Gold standardism is supported by all who are interested largely in securities and those who have large amounts of money to loan. This is because gold standardism means a system of finance whereby the volume of money can in no way increase commensurate with the growth of population, the increase in business and the constantly in creasing discounts of the future in loans, by nations states, municipalities, counties and individuals. It must be remembered that money is subject to the same law of supply and demand that obtains with all things bought and sold. No class realizes this better than the security of the cast and Europe.
