SPIRIT OF DREAM CHANGETH

Tne spirit of Editor Gault's political dreams seem to have wonderfully and fearfully changed. While he supports, editorially, the rankest monometallism, he is not yet satisfied, but must everlastingly insinuate that one who can't see gold monometallism as very beneficial is foolish and a fit subject for Salem. The dear brother evidently forgets that one time he wrote us sweet, weird songs, about what his present advocacy would do. With a sob sticking in his throat and a tear in his eye, the dear brother, or one of his numerous sub-writers, gave vent to the following anarchy and red-handed nihilism—and less than two years ago:

"The Oregonian seems greatly exercised that several candidates for United States senator, and their friends are anxious to defeat Senator Dolph. It talks about the cry of 'anything to beat Dolph.' And why should not the state of Oregon not endeavor to defeat the re-election of Senator Dolph? His defeat is of more importance to the state than in the designation of the particular person who is to succeed him. He is representing a policy of contraction, is working to secure the interests of the banks and railroad corporations against the interest of the people. He represents Wall street and London, not the producing class of the state of Oregon. He is the representative of the East and Europe, not of the great West. Oregon, as well as the entire Western part of the United States has been built upon borrowed capital, and owes large sums to the east and Europe. We are willing to pay those debts fairly in the money of the value in which they were contracted. But the policy urged by Mr. Dolph of the contraction of the currency, making it scarce and high, would double and treble the indebtedness of every man in the state. The West sells food products and has no other way of paying its indebtedness, either interest or principal. The policy of Senator Dolph would decrease and is decreasing from one-half to two-thirds the price of everything that Oregon has to sell. Why should it openly and voluntarily increase its own debts and deminish the price of everything it has to sell? It will do this if Dolph is re-elected to the senate. Then why should not the opposing candidates, or the people at large be willing to take any capable man who will represent the productive interests of this state rather than take Senator Dolph? There is justice in the cry of "anything to beat Dolph." He is an enemy of the people of Oregon, and an enemy to every industrial interest, as well as the great West.

If elected at all, the election will be secured by means that would not bear scrutiny, and through the labored effort of about every person of the state whose services are for hire. The men whose votes are on the market will vote for Dolph. Are there enough of them to elect him? This is the question upon which his election hangs."

GOING TO SEE THE SENATOR.

Ex-Senator Mitchell left Portland the middle of last week for Washington, D. C., ostensibly to see the president about those appointments recommended by the Oregon delegation. It appears that he is somewhat exercised over the way things have gone. Just why his pets should remain without federal employment and juicy prosperity, while Mr. McKinley is visiting with Mr. Hanna, etc, is puzzling. So Mr. Mitchell goes back to know the why and wherefore. He will find, to his sorrow that "Senator" Corbett has the presidential ear. "Senator" Corbett controls Multnomah county. "Senator" Corbett is a banker with purse plethotic. Mr. Mitchell is, through political profligacy, a poor man. In the end, Mr. Mitchell's friends will get just such recognition as "Senator" Corbett dictates. As a matter of fact, Mr. Corbett will let them have a few inconsequental offices so as not to cause any consideable Mitchell bolt from the banker ticket which will be in the field next year.

THE FARMER TITHEING.

One is constrained to be amused at the cleverness with which the farmer vote, in all countries, is kept divided by politicians. On this plea and that plea—any little thing will do for a pretext to keep the agriculturists fighting each other. The great manipulators, whose tools dominate over political parties to keep control of legislation, assume to speak for the farmer, pretend they are for agrarian interests, and in so doing, control the vote in their own interests. The farmer pays for his privilege—a sort of "titheing," as it were, without a murmur, and keeps on fighting his fellow workers.

As here in this county, the farming element pays the expense of administration, pays the taxes of Hillsboro and Forest Grove, in fact paying for the towns, so does the farmer element of the nation stand correlatively to the business and commercial interests of the entire country. The contra interests, not content to keep the agrarian elements at war, use, as well, the labor vote against them. Some of these days the farmer will tire of "titheing" and get together on a large scale. Something will come then—and with a rush.

THE FOOL FARMER.

The metropolitan press still continues its flux of witicisms at the expense of the farmers of the country, notwithstanding the age has arrived when the agrarians are better informed than the average city inhabitancy. Of course, the city chaps live off the largest of the granger element; the grangers make the city possible; pay for every flag-stone; and indirectly for the frills and furbelows on every society dame's "nighties." But this does not excuse our city population in the abuse of their supporters. The farmers cannot expect to be middlemen; they cannot expect to be farmers and speculators at one and the same time. But, as they are the promoters, the cause and the effect of all commercial life, the city flunkeys should be careful, lest they burden the carriage of aristocracy too hard and a balk ensues. He is no longer the fool farmer.

MR. MITCHELL'S CHANCES.

