

CORONER PROBES KILLING OF RECTOR

Public Excluded From Inquest at Havre..

REPORTERS ARE SNUBBED

Officials Denounce What They Call Effort to Uncover Big Sensation.

HAVRE, Mont., Oct. 28.—Official investigation by a coroner's jury into the death of the Rev. Leonard Carleton lasted until late tonight, no witnesses being examined until the night session. The public was excluded from the inquest.

According to authorities, there were no developments tending to disprove the story of Mrs. Christie to the effect that she heard shots in the next room, opened the door, and saw the body of her husband on the floor and saw Mrs. Carleton shoot herself.

Mrs. J. H. Phyle, formerly Mrs. Don Davenport, mother of Mrs. Carleton, arrived at Havre today, but was in a condition of such nervousness that she was unable to discuss the tragedy with the police.

Bishop Faber to Speak.
Bishop Faber, head of the Montana diocese of the Episcopal church, will preach the funeral sermon, and business houses in Havre will be closed for an hour out of respect to the late rector, "the bishop of all outsiders."

Activities of press correspondents here do not find favor with Coroner Holland, who, expressing contempt this morning, said "all they want is something sensational," and he followed his statement with the intimation that the killing of the minister, supposedly, he said, by a member of the minister's parish, was not particularly the public's affair.

Coroner Holland said that when Mrs. Carleton, who according to his version, shot the minister and then turned the gun on herself, ending her own life, came to the coroner's home at 1 o'clock Friday morning she acted demented and that in view of this and statements made to him by Mrs. Christie, he was convinced by "I know and all the officials know how the killing came about."

Correspondents Are Rebuffed.
When asked to state what Mrs. Christie had said to him, the coroner said that the killing was a murder and suicide. Coroner Holland said again it was not the public's business and that he would not make Mrs. Christie's statement public unless she should receive the consent of Mrs. Phyle, mother of Mrs. Carleton.

If Mrs. Phyle should desire an inquest, the coroner said, he would arrange one and would call Mrs. Christie to the stand and let her tell her own story.

While Dr. Christie was best known in northern Montana, his activities had taken him to other parts of the state and he was widely known in Butte and Helena.

When he came to Montana the saloon was an established institution and gambling was not uncommon. The rector seemed to accept these things as part of the west, indeed, he often was found in bars with friends at all times of the night, and while he did not drink, he seemed to have patience with those who did. His friends said he felt that he was needed in such places and he exerted his influence for good without attempting any of the methods of the ordinary reformer.

Prize Taken in Work.
As a missionary, Dr. Christie took a pride in his work. His territory embraced an area of about 600 miles long and 300 miles wide. In it were the Little Rockies, the Blue Mountains and other regions notorious for the desperadoes they had produced. He knew those remote camps well and visited them as often as his duties would permit.

He came to the state at a time when the great cattle ranges of the north began to contract under the activities of the dry land farmer, a period of transition in which the stock-growing industry changed its character in large part.

He saw certain sections provide homes for many settlers, but for the most part his district still is sparsely inhabited, and the towns small and widely separated. The country appeared to him and he loved the name "Bishop of all outsiders," given him by Stewart Edward White in a novel.

HAMMER BLOWS AHEAD

school bill and thereby interested rights ran into the ranks of the party. So keenly do some democratic stalwarts feel on this subject that they have belted Mr. Pierce and they are men whose democracy has stood the acid test for a generation.

Apologetists for Mr. Pierce in his own party state that his commitment to the school bill was the price he paid to have Charles Hall eliminated as an independent candidate for governor and to secure for himself the support of the forces behind the school measure.

Winburn Against School Bill.
Even Jesse Winburn, who contributed $500 to the Pierce campaign and who has been directing the Pierce publicity, is dissatisfied with the Pierce position and the contributor is reportedly denouncing the school bill. Mr. Pierce says he will support the bill which he has helped contribute to.

IRISH APPROVE NEW CONSTITUTION

Ulster Expected to Reject Free State Plan.

BELFAST HOLDING BACK

Canny Folk Refuse to Erase Border Until South Shows Governing Ability.

BY PAUL WILLIAMS.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service. Copyright, 1922, by the Chicago Tribune.)
DUBLIN, Oct. 28.—Two coming events of great importance in Ireland which already are accepted as facts are the approval of the free state constitution and the decision of northeast Ulster not to join the free state. Plans are being made as if these already had happened. And the makers of them are more determined than cheerful.

The executives of the six-county government and the executives of the 26-county government see a long and hard winter ahead, which will be much more bitter than they occupied the same administration building. The canny folk of Belfast will not erase their boundary until the Dublin Irish have proved conclusively that they can run the country.

Border Is Problem.
This may take two years and it may take more, depending largely upon how much of a quarrel developed over the reading of the six-county border, how high a tariff wall Dublin builds around the 26 counties, and how much economic pressure is exerted in an effort to convince the northerners they cannot exist alone.

They can come in and retain virtually the independence a state has within the United States, and article 44 of the constitution is written expressly for Ulster. It empowers the free state parliament to create subordinate legislatures with such powers as may be decided by law. In the original draft these powers were fixed and were intended to permit the Ulster body more leeway.

Decision Due Soon.
Ulster probably will announce its decision formally because Sir James Craig already has unmistakably indicated that he would do so before the first of the year.

Duly signed, the constitution of the free state will be handed next week to the ranking occupant of Vice-Regal Lodge here to be forwarded to London. Its consideration will be the first business of the new British parliament, which meets November 29. The discussion is not expected to consume more than a few days. The king will announce its passage in a proclamation and the free state will be a fact. Ulster will have one month to say no.

Judge Pemberton to Go to OLYMPIA DECEMBER 1.
Election to Supreme Court Will Be Unopposed; Justice Hovey Expected to Resign.

COURT CHANGE ARRANGED

OLYMPIA, Wash., Oct. 28.—(Special.)—William H. Pemberton of Bellevue, who will be elected to the supreme bench of the state to serve the remainder of the term of Justice Mount, who died a year ago, will take office about December 1. It is understood in legal circles here.

An agreement has been reached whereby Justice Hovey, appointed to the supreme bench by Governor Hart, following Justice Mount's death, will vacate the office as soon as Judge Pemberton can qualify for the position, which will not be before December 1, as he is not officially elected until the vote of the general election is officially canvassed.

Judge Pemberton was nominated in the September primary over Justice Hovey and will be unopposed in the general election.

Justice Hovey, it is understood, is willing to leave the office as soon as Judge Pemberton qualifies. Judge Hovey will move to Seattle to resume law practice.

MAYFLOWER HONOR AIM

Sanction of Descendants' Society Asked in Petition.
BOSTON, Oct. 28.—A petition bearing the signature of many distinguished men, headed by Major General Leonard Wood, has been filed with the legislature, asking sanction for the organization of a corporation to be known as the General Society of Mayflower Descendants. The petition sets forth the intention to make the corporation a sort of mother society for organizations of Mayflower descendants now in existence in various states.

The organization purposes, the petition says, "to perpetuate to a remote posterity the memory of the Pilgrim fathers and to maintain and defend the principles of civil and religious liberty as set forth in the compact of the Mayflower."

Among the signers are Chief Justice Taft and Senator Lodge.

Freak Apple Tree Found.
ROSEBURG, Or., Oct. 28.—(Special.)—People pickers working in the F. B. Ewens orchard in Garden valley today found an apple tree bearing ripe fruit, blossoms and buds in quantities on the same branches. Experienced fruit growers were unable to explain this horticultural freak.
