Work in Connection With Coming Sale of Seals Invaluable. "Fresh from a fight in which he was the victor, one of our most faithful Boy Scouts arrived at the office of the tuberculosis association Friday and announced that he had stayed away from a party to which he had been invited in order to come down and help us work."

"This is the spirit of the Boy Scouts in their assistance to us. In fact, to the Boy Scouts more than to any other organization is due the success of our annual sale of Christmas seals. We could not put the sale on as we do except for their help, for we could not afford to hire the assistance necessary to prepare for the sale. Every day for weeks past from one to six Scouts have been on hand every afternoon after school and all day Saturday folding pamphlets, counting seals, stamping, stuffing and mailing envelopes and doing the thousand and one things incident to the preparations for the disposal of the several million seals which Oregon will try to sell."

"The girl reserves recently joined the ranks of volunteer workers and is coming to us in considerable numbers after school and Saturday and their assistance, too, is helping to lighten our burdens greatly."

early in October as the second or third exploit of their career in crime. They obtained less than $19 in this holdup, the men stated. In obtaining a confession from the pair upon their arrest here Sheriff Hurlbert learned that both belonged to pioneer Oregon families. Crabtree's grandfather took one of the first donation land claims in Linn county and the town of Crabtree was named for him.

The men said they had come to the conclusion that the holdup game was poor business and were at the point of giving up the car they used and going to work at an honest job in a logging camp. In their sight or nose stickups they never took anything but money. The aggregate of what they got in five weeks was under $400. Much their largest haul was taken in a lumber camp near Bend, where they raided a poker game and obtained $220.

PEOPLES THEATER TO OPEN SATURDAY

45,000 City Folk Puzzled by Secret of Slogan. BRIGHT FEATURES AHEAD Pictures of Great Producers Will Be Shown During Season by Jensen & Von Herberg.

The lid's off. The cat's out of the bag. The beans have been spilled. Take your choice of how to express it; the fact is that the secret of the slogan "It Starts November 25 at Five," which has been puzzling thousands of Portland people for two weeks, has been revealed.

"It Starts November 25 at Five" was the Jensen & Von Herberg Greater Theaters company's method of "telling the world" that a season of better entertainment will start at the Liberty, Peoples, Majestic and Columbia theaters November 25. This announcement was made yesterday by J. L. Johnston for Jensen & Von Herberg.

During the last week more than 45,000 Portland people were called to the phone to learn that "It Starts November 25 at Five, Mrs. Jensen & Von Herberg announced "It starts November 25 at five." Advertisements added to the city as did the big electric sign at Washington and Broadway.

"In spilling the beans" it was announced that C. S. Jensen has closed contracts with First National Pictures, Paramount, Universal, Goldwyn, Pathe and other leading producers and distributors which assure entertainment for patrons of the Liberty, Rivoli, Peoples, Majestic and Columbia theaters which $100,000,000 spent in production could not duplicate.

"Portland's appreciation of the many good productions we have been able to offer in the last year has led us to obtain the very best product of the screen market for this 'greater movie season,'" said Mr. Jensen. "Our screens, as a result of the contracts I recently signed, will reflect only the most meritorious works of recognized leading producers, authors and stars. We hope to establish the highest point of motion picture entertainment service in America in our five Portland theaters."

Those in charge of "Greater Movie Season" are J. L. Johnston, First National Pictures, Seattle; Paul E. Noble, Liberty theater; Charles E. Conche, Peoples theater; Gus Metzger and John Stille, Rivoli; Frank Lacey, Majestic; E. E. Marsh, Columbia; all of Portland; Mike Lewis, Paramount pictures, Los Angeles. Mr. Jensen is chairman of the committee.

CITIZENSHIP FACES TEST COMMUNITY CHEST DRIVE OPENS TOMORROW. Success of Campaign Means Portland Cares for Unfortunate Ones, Says Chairman.

