HERE is a presidential ticket for our republican friends—Chauncey M. Depew for head, and Roswell G. Horr for the tail of the ticket. If elected Chauncey could furnish a plentitude of gall and suavity and Horr could furnish the necessary wind.

THERE is no doubt that Secretary of State Kinsaid had an idea that he could keep the state from paying the railroad, game and food commissioners. They have all received their salaries however, and the Secretary's bid for popular favor has lost its value.

"Sherman writ a leetle book, Twuz filled with mash so sour That many a cold insensate spook Did at its pages glower."

With all due respect to departed greatness, mutual friend dedicates these lines to "Honest John's" pamphlet, and suggests that it is very appropriate.

THIRD term talk is nonsense. There is some ground, however, for republicans to raise a tempest in a teapot. They know that President Cleveland would gain many of their party voters, simply on general principles. But Cleveland has too much Americanism to even tolerate the idea of another nomination.

THE ARGUS modestly submits his interrogatory: Did Job wish for eath, or entertain the thought of it, when he said, "O, that mine adversary had written a book!" As he as sorely afflicted, and knew the nature of mankind it would appear at even at that day there were John Shermans and Sackville's.

WITH a production unequalled, considering the territory capable of cultivation it is deplorable that Washington county has not a more complete exhibit at the exposition. The State exhibit, of the whole, exceeds any previous exposition of its productions, and the county should have been in the van guard instead in the rear. Those individuals, however, who sent displays are to be applauded for their patriotism and interests.

FOR the eight months ending August 31, 1895, the exports of Oregon manufactured machinery were larger than any corresponding time in national history. This, too, under the Wilson which has its faults. The republican party will now contend it was given away. A million over of factory operatives have their wages advanced without a strike. Bradstreet reports this, and if it be lies, business should at once boycott the country.

THE government is quite extensive enough. The Sandwich Islands should have no charms in this greatest nation in the world. Yet, what a boon to disappointed seekers for executive offices these little archipelagoes afford! With John Sherman, Lieut-president of the state, leaving for a stiletto of office, a quadruple of soured officers, and Tom Reed as Czar of the lost domain, what great possibilities annexes could be farming out back number ones.

A fact beyond dispute that at many of the howlers of the government, and who are commonwealth divided to themselves, are the class who are, take out citizen papers, a night or two every six months on some of Uncle Sam's and receive a patent for 10 acres of land. These fellows listen to them, know how a government should be run, how business men should run their business, etc.

when it is a matter of fact that before they settled on public lands they never had a dollar, and it is safe to say a mortgage will plant itself on the holding soon after the title is received.

Why the times are hard in the west is not such an intricate problem after all. One factor is, that nine-tenths of the farm machinery purchased comes from the east. If the thousands of dollars spent in Oregon in trying to perpetuate a protective policy had been put into manufacturing for turning out such implements, it would have kept thousands of dollars here which have annually gone to pay eastern laborers and swell the profits of eastern manufacturers. As for the hard times in the east that is another story, but the solution is equally as easy.

RIGID and orthodox believers in the scriptural exactions as regarding the observance of the Sabbath, do not as a rule, object to eating meals prepared by their housewives on those days. While this may seem incongruous, yet it is strictly in line with the teachings of the day of promulgation of the Bible. Then, woman was a slave, and in view of the fact that many sticklers for Sabbath observance sit idly around the entire day and watch the "weaker" sex prepare something to eat, it would appear that the social system of a darker age has not entirely run its course.

PARTISAN loyalty oftimes keeps a caustic brain, which is always looking for some object whereon to exercise its venom, in check. These natural vindictive critics, however often find subjects in their own environment, and then no mercy is shown. It is but natural that the Oregonian should leave no stone unturned in the letting loose of its scathing terms upon prominent men opposite in political faith, but it seems strange that it should be unable to sufficiently repress its desire for gossip to let Garfield's political life alone. The nation as a whole, knows well enough that Garfield was a creature of a political avalanche, and that his weaknesses were manifold. Yet the same commiseration which keeps democratic papers silent on these subjects, should by all means invoke a silence upon the greatest of north-west dailies.

