Federal Court of Appeals to Settle Bond Mixup.

Decision of District Judge Puts Private Interests in Position of Preferred Creditors.

PUGET SOUND BUREAU, Seattle.
Wash. Sept. 23.—The litigious tangle in which the Seattle municipal street raliway system is involved is now under consideration as to one of its ramifications by the U-ited States circuit court of appeals. The city of Seattle's appeal from the decision of Federal District Judge Cushman. compelling specific performance of the terms of the contract under which the system was purchased in 1919 from the Stone & Webster interests, has been argued before Justices Gilbert. Hunt and Rudkin, sitting in Seattle as an appellate court.
Judge Cushman's decision, handed down last spring, requires strict ful-down last spring, requires strict ful-filment by the city of the contract terms which provide that the prin-cipal and interest of the $15.000,000 purchase price bonds must be paid out of the revenues of the railway Bondholders Are Protected.

Bondholders Are Protected.
This is of prime interest to the bondholders—that their claim shall constitute, in effect, a first lien on the receipts of the railway from car riders. Naturally, they are not greatly concerned as to the source that the city might have to tap to meet deficits in railway operation.

The city's contention, in appealing from the Cushman decision, is that in event the gross revenues of the system were not sufficient to that in event the gross revenues of the system were not sufficient to meet its obligations to the bond-holders, and also to cover all op-erating and mainenance costs, it would be compelled to resort to gen-teral taxation, a course not con-templated at the time of purchase and since then denied to the city by decree of the state supreme court.

Preferred Status Involved.

The purpose of the bondholders in the case decided in their favor by Judge Cushman was to prevent their claims for the purchase price from being rated along with operating and maintenance costs, with a chance of prorata distribution of whatever the revenues of the system might be from time to time. The bondholders did not seek specifically to convenity to recifically to compel the city to resort to general taxation.

The exact effect of the Cushman decision, taken in connection with the decision of the state supreme court denying recourse to tax funds, would be to compel the city to maintain car fares at a rate high enough to produce revenues sufficient to meet all obligations and costs of maintenance and operation. This interpretation has been recognized by the city in maintaining the $1.2.

Clock tonight by Rev. H. S. Haver.
Yesterday's business session considered the report of the committee on appointments of pastors for the coming year and a public announcement of the appointments will be made following the close of the morning sermen today. The missionary work of the church was also discussed in the open forum gathering yesterday and brought out the fact that much progressive work had been performed in this field within the past year.

A banquet was served at the church building to the visiting delegates at 6:30 o'clock, the usual night sermen being dispensed with.

E. C. Hickman, representative of the board of Epworth leagues, was one of the principal speakers at the afternoon session, while several brief addresses were made by representatives of the board of foreign missions. Departmental work of the church also came in for a share of the business session. Yesterday's business session con-

Odds and Ends.

PIQUANT spectacle of the hot days of last week was a shopper in a department store vigorously fanning herself with the end of the fur scarf which hung about her neck. It evidently did not occur to the sufferer to take off her fur wrap.

There was a complete surcease of the traditional "m'lud" attitude when a group of bishops went fishing the Saturday before the convention opened. They were dignitaries from the ends of the earth, and they had never met before. But, one and all, they doffed their surnames and addressed each other as "Bill," "Sam" and "Jim"—quite in the spirit of real boys goin fishin. Whether this informal attitude made an atmosphere which increased the catch is not known, but they certainly had a jollier time.

A youngster of the sterner sex came back to school last week after meintenance and operation. This interpretation has been recognized by the city in maintaining the $1-3-cent fare, which, according to the accountants, is yielding a gross revenue that covers all requirements and makes recourse to taxation unnecessary. These decisions of the federal and state courts stand in the way of car-fare reduction. On the other hand, if the Cushman decision should be reversed by the appeliate court and a reduction of the car fares followed, the bondholders would have no preferential rights with respect to the revenues of the system.
