BY GEORGE CHADWICK right, 1922, by The Oregonian.) V YORK, Sept. 26,—The 1922 battle for the so-called world's championship in baseball will start on the field that was the scene of the National league's triumph over the younger league in the first world's series played. It will be or almost the identical diamond on which the New York Glants and which the New York Glants and Philadelphia Athletics met in 1905. The Giant pitcher who faces the American league title-heiders of 1922 October 4 will stand almost in the exact spot where the mighty Matry stood when his famous fadeaways and the rest of the then youthful repertoire surprised the baseball world and beat the favored Athletics. The fact that the baselines and pitchers' box have shifted a triffic since Mathewson's day has never been known before When the Polo grounds were corrected in measurements slight alterrected in measurements slight alter-ations had to be made. When the diamonds were first had on most major league parks the services of a civil engineer were not called into requisition and the simple system of cords used by the groundkeepers did not conduce to strict accuracy.

The outcome of the series re-es-tablished the fame of the National league. The older organization had-suffered a little in the brush with its rival and there had been a winter of leering and fun poking on the part of the American league parti-sans because the Giants had refused 1904 with Boston. to play in 1904 with Boston. It made little difference to the Amerimade little difference to the American league enthusiasts that the owner of the Clants might think he had abundant reason for declining the series. The only thing the Der A Pas was was that the Glants had refused to play and were therefore afraid. Being afraid they must be of minor callber. of minor caliber. Victory Silences Fans.

The victory of New York and the Lebanon Enters Horseshoe Games fact that Philadelphia did not make a run in the four games played was such an astounding blow to the vaunted batting ability of the American league players that the partisans of the organization be-came mute. They had no ground on which to make a claim for strength and even in Philadelphia they consoled themselves that Mathewson had been born in Penn-

In the one game which the Giants Yorkers falled score. For that matter, every game was a no-score game of the losers, which secord still surpasses all other world's series in a display of pliching strength.

The New York Giants wen the world series of 1921 after angling for it many times since 1992. Attention has been called to the fact that the Giants, after a lapse of 17 than the date on which they on the first world series with the won the first world series with the strongest pitching staff any National lengue club has had in such a series, are preparing to enter that of this year with the weakest pitching staff that any team has had, so far as can be determined by the presumable ability of the players prior to the actual games on the field.

Frenk Bets, re Made.

Frenk Bets Are Made, That has brought about a freak het. A wager has been laid that none of the New York pitchers, with the exception of Nehf, will pitch a full nine-inning game. A wager also has been made that Scott, who was released outright by Cincinnati early in the year because his arm was reported to be useless, will be the winning pitcher for the Giants this year because of the fact that the world series always develops the unexpected. develops the unexpected.
