

BILLY THE BOY ARTIST PAINTS A NECKTIE

Dear Boys and Girls: The other day Pop forgot his necktie and so, just for fun, I told him I could paint one for him. Pop is a good sport so he let me try. Just then Clarence Chumpley came to call on Maud and he saw me behind the screen. He took a swing with his cane at the part of me that showed and of course I was quite upset. So was Pop, and for that matter so was Clarence about four minutes later. You can paint this picture with plain water and a brush and see what we all got. Yours for a good time,

BILLY THE BOY ARTIST.

(Copyright, 1922, World Color Printing Company, St. Louis, Mo.)

