

OREGON STATE FUND DRIVE PROGRESSES

Executive Committee Finds Outlook Encouraging.

LIBERAL TONE PREVAILS

President Mielke Says $300,000 for Development Movement Finds Ready Response.

Optimism ruled at the meeting yesterday of the executive committee in charge of the Chamber of Commerce drive for $300,000 to be devoted to state development. It was the general expression of opinion that no handicap had been encountered that could not be overcome easily, and that although a longer time will be required than at first was thought, the money is certain to be raised and devoted to the purposes intended.

"It will take more than a light fall of snow to discourage the Portland Chamber of Commerce when it launches a big undertaking such as this is," said President Mielke in commenting on the effect of the storm of the last week which interfered with the work of the solicitors who had been delegated to call upon business and professional men to invest in the enterprise.

Movement Will Succeed.
"We are determined to be successful in this movement and are receiving encouragement on all sides. I doubt if a more popular project ever has been suggested in this community and people not only in Portland, but all over the state, are beginning to realize what it means to Oregon. Those workers who have reported tell of a favorable attitude on the part of business men toward the chamber's programme. All that now is required is a little burst of activity on the part of our representatives and there will be a quick cleanup. There is no doubt of our getting the money required. We will not quit until this is done and we are heartily backed up by those who are willing and eager to put up the necessary cash to advance the interests of the state along the lines proposed by the chamber. It may be necessary to give the workers more help; possibly organization of some of the departments may be required. If so that will be attended to promptly so as not to involve further delay.

Enterprise Is Investment.
"Community Chest affairs, the Astoria disaster, holiday activities, all have had an effect on the chamber's drive, but not to an extent that resulted in serious interference. They had to be considered, however, but business houses are looking upon the chamber's enterprise as an investment from which they expect to receive good returns, and I am pleased to say that the responses so far have been entirely satisfactory."

R. W. Price, chairman of the executive committee, has called another meeting of that body for tomorrow at 4 P. M. in Room 612, Oregon building, when matters pertaining to the drive will be discussed further.

Tuesday at noon the captains with their teams of workers, will meet in the dining room of the chamber for luncheon. It is expected at this meeting reports more favorable than even yet have been given will be made.

The largest subscriptions made yesterday were by some of the hotels of the city. The sum of $6000 was received from the Multnomah, Bismarck, Imperial and Oregon hotels. Other hotels will be heard from next week.

1922 MAZAMA OUT SOON

Publication, Well Illustrated, Has Articles on Mountaineering.

Containing a number of articles on mountaineering in the Pacific northwest and profusely illustrated with scenes of Oregon's mountain playgrounds, the "1922 Mazama," annual publication of the Mazama organization, will be ready for distribution next Wednesday. Robert W. Osborn, executive secretary of the City club, edited the magazine, assisted by George E. Matthews, John R. Byers, Ella P. Roberts and M. W. German.

Most of the scenes and articles center around the club's annual outing in the Three Sisters district last summer. Walter Boychuk, official

Mazama photographer, was responsible for the selection of views, many of which are of astonishing beauty.

Among the contributions are the following: "Annual Outing, Three Sisters," Alfred F. Parker; "Map Making by Photography," Lage Wernstedt; forest service; "Flora in the Three Sisters District," Henry J. Biddle; "A Chronicle of the North Sister," John A. Lee; "Mount Washington," Robert W. Osborn; "Paradise Park, Mount Hood," Jameson Parker; "Ascent of Mount Popocatepetl, Mexico," Rodney L. Gilsan; "In the Canadian Rockies," Dorothy S. Brownell; memorials to Dr. Frank Barbour Wynn and Enos A. Mills by Frank Branch Riley and Rodney L. Gilsan, and the "President's Message," Richard W. Montague.

The magazine will be distributed from the Mazama club rooms, 332 Chamber of Commerce building.

OREGON MAN IS CHAMPION LONG-DISTANCE TATTER.