SENATOR John Sherman has at last brought himself into touch with all classes. He has written memoirs of his public life—said very much and very little—and they are very interesting. Yet, to students of political careers and watchers of national figures, Senator Sherman has lost much admiration. His utterances are being severely criticized, and though truthful, doubtless in many regards, they have torn away the veil of martyrdom which posterity has carefully covered many prominent figures in national life. His work is said to be full of hectic disappointment, the cause of which was inspired by what he seeks to intimate as treachery by his self-imposed lieutenant. His spleen descends somewhat upon the assassinated Garfield, whom he desires to intimate, cost him the presidential chair. In this age of harsh criticism and universal public judgement, Sherman has displayed a weakness such as but children possess. His political disappointments, which were the result of an overweening ambition, should not by himself have been advertised to the world.

COUNTY NEWS

FOREST GROVE.

An unfortunate accident happened Sunday to Mr Lathrop, an engineer who lives above Fir. While driving a load of lumber up hill and blocking the wagon in some unknown way the forefinger of the right hand was caught under the wheel and cut until the tip hung only by a shred of skin. The sufferer came to the Grove Monday and Dr Large amputated it and dressed the wound.

Mr A C Davis has completed on his place a new footbridge over the Patton creek to replace the old one which was covered at high water. The bridge is on the suspension plan, fifty feet long and now fifteen feet above water mark.

G T Hollister went to Portland Monday and saw his son, David, safely started for Moscow, Idaho, and met his daughter who had just returned from a visit in Washington.

Fred D Jones, of Portland, came out Saturday to visit his homestead on the side hill of Gales Peak, adjoining Armstrong's claim. He found the place burned over and buildings and fences destroyed. He suffers quite a heavy loss.

Frank Watters is building an addition to his house near South Park.

The mill expert came out Monday and started the machinery in the new L H Alberts & Co flour mill. Everything ran smoothly and before long good flour of home manufacture was piled in sacks on the lower floor. The mill ran all day without a hitch and to every one's satisfaction. Everything is in first class condition and the machinery is of the latest design. The mill building is very conveniently arranged and much more ornamental than its predecessor.

There was some excitement at the Western House Tuesday noon. It was thought the building was on fire but it turned out to be only a chimney.

Mr Pennell, of Dilley, is acting as engineer of the L H Alberts & Co mill.

Mr Loomis, superintendent of circulation of the Oregonian, was in town Tuesday taking subscriptions.

W W Breeden has bought the general merchandise store of B F Purdy at Dilley.

Mr and Mrs C L Hinman visited the metropolis Monday.

S A Walker has been making some repairs on his building on Main street.

John Dickens and Walter Bronson, of Laurel, were in town Monday on business.

K N Staehr has been making some improvements on his property east of town.

Dr Hiatt has completed his new barn in the north end of town.

W H Croasley's place is being filled and raised with sand about the dwelling. It will be one of the finest residences in the city.

P J Beckett, a Salem printer, was in town Tuesday looking up photo engraving.

SCHOLLS.

Mrs C R Adams and Mrs S W Seeley are sick.

Mrs S A Little is staying with Mrs Adams while she is indisposed.

Mr and Mrs Sutherland, of this place, accompanied by several friends from Mountain Side attended the quarterly conference at Lake Shore, Washington, this week.

Mrs Dolly Taylor Cromwell, of The Dalles, is visiting with her mother, Mrs Iowa Taylor, of this place.

Sam Sarnson and wife, of Reedville, visited the latter's mother this week.

Ed Brooks returned home last week after a year's sojourn in California.

Frank Miller, late of Hood River, will spend the winter at Scholls.

Rev Mr Emmels has rented the Jones farm near Kinton and is moving onto the same this week.

Mr Jones did business in Scholls Monday and is getting along nicely, considering his injuries.

L E LaRue is building a barn for Chas Kober.

Mrs Estella Hanley is visiting in Hillsboro this week.

Mr Daniels, of Dallas, was the guest of D B Emrick the first of the week.

Messrs Mostad, Emrick and Raynard did business in Sherwood the first of the week.

J D Rowell and wife visited with the latter's mother at Farmington Sunday.

