NOW IS THE PROPER TIME

There is much incongruity in the attempt of the republican party to coerce a prosperous condition by the joint policies of gold standard and high protection. 'Apropos of "cheap money," which is really "high prices," we all know that the treaty on very logical grounds. gold standard means dear money and a greater amount of product or labor to purchase a unit part thereof. A high protective tariff simply means an addition to prices on certain articles, of which the average farmer has but little to sell and so the laborer, under a gold standard and high protective tariff must work for steadily decreasing wages and pay greater prices for manufactured articles, albeit, he can buy the country which at one time taxserted the party which gave him back bone wilts to the tension of a twer-Under such policies the farmer must inevitably pay the same prices for the manufactured articles, plus the transportation to his rural retreat, while he sells his product on a "dear money" basis.

There is no better time than at present for those who farm to look needed by our commonwealth, and, somer or later our intelligent, knowledge-seeking farmers will see the logic of such ideas. It can ap peal to reason-it does appeal to reason—that gold basis and free trade go together, while bimetallism and incidental protection go to make up an allied team. All our great dailies, especially these edited by men of perspicuity, see the force of the foregoing statements and are working hard for a modification of the Dingley bill. As a matter of fact, they look upon the farmers as too dense to see the real cause of their clamor, but as husbandmen can control the legislation of the nation, the time will come when they shall vote as a unit for their self-protection. The metropolitan should be repealed. Under our press fears the result of a gold present statute, when birds are not for loaning.

A less resolute man would nestate to assume the leadership of a little band of 130,000, many of whom voted the Indianapolis ticket by mistake, and then standard and high tariff. This should be sufficient to cause producers to study at a time when the voice of the politician is drowned by the voice of the office seeker at Washington.

A. HALLUCINATION.

The agent of Zimmerman, the wholesale butcher of Portland, was through Hillsboro this week hunting mutton sheep. He found some muttons but they sheep. He found some muttons but they are high.
