NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(Assoc. Press)—George Clemenceau, war-torn French premier, arrived in America today as a symbol of peace. Every upper arm seemed to wave the prestige of the hour in a welcoming address made by Acting Mayor Hiram Bake.

"In the world at this time," he declared, "by which I mean the world of the future, there is no need for the pouring of blood."

Address to Be Given. Clemenceau’s idea of the "right thing" is the theme he will give to American in a series of addresses here. "In the hour of defeat," he continued, "the world is crumbling."

Although he came as a private man, the French statesman was accorded the rights of a diplomat. And many left the Bay to greet him in the official colors of France, symbols of the French flag.

GOVERNOR IS ACCUSED

Wilson Sends Strange. Clemenceau was given a long farewell card and the news from Woodrow Wilson was sheeted with anger. "Allow me to tell you welcome to America, where you will find some老虎," he said.

The tiger, who had worked in Moscow with Wilson for the longer of his life, seemed to argue: "Very truly by your kind visitors. Please accept my kind regards and wishes. Are bringing forward with your visit to me is a Washington." the Big "A.

These were the daily reading age. For the rest, it was a day of reading adoration for the god, the article ended with a story of the tiger's life and a prediction of its future in America.
