Woman Will Work Hard to Go to Congress.

Miss Martha Riley of Madison, Wis., Believes Her Sex Has Mission in Politics.

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 23.—(By the Associated Press.)—Wisconsin's only woman candidate for congress, Miss Martha Riley of Madison, believes that women have sex her sex have much to contribute to political progress by their active participation in government affairs.

It is that belief, she says, that has caused her to enter politics after 25 years as a teacher and social worker in this state. She is planning an active campaign to bring election at the November general election when as a democrat, her strength is to be matched with that of Congressman John M. Nelson in the third Wisconsin congressional district.

Miss Riley for 18 years was connected with the public schools as a teacher and principal. In 1912 she gave up teaching and entered the "Catholic Women's League." She is now engaged as director of the bureau of communicable diseases. This varied experience, she says, has given her a conviction that women are needed in political positions in order to insure consideration of social problems. Certain definite conclusions concerning the political needs of the people have grown with her varied experience.

"I believe in equal rights for women," she declared. "I believe in the repeal of the Espionage laws, immediate passage of the soldiers' bonus act, drastic reduction in the size of the army, and a radical merchant marine without subsidies.

"I am opposed to tax revision for the business man, a law for profiteers, to ship subsidy for the privateer, to senate seats for the actioners," she platform says. "I believe in the right to work, the special privileges for none; instead of a millionaire bloc in congress, I favor a people's bloc."

Miss Riley plans to make a speaking campaign.

Reports at the recent official conference held at Oregon officials at Corvallis when arrangements for the annual roll call were discussed, showed that the national chapter has expended more than $3,000,000 on its work among disabled veterans of the world war.

There is a great need, she said, of work carried on by individual city and state chapters. Since the fund for such work amounted to only $2,000,000 there was a deficit which necessitated the society's overdraw on its disabled veterans fund.

She showed also that the national society had taken care of on an average of one great disaster a month in the United States during the past year.

The annual roll call of the national society will be of more importance this year probably than ever before. It is a matter of great importance to keep up their regular membership amount was $150,000. The headquarters is at 301 Platt building, chapter after October 1, to suite 208 Fitzpatrick building, Ninth and Oak streets, the chapter's new home.

Fifty cents of each membership fee is kept at home for charitable work and the remainder goes to the national chapter for national and international work. Any amount over the dollar fee is also kept at home.

Miss Jane V. Doyle, executive secretary of Portland chapter, and Dow Walker, a director of Portland Community Chest, were among the speakers at the conference.

Portland Community chest provides the fund for Portland chapter's work among disabled ex-servicemen.
