

TIGER COMPLETES U.S. SPEAKING TOUR

Last Address Is Blend of All Five Others.

PHILADELPHIA IS HOST

Clemenceau Confident America Is Convinced That France Is Not Militaristic.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—Georges Clemenceau, the grizzled French war premier, today ended his "formal" speaking mission to America before the Philadelphia Forum in the Academy of Music, with the broad intimation that he believed he had accomplished all of the three purposes for which he forsook his cottage by the sea in France.

Of two of them he evinced no doubt. He was confident he had convinced America that France was not a militaristic nor an imperialistic nation. He was equally sure he had spread conviction that France intended to make her debt to America—not immediately, perhaps, but ultimately.

He quoted a paragraph from President Harding's annual message to congress yesterday as an indication that the third point—bringing America back to the side of France and England—also was being accomplished.

Fact Comment Cited.

The paragraph was the president's comment on the four-power pact which the executive said had brought "a new confidence in the maintained peace which he suggested might be made a model for like assurance, wherever in the world any common interests are concerned."

"I told your chief," Clemenceau continued, "that when he pondered on what I had said to him I believed his feeling would find its way toward us and I believe it has. But I don't know what the diplomats will make of it."

It was again his "peace message" that Clemenceau delivered to the representative audience that faced him in the gayly decked academy of music.

But it was a plea for peace based on France's ideas and these ideas, he declared, France would defend to the last drop of her blood, even if she had to defend them alone.

Addresses Are Blended.

All the five "formal" addresses he had made before were blended in this last one. Now he was the fiery tiger, flashing defiance against France's enemies; now the advocate, carefully stating his case; now, an old man pleading for his native land, that she be not misunderstood.

Several times he was interrupted by applause. At the end he was given a long ovation.

Clemenceau spoke at 11 A. M., after he had been taken through crowded downtown streets to Independence hall—the cradle of the nation—where he used the historic Liberty bell, and sat in the chair that John Hancock used when he signed the Declaration of Independence.

Crowds had massed about Independence hall and he was cheered as he entered and as he left the famous old structure. His escort was Philadelphia's proudest military body—the First City troop, attired in a pattern of antique and American revolution. It was the troop which has had the honor of escorting every president who has visited Philadelphia since the days of George Washington.

Another Crowd About Car.

Another crowd was about his car as he emerged from the academy after he had finished his address, and it was with difficulty that the police were able to restrain enthusiasts who wanted to get a close-up of the distinguished visitor.

The Tiger drove immediately to his private car, which left at 3:25 this afternoon for Chicago, where on Monday he will deliver a special message to the nation's farmers at a farmers' convention.

Among Clemenceau's guests at luncheon on the car was Bernard M. Baruch, who was one of President Wilson's advisers during the peace conference at Paris. Clemenceau and Baruch discussed economics, and it is understood that the latter gave the former French premier some information which he may use in his Chicago speech.

Clemenceau plans to pass tomorrow resting at Cresson, on the crest of the picturesque Allegheny mountains, resuming his journey Sunday evening in time to reach Chicago Monday morning.

the American field service fund fellowship in French and American universities. The Tiger today so advised Representative A. Platt Andrews of Massachusetts, who organized and directed the American field service, the agency through which hundreds of young Americans gave aid to France before the United States entered the war.

When the war closed it was decided that the names of 127 of the field service should be perpetuated by the creation of a like number of scholarships, by which young American university men could be sent to French universities and young Frenchmen could be sent to American universities. A total fund of $2,200,000 is the object, but so far only $500,000 has been obtained. Thirty scholarships have been created. Like the Rhodes scholarships, one of the objects was to stimulate friendship between the nations.

RADIO SPREADS ADDRESS

Thousands in Distant Cities Hear President's Message.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 9.—Thousands in distant cities listened Friday to President Harding's address to congress, broadcast by radio through the naval station at Annapolis and passed along through various relay stations to a good part of the country. It was the first time the new voice-amplifying device in the house of representatives had been connected with the wireless.

One of those who heard the address without attending the joint session was Mrs. Harding, who had a special receiving set installed in her sick room.

A HIGH CLASS INVESTMENT

An unusual opportunity is available for a few conservative investors in a right transportation enterprise. This business is under the best of management—in the hands of men who have been identified with the most successful shipping interests in Portland. A prominent consulting engineer of Portland has carefully surveyed and investigated this proposition and has estimated the gross profits for 1923, based on only 3000 cargo (although the apparent business will easily be 5000) at $12,250 on the small capitalization of $20,000.

This is one of those rare opportunities for an investor to purchase stock (par value $25.00) where the security is ample and the reasonable dividend offerings exceptionally high. It is to your interest to fully investigate this unusual opportunity, for you will find it safe, conservative and substantial. For full details call or write.