That Senator Mitchell is a powerful influence in Oregon politics has been exemplified by the history of the past few months. That he has many ardent workers outside of Portland, is a well known fact, and it now appears that a fight will be made to carry the republican party of the state into the Mitchellite ranks. Two years ago, when Mitchell was absent, the monometallic wing of the party carried the primaries and this action was what defeated Mr. Mitchell at Salem last winter. The ex-senator is a good politician, and, although he is about bankrupt, he is worth a dozen Simons when it comes to conducting a fight in his own party. If Mitchell makes a try to carry the primaries as against the gold monometallic faction, he will win out without much trouble in every county except Multnomah, but to carry the election would be quite entirely another proposition. There are many admirers of Mr. Mitchell, but the people, generally, have but little use for a man who subordinates principle for sake of retention in office—and Mr. Mitchell comes in this class.

WHAT COULD BE DONE.

The United States will not, and is not expected to get international bimetallism through the efforts of the present administration. Wm. E. Curtis, a prominent gold standardist, now touring Europe, writes home that the bimetallic sentiment is very strong in France—that a majority favor it. Here, then, seems the opportunity of the administration. Will it receive recognition? Not very likely.

There is no doubt but France would acquiesce with us at any time in a bimetallic agreement and there is absolutely no doubt of the ultimate success of such an alliance. It indeed is to be deplored that the administration will listen to England on this question, first, last and always. But the time will come when we shall act independently on this matter and France will then join us, and England forced to fall into line or suffer business ostracism that shall be simply ruinous. There is no question in any reasonable mind but what the rank and file of republicans are bimetallists and would like to see the new administration act, but the leaders and promoters of the powers that be, will not have it that way. The selection of the cabinet and the placing of a bank currency man in the Treasury, preclude any hope of the fulfillment of what is dear to American husbandry.

THE GLUT OF CONCEIT.

Aside from what are one's convictions, it is somewhat ludicrous to note with what degree of complacency the single standard press of the land sneeringly contends the goldites are the "only-onlys" endowed with the microbe of honor and that their political opposites are all contaminated by an insane and foolish desire to advocate dishonesty. There is no use disguising the fact that dishonesty is not particularly seeking any particular being of a singular political or religous belief. It infests all creeds, all parties, and even gets into the pulpit, and to think these "holier than thou" and sanctified scribblers, not content to claim all the intelligence, also pre empt all the honesty, is enough to cause even a fool to weep. But let them cry their virtues if it help them for the present. Maudlin self-praise will, after a while, "gag" the commonwealth and we shall have an end to this Falstaffian gorgon and glut of boquet throwing.

OUR SHIPPING STATUS.

With something like thirty years of protective rule, during which time our self styled benefactors have constantly lauded their ideas of home industry, we have seen our export crops moved in British bottoms. Such a thing as an American shipping master is a rarity (one was beaten for a vice-presidency last fall). Millions upon millions of dollars have gone out of our wheat and cotton fields to pay British labor and to fill British shipowners' purses, which money might have been kept at home. But our protection howlers never have anything to say about this most valuable industry. In fact about the only use we have for sea going craft is something like steam yachts for our great politicians, who likewise have been "protected."

GRAND JURY INDICTED.

The grand jury at Hazelton has indicted the sheriff and his deputies, who murdered the striking miners a few weeks ago, while they were peacefully marching along the highway. This is gratifying. It will be a check to official anarchy. It will have a tendency to make a fool and a gun keep farther apart. It will be an evidence that poor people have rights, and that their lives are sacred. Now then; if the grand jury would but indict the judge which made the injunction then would be some hope this accursed menace to liberty—government by injunction—would stay on European soil.

EDITORIAL RAMBLINGS.

General Miles has returned from his European tour. The American standing army may well look to him for military education, as it is whispered that he actually saw a Turk and a Grecian, both of whom, were beyond a doubt, in the late war between their respective countries.

Oregon is well cared for, after all Banker Corbett is looking after the finances, Mr. Mitchell grieves that the state has lost his valuable services, the Lord prevaileth over all and the Oregon delegation is doing the best it can.

The Hatchet had six columns in last week's issue telling its readers all about republican corruption. This is Love's labors lost. THE ARGUS told about those things for three years.

Senator Corbett to Ex-Senator Mitchell "It's a long time between drinks." Ex-Senator Mitchell to Senator Corbett: "Yes, and a longer time between appointments."

Ex-Senator Mitchell has gone back to Washington to see how Senater Corbett is getting along with those delegation recommendations.

Hillsboro women have about completed the organization of a club. They will use it on the husbands who stay out late at lodge.

"The Oregon onion is a success as a tear-starter" says a local item in a Southern Oregon paper. So is Daly's paper, at Corvallis.

If Mr. McKinley could only move Dawson Dity to Ohio, he could have dollar wheat in "G" and carry Ohio this fall.

There is every reason to suspect that Mr. Scott is not satisfied with the action of Mr. Mitchell's delegation.
