

Annabelle's Favorite Dolls

My Diary

I DID have the most wonderful time at Dotty Jane's doll party Tuesday. At first I couldn't decide which dolls to take, since each one of us was to bring only two, and I have so many! But finally I decided to take Marie Claire, because she is my most beautiful child, and my dear old Minerva, because I love her best.

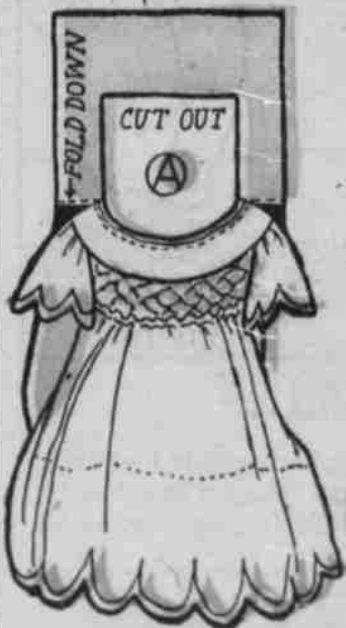

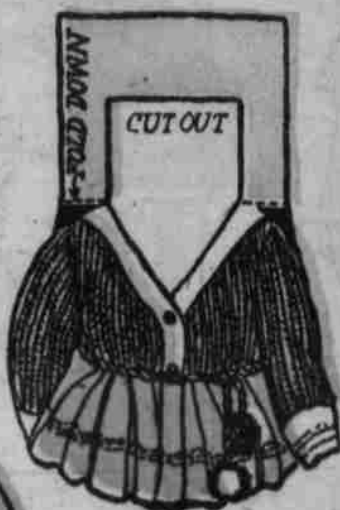

All the dolls behaved so nicely—Dotty Jane said, wouldn't it be nice if we always made our mothers as proud of us as we were of them? They all were good, that is, except Marie Claire, who upset her tea all over the tablecloth and her nice new dress. Now I know how Mother felt the time I asked for a third helping of ice cream at Mrs. Platt's. I certainly must put Mother into my diary. I'll do that next week.
