REPUBLIC OR SUBJECT.

With the fact staring us in the face that in this country since 1892, more spindles than ever have annually been running; knowing that this has required more labor than before, albeit more poorly paid; knowing that our exports of manufactured articles have been greater throughout the Cleveland administration than before, how, with all these things a matter of history, can we attribute so much depression to the tariff issue? The fact of the matter is, the people of Europe have been unable to buy our agricultural production. People abroad have pinched themselves in the necessities of life and this pinch, co-incident with our currency contraction at home, has produced depression and destitution at home.

purchase of legislation giving to a corporation the right to bleed a community for a number of years, have no other title than that of anarchists. Men, who by virtue of political pull, and personal following, say a legislature shall not be organized unless a certain man shall be elected senator, are anarchists in the truest sense of the term, and such anarchy begets a like opposition. Oregon had its anarchy last winter. Mitchell left his post of duty at Washington and came to Salem to vote an entire legislature. He was receiving fifteen dollars a day for representing Oregon in Washington. Instead of serving his state he came to Oregon to serve himself. This was anarchy—and this begot counter anarchy, which must be excused to the extent it was forced. As soon as legislators perceived Mitchell's flagrant anarchistic intent, they revolted and courted non-organization—really a forced state of anarchy.

Anarchy will never die so long as selfish ambition lives. Politically, it will live until the people of our states grow brain enough to elect their representatives by popular vote. The daily press writers should first get at living anarchy and disarm it. Corbett's appointment was anarchy, because it is really contrary to the wishes of a majority of Oregon's people. Forsooth, we can find anarchy rampant everywhere, and do not need to seek for Coxeites to place it.

TO AGAIN SAVE THE COUNTRY.

Ex-President Cleveland and a few of his political associates have had their meeting in Gotham and propose to capture the democracy in order to "save the country." If to save it in the sense of keeping McKinley in power is what they want, to get control of the democratic party will give them their desire. But Mr. Cleveland and his friends will not get control of the democratic party. There is no difference between Clevelandism and latter-day republicanism, but if the people must choose they will accept the latter.

The meeting was characterized by gold standard. The quiet served was a central committee. The only hope for Mr. Cleveland is to keep retired from public life. He cannot hope that republicans will nominate him in the next presidential race and if he accepts the Palmer ring nomination he will not be in the race.

It is very true. The president had cited him while he was in this city. Citizens thought that Sewall, bound for Honolulu, via Yaguina Harbor, from which place it was argued he would set sail in a dinghy for his post of duty. Subsequent investigation proved, however, that it was the Oregon railway transmute, otherwise known as the "railroad omission."

Mr. Corbett did not want Denny appointed. The Oregon delegation recommended him. Mr. Denny did not get the appointment and the Mitchellites can now decide whether their "god" has any power with the powers that be. Harold Sewall will go to ex-Queen Lili's domain and Mr. Denny can stay in Oregon and study the characteristics of the Denny pheasant.

It is said that a certain ex-congressman from the northwest is trying to recoup his fallen fortunes by boosting Oregon applicants for office. If he is no more successful in the future than was he with Mr. Denny's case, he may as well go out of business.

Mr. Dingley, of Maine, has replied to Mr. Cleveland, of Princeton. As the "national honor" must be protected, there should be no family rows. Bob Fitzsimmons may be able to find an engagement in the Levant and if Pompadour Jim is really aching to lick some one there are several unspeakable Turks who might claim his attention.

Mark Hanna is a regular Gibraltar when it comes to President making, but as a U. S. Senator he has found out that he isn't the only pebble on the beach. When the Dingley bill gets back to the house of its fathers, the family will not recognize its dilapidated features, and the blackened optics.

Phil Metcham has a hankering to be governor of Oregon. Phil knows a good thing when he sees it. Mr. Denny, of Oregon, may now be considered as put on the free list—free to stay in Oregon and contumaciously and the abame of it all is in the fact that this is under protection!

bill and they are entitled to their dues. The eastern syndicates should not be betrayed. They have as good right to the worth of their money as those who put up for the gold standard. Let there be honor between congress and these martyrs to the nation's credit and welfare.

"AMBASSADOR" Hay tells the British that he comes from millions who send them "affectionate greetings." Shades of George Washington! Only five years ago one-half of our people told the other half that they were trying to pauperize this nation for the benefit of the meanest country in the world (meaning England) and last year the other half told the other half that England was running us and was our worst enemy! Under these circumstances the hearers of "Ambassador" Hay can not be blamed should they think he is representing Canada.

The gold dailies, in attempting to lead people, forget to tell them that true anarchy is opposition to constituted legal authority and law and order as maintained to promote the peace and well being of the nation. Instead, they tell them that one who believes we need new national laws is a disciple of Most. In time our people will learn the difference.
