THURSDAY, NOV. 7, 1895. THE CRY ABOUT WOOL.

A great hue and cry is being "Gorman bill" on wool. They are glad that the horrible details are showing how the slaughter of sheep over with. and lambs has been very detrimental to sheep raisers, little thinking that th ir very statements in this regard give them contradiction as to the intent of what they say. The fact of the matter is, mutton has become a very popular dish to Americans, and the increase of slaughter since 1871 has really been something enormous. Again this argument they present cuts two ways. Mutton has been a stable article out of the butchers' stalis, and has held its price well. If it be granted, for sake of argument, that the present law on wool is detrimental to wool growers, how are they going to stand off the fact that the corsumer is an element worthy of some consideration. Never in history have woolen goods been of so low price.

But to return to the slaughter to which they ascribe the blame to the Gorman bill. Statistics show that in 1871 there were 261,000 head of sheep killed in Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha and Kansas City, four principal western cities, and this under the high tariff law of 1867. By 1883 this number had assumed the round proportions of 614,000. By 1890, under the Mc-Kinley bill, the four cities annually butchered 1,612,000. In '91 it went up to 1,879,000; '92 to 2,112, 000; '93 to 3,278,000, and 1894 to 3,564,000, and this you will remember all took place under the Mc-Kinley law. When this law was DEMOCRACY LOOKING AHEAD TO 1896. ed last August, and the Gor man bill took effect, wool was higher than it had been for some time under the McKinley law, and so remained for some time. Again, the sales in the Boston market for the past 5 weeks have been fully as heavy, and somewhat heavier than for any corresponding time heretofore. Totally forgetful of the stubborn relation of supply to demand, the protectionists insist that the slaughter is due to the Gorman bill, to which it also attributes the low current price.

THE ARGUS does not seek to evade the fact that prices are low. nor be blind to the truth that the consumer's ability to buy is curtailed to what it was some years ago. But every person must be seriously alive to the causes which have brought on these conditions and we modestly submit that they should be properly located and pointed out. The withdrawal of huge blocks of foreign capital for a number of years, the overplus of immigration giving us a supply of labor greater by & than the demand, the American custom of building cities before contiguous! territory is developed properly to ical powers she will be no more sustain them, the slipshod method When feudalism and caste die, of government procedure in public there will be no England. he broken down the charge of remorse over the crime would have been made. Guilty or innocent, he stands convicted by 12 men, upon the evidence of some irresponsible old women, who, but for the art of the dentist, would now be toothless. As a matter of fact those who have followed the case closely, believe his name registered upon the records of the lecture room the day on which the crime was committed Admitting that there was a motive, in the reasonable mind he was guilty. Wi:hout the presumption, (there was no fact of motive shown) that there was a motive, the evidence was insufficient, and in demade by the protection press, head- fault of that, one must readily proed by the American Economist, a nounce him innocent. By their factional fights the democrats have lost what it will take years to regain, but the medicine, while drastic, will yet prove a boon. They will now begin to realize they must present a solid front, and get under cover for next year's campaign. If they then go down let it be with colors flying, the while the band is playing "In the Sweet Bye-and-Bye." However it is pleasing to note the democrats are not all dead.
