There is a statute, passed in 1878, Sec. 1792, which provides a fine of from $10 to a $100 for riding or driving over a public bridge faster than a walk; or driving over a bridge more than twenty head of cattle, horses or mules at one time. This law is violated every day on the long bridge east of town. This is a law that few people are aware of, and it is a very wise one, as fast driving does more to impair a structure than the ravages of the elements. As farmers build the bridges this is something which should interest them all. But, why is it that a person can hardly resist driving over a bridge at a swift trot? Did you ever feel the opposite when driving over what you deemed a safe bridge?

An old veteran by the name of Wm Lindsey, came into the city Saturday, having pushed a two wheeled cart from Yreka, California. He says he belonged to the 149th N. Y. He carries his cooking outfit with him and sleeps on his wagon. The old veteran gets a pension and this, with the money derived from a small pension, supports him. With his other graces he is a fine violinist.

Thomas had been in poor health for a long time. He returned home after an absence of two months 24 hours before his death. He consulted a physician, Dr. J. F. Calbreath, of McMinnville, last week, who told him that his case was hopeless, which preyed upon his mind The suicide was deliberately planned. He took the gun and went into the woods and discharged it, to see that it was in order, and then returned to the house and killed himself. He left a father and mother, two brothers and six sisters. Interment will be in the Almoran Hill cemetery, near Gaston, Thursday.—Oregonian.

Crop Report.

Director Pague has the following to say of the Willamette valley crop conditions: "In a few of the northern counties, the rainfall was slightly injurious to hay that was down; the actual injury was practically nothing, while the benefits were very large, especially along the coast and in the Willamette valley. It caused wheat to fill better, benefited late grain, gardens and orchards, so that the benefit largely offset the possible slight injury. Except for the few hours of rain, the weather has been ideal for haying There is not a single unfavorable report this week from the correspondents, all agreeing that the grain, grass, fruit and vegetable crops were excellent."

The Band Boys Willing.

To The Editor of the Hillsboro Argus:—It was reported in last week's ARGUS that the Hillsboro Reed and Cornet Band is about to disband. The band wishes to say that this is conditionally correct; and have reasons for which each member of the band feels justified in doing so. It is not from lack of patriotism on part of the band towards the town, as might be inferred from last week's ARGUS, but from a lack of financial support.

The Hillsboro band has existed for about eight years past, and during all these years its faithful members have continued to meet regularly two evenings each week and have worked against all reverses to maintain organization, such as learning new members to fill vacated places, which has existed continually, and where they could not be filled, have still existed under such extreme disadvantage: in fact the Hillsboro band has not had a complete instrumentation for the past two or three years, and band men alone can only understand the drawback of such a condition, and feel at every chord the sting and disappointment of lack of harmony as the strains are being produced.

But, the lack of financial support by which they have been burdened, and are still burdened, is what has caused the boys to falter; they have always been willing to give their time in practicing and their time in labor in playing for mea is to support the organization; and when they have done this they feel that their share of the work is complete. The Hillsboro band has never been self-supporting; while most bands after paying the expenses of the year—which is no small amount for it requires in music alone about $50.co—have some money to distribute among its members; but with the Hillsboro Band it is quite different. At the end of each year we find ourselves in debt and have to pay the same out of our own pockets.

This being the case we have not sufficient music for the band, which makes it very disagreeable to have to play the same music over and over until the community becomes weary of hearing our band, and we know this only too well.

There are so me people in Hillsboro who have always aided our band. H. V. Gates has shown his generosity toward the band by furnishing free of charge all electric lights needed, for which the band is very grateful, and J. W. Shute has furnished us a hall free of charge; and the band wishes to state that if some one will adopt means by which to raise about $30.00 for music which the band must necessarily have, the Hillsboro Band will continue to exist, and if it could be free from financial embarrassment it would most certainly furnish the city with more and better music.

The Hillsboro Reed & Cornet Band.

[The above reasons are cogent. The band should be more liberally treated. There is no doubt of this There was no intended intimation that the band was not patriotic. It always takes a great deal of local patriotism to maintain such an institution, and, hearing the band was almost to disband, THE ARGUS simply wanted the boys to keep loading up with enough more patriotism to keep the thing going. The requests of the boys should easily be satisfied. The town ought to furnish the music if the band will play it.—Editor.]