Harry Donahue, Or., has laid claim to being the champion male tatter of the world as the result of a scarf which he has just completed. The scarf was started while he was on a ranch in the San Rafael mountains of California, about a year ago, and was completed later in the state of Washington. It was exhibited at the Mossy Rock, Wash., fair, where it took a prize. The scarf, which may be used either for wear or for decorating a table, contains one and a half miles of thread. It has 54,578 double knots, 3294 scallops and eight colors. It is 60 inches long and 18 inches wide. Mr. Donahue says he is planning starting on another.

Peterson's Manager Makes Another Price Concession

The new purchasers of Peterson's Upstairs Shop will not be ready to take possession of our present location for some days yet. This means we've some time left yet in which to dispose of this remaining new 1922 stock of women's wear. Hence these drastic price reductions.

COATS—
For the woman seeking an inexpensive coat, we've just exactly eleven sport coats which ordinarily should sell for $15.00, that tomorrow will sell for only $7.00. Every one fully lined. The values are remarkable.

Or again—there are our velours and Normandy coats, some with beaverette collars, crepe de chine lined and priced at the astounding figure of but $17.00. Included also in this group are some clever sport coats in plaids, polos, tweeds, heather mixtures, herringbones and plain plover. Coats of this sort are ideal for wear now and way into the Spring.

Then there are the more expensive coats of bolivia, with caracul or wolf collars and cuffs, fully lined and inter-lined. Loose bloused back models in navy, brown, or black. These are as stunning coats as you'll want—and the price—but $37.00 for tomorrow's selling—makes them values beyond comparison.

DRESSES—
Peterson's manager has two huge selling groups of these dresses. Group 1, contains frocks of Canton Crepe, Poirer Twill, Tricotine, and Tric O Chene, in all the new Winter styles, effects and colors. If you think you'll soon need a dress—by all means take advantage of this sale and buy any frock in Group 1 for $11.65. In Group 2 are models selling for $16.65—ordinary values of $50.00—and this figure is placed exceedingly conservative for dresses of this sort. There are light filmy evening gowns in delicate pastel shades, plain and beaded canton crepes and twills. Long drape models, panel effects, large bell sleeves—in fact YOUR style dress is here—just come and make your selection. Remember, the price on every dress in Group 2 is but $16.65, a price less than even wholesale cost—and every dress is new, smart, seasonable merchandise. Come and compare these values.

WAR STAMPS TO MATURE

1918 SAVINGS SERIES DUE ON FIRST OF YEAR.

Redemption at Face Value or Investment in Treasury Notes Optional With Holders.

War savings stamps of the series of 1918 are due to mature January 1 and either may be redeemed for their face value or turned in for a new issue of treasury saving certificates in denominations of $25, $100 and $1000. Savings stamps for which $4.11 was paid in 1918, will be redeemed for $5, or par value, on January 1. The stamps may be redeemed or traded at banks or postoffices. Stamps worth $25 may be traded for a $25 treasury certificate discounted to $20.50 and $4.50 in cash.

A person having $1000 in war savings stamps may trade them to the government for one $1000 treasury certificate, two $500 treasury certificates and $16 in cash.

Where war savings stamps are not exchanged for treasury certificates cash may be paid. A $25 certificate sells for $20.50; a $100 certificate for $82 and a $1000 certificate for $820. Each will mature after five years and will yield approximately 4 per cent per annum, with interest compounded semi-annually. Where the certificates are redeemed before maturity interest of 3 per cent will be paid.

DEGREE IS CONFERRED

Head of Washington State School For Blind Is Honored.

Herbert R. Chapman, superintendent of the Washington state school for the blind at Vancouver, Wash., received the degree of master of arts on recommendation of the academic senate of the university of regents of the University of California.

Mr. Chapman is a graduate of Oberlin college, where he received the degree of bachelor of philosophy. He has had extensive experience as an educator in the Colorado school for the deaf pending to taking the position of superintendent of the Washington school. He did considerable research work at the University of California.

Walter Brooks Acquitted.

A verdict of not guilty was returned by the jury which heard evidence in the trial of Walter Brooks, indicted for larceny of an automobile. The defense was that one Jack Williams was the real thief. The state admitted that another party had been implicated and that he had evaded capture. The car was stolen in the downtown district in August and Brooks was secretly indicted late in November.
