

ALL TURK DEMANDS GRANTED BY ALLIES

Early Peace Conference Is Requested.

TERMS SENT TO KEMAL

British Reversal of Policy Is Regarded as Great Victory for French Diplomacy.

French Diplomacy Wins. The change in this policy came in the afternoon exchange of many messages between Lord Curzon and Premier Lloyd George and several long telephone conversations which delayed the final session from 3 o'clock to 4.

Although the British tonight insist that the ultimatum, mainly freedom of the straits, is embodied in the conditions, it is generally conceded that this unanimous decision marks a victory for French diplomacy. M. Poincare expressed the belief that the near east crisis is over and that all danger of a clash is past.

Chanak Likely to Be Held.

It is assumed that the British troops will remain at Chanak pending the peace conference. A broad neutral zone will divide eastern Thrace from Greece and Bulgaria in the treaty terms, which will be decided at the conference. Both Jugo-Slavia and Rumania insisted upon this provision before they consented to the return of Turkey to Europe, although it is not mentioned in the note. It is thought probable that the Turkish military forces in Thrace and Anatolia will be rigidly limited and that the strictest guarantees will be exacted for the Greek minorities in these places.

Neutral Zones Demanded.

The last minute abandonment by Great Britain of her position, due, it was believed, to a desire to avoid war, which many British officials, both at home and abroad, regarded as likely. Pressure from British labor, which was united against hostilities in the near east, is also thought to have played a small part in the decision of the British government.

Having effectively obtained in the decision freedom of the straits, Great Britain is said to have reasoned that to insure peace in the near east it would be better not to withhold any longer Turkish aspirations to a foothold in Europe, provided ample guarantees were exacted which would insure the safety of the Bulgarian alliance directed against the Balkan countries.

While agreeing virtually to all the Turkish claims, Lord Curzon insisted upon preservation of the neutral zones on the Asiatic side of the straits. The pledge is exacted from Kemal Pasha to occupy Gallipoli is not mentioned in the note, but it is probable that a small allied force will remain temporarily on the peninsula.

Greek Forces to Retire.

The Greek forces are to retire from eastern Thrace and advance to a line to be fixed by the allied generals in agreement with the Greek and Turkish military authorities. The terms of an armistice is expected to be held at Mudania within a few days. Admission of Turkey to the league of nations, which the allies expect themselves to support, is not expected until the assembly meeting of next year.

Complete agreement by M. Poincare, Lord Curzon and Count Sforza was reached after a three and a half hour session. It is considered the more surprising because of the virtual decision last night that separate notes would have to be sent to the Angora government for the reason that Great Britain was not willing to bind herself in advance to any definite terms sufficient to attract Kemal Pasha to a peace conference.

The phraseology of that part of the note regarding Thrace is commented upon, as it sets forth that the three governments "view with favor the desire of Turkey to recover Thrace," but conditioned on this is the promise of the allies to send troops into the neutral zone until the peace conference.

Following is the text of the joint note to Mustafa Kemal Pasha: "The three allied governments ask the government of the national grand assembly to be good enough to let them know if it is disposed to send without delay representatives with full powers to a meeting to be held at Venice or elsewhere and to which will be invited, also, with the representatives of Turkey, plenipotentiaries of Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan, Rumania, Jugo-Slavia and Greece."

Early Meeting Desired.

This meeting will take place as soon as necessary arrangements are made by the governments concerned. The object of this meeting will be to negotiate and consolidate a final treaty of peace between Turkey, Greece and the allied powers.

"The three governments take this opportunity to declare that they view with favor the desire of Turkey to recover Thrace as far as the river Maritza and including Adrianople."

"On condition that the Angora government does not send armies during the peace negotiations into zones of the provisional neutrality of which has been proclaimed by the allied governments the three governments will willingly support at the conference the contributions of these frontiers to Turkey. It being understood that steps will be taken in common agreement in the treaty to safeguard the interests of Turkey and her neighbors; to demilitarize with a view to the maintenance of peace in certain zones to be fixed; to obtain peaceful and orderly re-establishment of Turkey's authority, and finally to assure effectively under the league of nations main-

FREE DARDANELLES AS BRITISH POLICY

Premier Lloyd George Issues Statement on Situation.

FREEDOM OF SEAS AIM

Any Action of Last Few Days Said to Have Nothing to Do With Merits of Dispute.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—The policy of Great Britain in the near east is to establish the freedom of the Dardanelles under the supervision of the league of nations, declared Prime Minister Lloyd George in a statement at a conference with the newspapermen this afternoon.