(Continued From First Page.) that performs a service for the giver as well as the recipient. "The whole chest drive is a labor of love. It is carried on by an entirely voluntary organization, save a minimum of clerical help. The Portland chest drive has the lowest overhead cost of all chest cities, so far as we have any record. "I want to urge everyone enlisted in the drive to do his or her utmost to bring success at the earliest possible moment. We must have one-fifth more subscriptions than during the last drive. That will put us over the top. It can be done. Let's do it!"

System's Value Proved. General Sammons pointed out that the chest appeal is presented to the city with full proof that this is the best means ever found for carrying on the acts of mercy to which well-disposed persons lend themselves. Chest methods and operation have been given the most thorough investigation and each such inquiry has resulted favorably. Only last week the City club reported its findings after a survey of the chest and the board of directors, who gave their unqualified approval to the chest method of aiding the needy.

The chairman also urged that Portland citizens not forgetfully represented in chest subscriptions should to the support of the work. He said that if those who have not given in the past subscribe only 5 cents for each charity a month, the result will be that the budget will be raised quickly and the individual amounts will be so small that they never will be missed by the donors.

can designate his subscription and it will go to the cause for which he intends it. Portland churches will carry the message of the chest to their congregations throughout the city, either at morning or evening services today. Pastors of the various denominations have been shown the benefits of the modern, business-like way of carrying on the city's works of mercy and Dr. E. H. Pentz, chairman of the speakers' division, has sent a letter to all the churches asking that they call attention to the drive from their pulpits.

Good Work Demonstrated. Leaders of the campaign, in order to make the drive everyone in Portland the good works of the chest during the first eight months of this year, have compiled the following figures: The chest, through the various homes it supports in part or wholly, cared for 1972 babies and children in children's homes, and the day nursery mothered 15,998 children, an average of 52 a day. Cared for 544 jobless men in homes for the homeless. Cared for 519 girls and 167 babies in girls' club homes. Cared for 32,561 sick persons through health agencies and educated 58,000 citizens in prevention of disease. Cared for 376 helpless old people in old folks' homes. Helped 30,109 boys and young men. Helped 13,168 girls and young women and travelers through the citizenship and character-building agencies. In all, Portland citizens were served 825,253 times by these agencies, services ranging from swims to jobs. This is an average of three times a year per citizen of Portland.

Working Girls Assisted. Helped 101,875 people in a multitude of ways in the city. Helped 57,828 needy folk; supplied 7396 families and re-established 175 ex-prisoners through relief agencies. Brought 12,000 working girls through working girls' clubs; furnished 40,111 meals, 1396 free rooms and 4155 jobs. Helped feed 110,000 orphans daily in the near east. With that record of accomplishment to its credit so far this year, with winter just ahead, when there will be an increasing demand for help, and with demonstrated economy of operation and efficiency as arguments, the drive leaders declare they have a just claim upon Portland's purse-strings.

High hopes for success are based largely upon the active support of many citizens through the chest. The residential division canvass is entirely in the hands of a group of capable feminine officers and workers, and they are expected to make yesterday that the drive can and will be put through in record time.

Portland Men Challenged. "If the men do their part as thoroughly as we do ours, there will be no question of the success of the 1923 chest campaign," declared one of the women leaders. Mrs. Victor Brandt is the general in charge of the residential division, with Mrs. C. B. Simmons acting as her adjutant-general. Generals who have active positions of leadership in Mrs. Brandt's organization are: East side, Mrs. Thaxter Reed, Mrs. O. M. Johnson and Mrs. C. H. Johnson; west side, Mrs. Harry Meyer, Mrs. Isaac Sweet, Mrs. J. C. Costello; colored women's division, Mrs. George H. Benjamin; flying squadrons, Mrs. George F. Wilson; supplies, Mrs. J. L. Lowe.

When Portland men work yesterday morning it found the sidewalks of the downtown district attended, "Give by the month" in red letters. This stunt was the work of 22 H. Y. boys of the high schools, who, led by J. C. Henderson of Portland Community Service, started at midnight Saturday and painted the legend on the sidewalks 1000 times. A day night aided them in their enterprise.