Mr Alkersimon, of Farmington, did business with Mr Rowell Monday.

Mr Doshier, of Kinton, was in Scholls Monday on business.

We understand we are to have a new Evangelical church built at Scholls in the near future.

SCHOOL.

School will commence the 28th of October. Mr Root, of Newberg, will wield the rod.

BEAVERTON.

Oscar Floyd, a milkman residing near Paleigh, started for Portland about 7:00 p m on the 17th inst and when going down the hill near Ole Olsen's place his horse became unmanageable and dashed wildly along over the rough corduroy. Oscar endeavored to jump from the cart but in so doing his foot was caught in some manner by the cart wheel, throwing him violently to the ground, breaking his left arm about three inches above the elbow. A surgeon was called and reduced the fracture and now Mr Floyd is waiting for nature to fasten the parts together.

Annie Anderson, well known in this place but who has been living in Portland for several years, was operated on at St Vincent's Hospital on the 18th inst and died the next morning. Her body was brought to the home of her parents on Saturday and interred at Union School cemetery on Sunday.

A little son of D Bloomer who lives about 4 miles from Tualatin, sustained a fracture of his collar bone one day last week and was brought to Beaverton for surgical aid which rendered the little fellow quite comfortable compared to his condition before treatment.

Ralph Bunnell, son of Chas Bunnell of Tigarville died after 8 days illness of pluro-pneumonia and was buried at Ames Chapel cemetery. The family have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

Pneumonia is quite prevalent in this vicinity at present. All phases of the disease are present, from the slightest to the most virulent form.

Forest fires have been burning very fiercely to the north of us for several days. Many fences have been burned and much damage done, but as yet there has been no loss of life or buildings and it is to be hoped that rain will come to dampen the brush and trees before another east wind fans the small fires into another roaring flame.

Wm Owens, of Cedar Mill, has been confined to his bed since Sunday with a very painful attack of inter-costal-neuralgia.

The long looked for new store is here at last and are selling goods at prices that ought to suit customers of all classes. Many complaints have been made here on account of alleged high prices of groceries and it now remains to be seen whether our people are patriotic enough to support our stores sufficiently to justify Portland prices being maintained.

CORNELIUS.

Marion Tibbitts arrived home from Portland Monday.

Mrs Ollie Briggs arrived home Tuesday from Dunsner, California, wheresh she has been visiting her husband.

J R Miller and Banning attended the E of P lodge in Hillsboro Monday night.

Mr and Mrs Parker, of the Grove, visited with E F Emery last Sunday.

C T Dodd did business at Hillsboro on Tuesday.

W R Jackson, of Hillsboro, did business here Tuesday.

Tom Madigan, of the Grove, did business here Wednesday.

John Schmidt, south of Cornelius, had a fine horse stolen last week.

Ben Schofield and lady attended the exposition at Portland last week.

A populist from the east spoke at this place last Sunday evening.

C C Hanesek is putting a new roof on his barn.

E S Mc Nutt and wife have returned from Dallas where they have been visiting relatives.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

Our esteemed contemporary states in its last week's issue that the Willamette valley has nothing but wheat to sell. THE ARGUS modestly suggests that the Independent refer back to its issue of July 26, and take a look at the assessor's report of the productions of poor old impoverished Washington county.

Buy your apple boxes of R. H. Greer's, Cheap.

A 12-year old son of Stephen Rambo fell from a load of straw Friday evening, and dislocated his elbow. A physician from this city attended the little fellow and he is doing nicely.

Remember you can buy your school supplies cheap at the Hillsboro Bazaar.

If you want the news, step up and subscribe for this paper. It will be one dollar well spent.

Look at the Coast Carriage & Wagon Co's ad in another column.

Upon complaint of his father, John Becker, a 14 year old boy, is today being tried before the county court for incorrigibility. Under the same charge is Tom Christensen, a 16-year old boy, who is being tried before the tribunal. The Becker boy has been living away from home for some time and the two lads have pretty much had their own way.

Go to the Bazaar for school supplies.

J. H. Wilkins, a veteran of the civil war, while at this city recently, lost his discharge papers. The finder will confer a favor by leaving them at this office.
