The interests of this organization. Covers were laid for 50, and the honor guest was presented with a silver flower vase. W. C. Bristol, president of the club, gave a short address. The luncheon followed a "white elephant" tournament played in the morning.

The home of Mrs. Charles W. King was the scene of an attractive tea on Friday, for which Mrs. King and her daughter, Mrs. Roland Lockwood, were hostesses in honor of Mrs. King's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charles S. King, who has recently come to Portland to make her home. The rooms were bright in autumn flowers and foliage, elements and pink bouvardia predominating. A number of society matrons and maids called between the hours of 3 and 5.

For the first hour, Mrs. Richard Martin, Mrs. Howard McGowan, Mrs. S. P. Lockwood and Mrs. H. A. Ridgely were in charge of the tea table, and the second hour, Mrs. William Holden, Mrs. Ernest Crichton, Mrs. Lloyd Gray and Mrs. Harold F. Temple poured. Assisting in the living room were Mrs. John Burgard, Mrs. Curtis Holcomb and Mrs. Herbert Houghton. The group of girls who assisted in the dining room included the Misses Germaine Pilkington, Helen Haller, Annamay Bronaugh, Helen Houghton, Faith Schaefer, Margaret Hawkins and Myrtle Smith.

An attractive tea was given last Thursday afternoon by Mrs. Joseph Nathan Teal when she honored the visitors here for the Episcopal convention. Many society folk called during the afternoon. Presiding at the urns were Mrs. William D. Wheelwright and Mrs. George T. Willett.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Frederick C. Austen presided over an informal luncheon at her home on Portland heights. Covers were placed for Mrs. A. A. Morrison, Mrs. Warren Keeler, Mrs. George C. Sterling, Mrs. J. Dutton of Texas and Mrs. S. C. Danforth of South Dakota.

Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Morrison honored Bishop and Mrs. Darlington of Pennsylvania with a dinner Tuesday night. The guests included Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Mann and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Alvord.

Wednesday night Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Downing were hosts at an elaborate dinner party complimenting delegates to the Episcopal convention. Covers were placed for Dr. Arthur Kinsolving of Baltimore, Dr. J. C. McCaun of Springfield, Mass., Dr. John Beckman of Paris and Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Morrison.

Mrs. Frank Jay Cobbs has invited guests to a tea to be given next Wednesday afternoon at her home on Portland heights.

The Misses Virginia and Esther Stuart of Oakland, Cal., are visiting their aunt, Mrs. Frederick R. Strong.

An event of Friday night was the lecture delivered by Canon Russell Talbot at the public library under the auspices of the national cathedral, which is in charge of Mrs. John S. Parke. Canon Talbot's topic was the "Spirit of the Gothic," and was accompanied by a series of illustrations of beautiful cathedrals and religious monuments.

In honor of Mrs. W. F. Remington, wife of the newly appointed bishop of eastern Oregon, Mrs. E. M. Stires of New York gave a luncheon in the gold room of the Multnomah hotel Thursday afternoon. Red roses and honeysuckle formed the attractive centerpiece, and the Multnomah gold service was used. The guests included Mrs. Walter T. Sumner, Mrs. David Sessums, wife of the bishop of Louisiana; Mrs. James D. Perry, wife of the bishop of Rhode Island; Mrs. W. F. Remington, wife of the bishop of eastern Oregon; Mrs. Margaret Wased, daughter of the bishop of Florida; Miss Grace Scoville of New York; Mrs. Stephen Baker of New York; Mrs. Helen Ladd Klehle, Mrs. Stires is attending the Episcopal convention with her husband, Rev. Mr. Stires of the St. Thomas church.

Canon and Mrs. Henry Russell Talbot entertained at dinner at the Columbia George hotel last Sunday night. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. B. Rowan, Bishop and Mrs. McCormick, Bishop and Mrs. Woodcock, Mrs. James E. Montgomery, Rev. and Mrs. L. Goodwin and Charles L. Annes.

Bishop Tuttle entertained a small party of friends at dinner Thursday night at the Multnomah hotel.

Mrs. A. C. Pantan and her daughter, Miss Marcile Carlock, will pass the winter in Portland, and have taken an apartment at the Tudor Arms. Thursday afternoon Miss Carlock will compliment the Misses Lurie and Maurine Elrod, who have just returned from Europe, with a tea.

Mrs. Norris E. Gregg, who has been visiting in Portland for several months, left yesterday for her home in New York city. She went by way of the Grand canyon. Friday Mrs. Gregg was the motif for a bridge luncheon when Mrs. George C. Brigham entertained.

Bishop and Mrs. Walter Taylor Sumner presided over a dinner party last Wednesday evening, when their guests were Mrs. William Ford Nichols of California, Bishop and Mrs. Joseph H. Johnson, William Mather, Rev. Frederick Plummer, Mrs. Lewis Mills, Mrs. Lee Hawley Hoffman and Mrs. C. D. Sumner.

Tuesday evening Bishop Daniel S. Tuttle was the motif for a dinner preceding the pageant, when Bishop and Mrs. Sumner entertained. Covers were placed for Mrs. S. K. White, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Baker, Bishop and Mrs. Herman Page, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Minott, Mrs. G. D. Sumner, J. G. Minott and other guests.

Mrs. George T. Gerlinger entertained recently with a tea in honor of Mrs. Edgar E. Piper Jr. (Catherine Burnside). In the receiving line with the hostess and honor guest was Mrs. Harry A. Bastian, president of the alumnae association of Kappa Kappa Gamma, of which sorority both Mrs. Gerlinger and Mrs. Piper are members. Among the guests who called during the tea hours were a number of girls who are entering college this fall. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Ralph H. Burnside, Mrs. Edgar B. Piper, Mrs. W. A. Montgomery, Mrs. Orlando Davidson and Mrs. Frederick A. Klehle. Assisting were Mrs. Emmet Tatham, Mrs. Leonard Shaver and frocks for formal and informal wear

Beautiful creations they are—this ultra showing of evening gowns. They are a bit more stately and elaborate than before, perhaps, but artistic individuality is the keynote of every one of them.

The skirts reach new lengths and vary their hems with side and front draperies. But Fashion never takes away with one hand, but what she gives with the other. Though milady loses the freedom of the short skirt, she gains dignity and charm that mark true femininity.

Included are sequins, nets, georgettes brocaded in velvets, Canton crepe jet trimmed—in fact, all the season's smartest frocks for formal or informal evening wear, especially priced—