Mr. Lloyd George in his statement said: "I view of the misapprehension as to the character of the difficulties which have arisen in the near east, I wish to make a statement as to the actual facts and position."

"I should like at the very outset to make it clear that any action we have taken during the last few days has nothing to do with the merits or demerits of the dispute between the Greeks and the Turks."

Conference Is Needed.

"Whatever settlement is effected of either Anatolia or Thrace, that is a matter for determination by conference between the allies and the belligerents and any steps we have taken during the last few days are for the purpose of preparing the way for such a conference and have nothing to do with any consideration of that kind."

"Our action has been dictated by two supreme considerations. One is our anxiety as to the freedom of the seas between the Mediterranean and the Black Sea. That is the first and primary consideration in directing our actions. What happened in the war demonstrated clearly to the British Empire how vital the freedom of those seas is to the protection of our commerce and to humanity in its broadest aspects."

Two Disasters Recalled.

"The closing of the Straits against us by a power which owed probably more to Great Britain and France together than to any other power in the world, was an act of perfidy which cost us dearly. It was directly responsible for the collapse of our most powerful ally in that quarter of the globe and also was responsible for the defeat of Rumania."

"These two disasters had the effect of prolonging the war at least two years and adding enormously to the loss of life and to the devastation and destruction which it will take many years if not decades to repair. It is an essential condition of world peace that there shall be an effective guarantee for the freedom of those seas in the future. If peace were signed without the achievement of that object it would be equivalent to a defeat in that quarter of the globe."

"With that object in view, the allies prepared as the first condition of the armistice with Turkey signed October 30, 1918, the opening of the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus and securing access to the Black sea by occupation by the allies of the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles."

Freedom of Seas Wanted.

"Therefore the first thing we had in mind in any steps we have taken in the last few days has been to insure that nothing be done to curtail the freedom of those seas and the world-wide interest of civilization. In doing this I would point out that we are taking no separate action but simply carrying out the policy agreed upon by all the allies in October, 1918. We have not departed one iota from the position we took then, and in so doing we have not betrayed the trust which the British empire as a whole placed in us."

The second object we had in mind in any steps we have taken in the last few days has been to insure that nothing be done to curtail the freedom of those seas and the world-wide interest of civilization. In doing this I would point out that we are taking no separate action but simply carrying out the policy agreed upon by all the allies in October, 1918. We have not departed one iota from the position we took then, and in so doing we have not betrayed the trust which the British empire as a whole placed in us."

"I am not going to apportion the blame between the Greeks and the Turks. The time has not come for that yet. It is necessary that we do so in order to explain or defend our policy."

G. A. R. DEFENDS LINCOLN

The Confederates have waited for the coming of the day when the old-time belligerency would have faded and they would again possess the flags and banners under which they marched into battle.

Some of the Grand Army veterans expressed the opinion today that the resolution directed against President Lincoln may have removed all possibility of any such a movement securing the endorsement of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Gaylord Davidson of Charleston, West Virginia, himself a Confederate veteran, has attempted to secure a hearing before the business sessions of the 56th Grand Army of the Republic encampment to repudiate, at least in part, the official action of the Confederate soldiers. He explained that the resolution referring to Lincoln was adopted when the convention hall was practically deserted and that it

Smyrna Relief Work in Hand.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 23.—Major J. Claffin Davis, American Red Cross representative in Smyrna, today reported that the national headquarters of the Red Cross that the temporary relief situation there was well in hand, but that the problem of the return of the refugees gathered at Athens, Saloniki and Kavala was rapidly becoming more pressing.

Kemalist Revolt in Thrace Afoot.

ROME, Sept. 23.—A Kemalist insurrection is being organized in Thrace, according to the Messagero, to attack the allies in Constantinople in the rear while the Kemalist army from Asia Minor is advancing, thus taking the allies between two fires. Fears are expressed, said the newspaper, that Smyrna's fate will also be Constantinople's.

Man Sees Wife Killed.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 23.—As her husband was watching her from beyond the tracks and waiting for her to cross, Mrs. S. W. Herrick, 66 years old, was killed on the Great Northern railway, just north of the city today. Her mind intent on a freight train on the track near Mr. Herrick, Mrs. Herrick did not see a fast passenger train on the track near her.
