by Miss Elizabeth M. Walker, a student at the Portland Art Museum. Courses in symbolism have been given by the executive, Elizabeth J. White.

The different guardians who have served as councillors at camp are: Mrs. Ivy Feldman of Portland, Mrs. Mary L. King of Rockwood, Mrs. Robert G. Harbutt of Stevenson, Wash.; Mrs. Margaret Stevey and Mrs. Frances Jones of Camas, Wash.; Miss Esther Goodwin and Miss Ruth Boardman of Portland, Miss Margaret Paul of McMinnville, Miss Frances McKeel of Jefferson high, Portland, who has made all the special honors for camp, and Miss Lucile Morrow and Miss Mildred Huntley, also of Portland. The other instructors have acted as councillors.

One of the features of the entertainment have been the lively baseball games between the avenues and the alleys. The girls have been very enthusiastic about playing indoor baseball. Wenie and marshmallow roasts, together with candy treats and stunts, have made the evenings entertaining.

Several of the girls were in line for the camp spirit honor, but after carefully weighing each point, the honor was given to Valda Feldman.

Mrs. Juneau is a past president-general of the Auxiliary United Spanish War Veterans and was the honor guest at a number of interesting social functions during the week.

Robbins Family Reunion Held at Molalla.

Pioneers' Descendants Participate in Memorial Service.

MOLALLA, Or., Aug. 12.—(Special.)—The Jacob and Sarah Robbins Reunion society, of which L. W. Robbins is president and Mrs. Orla Buxton secretary, held its annual reunion on the banks of the beautiful Molalla river July 29. More than 100 persons were present.

The programme was exceptionally interesting. A memorial service conducted by Mrs. Orla Buxton was most impressive. Two sons of Jacob and Sarah Robbins, Levi and Martin, and one daughter, Mrs. Amanda Minerva Loveridge, died in the last year. Those who took part in the memorial service are Vernice Robbins, the Misses Helen and Grace Rugg, Miss Ofa Adams, Miss Dorothy Pennock, Mrs. Clara E. Robbins and Alvin Benson.

Other features of the programme were an original poem, "Pioneers," by Mrs. Ball, and "Family History," by O. W. Robbins. The family history disclosed many entertaining features, both personal and general.

The Indiana branch of the Robbins family had an attendance of more than 1000 persons at a reunion this year.

The courage, the romance, the thrilling adventures of these pioneers are hard to match in fiction.

Jacob and Sarah Robbins, founders of the Oregon Robbins family, crossed the plains in 1852. They settled first on Salem prairie and later moved to Molalla.

A few scenes from Jacob Robbins' boyhood remind one of the unflinching courage, indomitable will and romance of a great nation in the making. There was that tragedy which occurred after Jacob's father had immigrated from Kentucky to Indiana in 1811. In the war of 1812 British subjects were said to have incited Indians to massacre white settlers. At all events the entire settlement except two families, one of which was Jacob Robbins' parents and children, were massacred by the savages. In their tragic flight the prowess of the white man was pitted against the savage horde and the white man won.

Jacob was left motherless at the age of 5 years. A few years later Jacob consulted with his double second cousin and firm friend, Abe Lincoln, as to the best course to pursue. Circumstances incident to pioneer life placed the young lad on his own resources, and of course Lincoln's family was poor and unable to help Jacob except with love and kindness.

Jacob Robbins' path led westward. Success crowned his efforts.

RHODODENDRON AT CREST

Sports and Social Affairs Big Feature at This Resort.

RHODODENDRON, Or., Aug. 12.—(Special.)—This week end finds Rhododendron at the height of its season. The weather has been fine for all the sports. A swimming contest was held Thursday at 2:30 o'clock. There were 12 entries and young folk from the neighboring resorts joined in the competition.

With extra fine music by Rose's Famous four orchestra, the Rhododendron dance hall has been popular, especially Saturday evenings.

The surprise party which was held at the dance hall in honor of Miss Matilde Bowman's birthday was voted quite a success through the efforts of the orchestra. After the dancing 30 young folk enjoyed Miss Bowman's hospitality in the annex, where Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Bowman and daughters, Lucile and Matilde, are domiciled.

A feat which has not been attempted for three years was accomplished in this region a few days ago. Frances Rose and Frances Page hiked through Paradise park and reached the top of Mount Hood by climbing the north slope without a guide. They came down by way of Government camp.

Rows at Home Put Bees in Bad Humor.

Domestic Troubles, Including "Summer Complaint" of Babies, Cause of Census.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Ever since a bee census was ordered in Goshen, N. Y., metropolis of the buzzing honey makers, tender-hearted persons have been shuddering at the thought of the danger assessors might undergo in plucking each bee from its workroom or den and counting it. But they might as well stop worrying, for W. E. Thorndyke, who knows bees from stem to dreaded stern, said today that all the census takers have to do is count the hives.

"Even if they did have to number each bee, it wouldn't be so bad," he said. "Some men could count them one by one and never have to use a mask. Of course, a lot would depend on whether the bees were aristocratic bluebloods, or hybrids. The hybrids are usually the fierce ones. Still, when it comes to getting intimate with bees, discretion is the better part of valor."

Girls with perfume and men who use hair oil, smelly pomades or scented talcum better get out of the way whenever they see a bee coming, Mr. Thorndyke says. He has a theory that the little honey-makers just naturally dislike certain odors. When a bee likes an odor it noses right in to gather raw material for its manufacturing plant, but it turns its back on disagreeable smells. And when a bee turns its back, somebody is liable to experience discomfiture.

Bees have domestic troubles, too, and these often put them in a bad humor. It is to ascertain how many of the baby bees at Goshen are suffering from "foul brood," and causing worry to their queen and their papa bees that the census was ordered.

Foul brood is something like summer complaint among human infants, but more devastating. It comes from impure food given during the period of incubation.

The adult bees are not bothered by the disease, as they thrive whether the larder contains good food or bad. But when the queen bee gets sick, then the physical strain of weakness ultimately affects the whole hive.

Drive on Rats Planned.

In an effort to exterminate the thousands of rats on the waterfront of Portland and in the many old buildings in the city, the United States biological survey will co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce of this city and the city health bureau to carry on a vigorous trapping and poisoning campaign.

The conclusion has been drawn that proper eradication of rats cannot be accomplished by slaying of the animal, but that persons must insure against their breeding in filthy places by maintaining sanitary garbage receptacles and building rat-proof structures.

The rat is known as a carrier of disease and a destroyer of commodities in warehouses and in transport.

People who fight the rat do not go about it in the correct manner, according to health authorities and the biological inspectors. Lessons are to be given in the proper use of strychnine and other poisons for killing rats.

It is believed by the authorities that a 30 to 60-day poisoning campaign along Portland's water front and marketing district, and about dumps, slaughter houses and similar places, will greatly reduce the rat population of these districts.
