County officials who have part in directing conduct of elections exthemselves yesterday as ressed leased with the new plan under which the second or counting board, begins its work early on election A survey of the effect the "double board" system shows that it has remarkably speeded up the making, filing and publishing of returns.

In the election held last Tuesday every Multhomah county precinct board had its returns in County Clerk Beveridge's office within 28 hours after the closing of the polls. In previous general elections the time before all boards had made returns often dragged out to three days, or even more. The first board to appear with its ballot boxes and reports reached the clerk's office at 20 minutes past $ o'clock Tuesday night, an hour and 20 minutes after the closing of the polls. A second return was on the counter two min utes later.

Speed Records Are Made. Speed Records Are Made. Under the old system, wherein the counting board did not begin its work until the polls closed, such speed records were not dreamed of and were entirely impossible. No particular change in city gov-ernment will result because of the success of the 3-mill tax measure, although had this been defeated it would have required a general re-organization of all city departments and a reduction in service, esti-mated at 28 per cent all down the line.

Before any general plans can be made for 1923 city activity, city of-ficials must await the action of the

The incident of the belated pre-cinct return in Portland in 1920 em-phasizes what exasperating condi-tions have been eliminated under the double board plan. When, after three days had intervened and pre-cinct No. 225, at East Fourteenth street and Broadway, had not been heard from an investigation was made. This was what The Ore-sonian said about the delay: "The day board has been strug-ting along with the ballots until the customary closing time, when adjourn until the following morn-ing."
