THE approach of Christmas holidays bring plans for many gay festivities. Society is busily preparing for the yuletide and the shops for a number of days have been bright with the season's decorations of greens and red ribbon bows. Many of the younger set who are attending colleges and boarding schools will be home for their vacation. Looking over the social calendar one finds innumerable Christmas dinners with but relatives and immediate families scheduled for that day. Many attractive dances will be given Christmas night. One of the smartest events of the coming week will be the subscription dance Tuesday evening. The Waverley club will be the scene of this affair, which will be attended by a large group of the debutants and a number of young married folk. Several dinner parties will precede this affair. The Arts and Crafts society in conjunction with the Drama league New York city were visitors in
