equen, 50,000 Bales: Califor 60,000 Bales, and Oregon, 70,000 Bales.

Speaking of the hop situation, Cap-tain George Pope, of Portland, says: "The situation of Oregon's hop crop this year is a peculiar one. Four weeks ago the most conservative grower or dealer had made up his mind that nearly 100,000 bales would be pro-duced in this state. The hops were on the vines, and no doubt the quality could have been excellent but for the eavy rains in August, which imparted life to vines, and fresh strobiles egan to set on laterals that could not have come to maturity at so late a date. In addition to this, the core of the burr grew continuously under con-ditions produced by the August rains and the warm weather of this month, so that growers were confronted by a problem that puzzled them. Kilns which in former years could be dried in 18 hours could not this year be taken off in less than 24 to 26 hours, and in some cases even 30 hours were required to take off a flooring of moderate size. This threw the drying ma chinery out of shape. The hops, owing to the cool weather of August were backward. Picking of them did not become general until about September 10, so that all large yards have suffered considerably. Entire yards have been abandoned on account of the rapid spread of mold, with the result that crop has been cut down to about 000 bales. The quality of these 70,-000 bales will range about 10,000 bales choice, 30,000 to 40,000 medium, and the remainder indifferent.

"From what is known of other states California has the best quality, and 60,000 bales is said to be the yield in that state. Washington's quality is said to be the same as ours, but as that state is seven or eight days later in maturing the crop west of the Cas-cades, it is doubtful if it will harvest the quota accredited to her-50,000 bales. New York has one-third less this year than last, and the crop is said to have come down in very poor shape. English advices are conflicting. yield in England is said to be the heaviest in many years. One writer who is an authority, while very conservative, gives the yield as 1,100 pounds per acre. England this year has 50,000 acres of hops. Such a yield, therefore, if it is all gathered, will be received as a price of the property of the property of the period of the property of the period of th will be nearly equal to British con sumption. Germany's crop is also above the average, but it is doubtful if she has many hops to throw on the export market. The market value of English hops today repose from 100. English hops today ranges from £2 15s to £4 10s per 112 pounds, but it is said that even these prices will not be maintained after the surplus of the United States seeks an outlet. As to this, however, there is no assurance.

'The points in favor of the grower are these: First, the old stocks have all been worked off, and the crop of the world goes to a practically bare market; econd, times all the world over are tter, confidence has been restored labor is everywhere fully employed, and hence the consumption of beer i on the increase."

Seattle Starch Factory. At the meeting of the Seattle chamber of commerce at Seattle last week that committee reported in favor of aiding in raising $25,000 for the establishment of a starch factory there. The proposed factory is to be built under supervision of Mr. Hundhausen, of Westfalen, Germany whose family secret process of making starc that has been in use for 30 years. The eas saves all the gluten from the flour, while the process now in use on the coast, saves little or none of the gluten. The estimated cost of building and running the factory is $27,924. It is estimated that a factory at that per pour point could sell in round numbers one-sighth of all the starch used on the coast, or per annum 600,000 pounds. This is an average of one ton per day and would require 1.83 tons of flour

The Alaska Packers Association is making preparations to establish a regu-lar steamship line running between San Francisco and Bristol bay next summer. The company has several canneries located on Bristol bay which are operated during the summer, but there has been no mail or passenger service from that place. The ociation has recently let a contract with a Portland firm for the building of a steamer whch will cost $200,000.

Oregon's Medicine Industry. J. A. Lamberson has during the f. J. A. Lamberson has during the few months bought for shipment Labanon, $40 tons of cascara bark, which he has paid $80 a ton, or a lot $14,000. He has also bought on of Oregon grape root, paying for $1,900. The doctor is also slighting the market for fir balsam, ag bought 66 barrels of that article $1,200 per barrel. Dr. Lamon, who resides at Starbuck, attain that he is now convinced to callection of medicine barks, all proves a permanent industry TREMENDOUS EXPANSION.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review says: September is the 12th consecu-tive month in which the volume of business, both at New York and out-side of New York, has been greater than the same month of any previous year. In the 12 months, payments through clearing houses have been $89,600,000,000, against $81,200,000,-000, in 12 months, ending with September, 1892, an increase of $28,400, 000,000, over 46 per cent.

When the tremendous expansion began, men called it replenishment of long-depleted stocks, then for a time it was called a crazy outburst of speculation, and when demands still expanded, some permanent increase of business was recognized as a result of increased population, earning better wages. But the demand still grows, now ranging about 60 per cent greater than in 1892, while population, according to treasury estimates, is 16 per cent greater, and wages equal, if not over 10 per cent greater. A recon-struction of business and industries, of producing and transporting forces, is n progress throughout the land, with esults which none can now measure. The wool market is active, with a general advance, aggregating about 16 cent on washed fleece combing, the entire list quoted by Coates Bros. probably averages about 1/4 cent higher.

Cotton opened the crop year at 6.25 cents and has risen to 6.87, although about a quarter more has come into sight than last year from the greatest crop on record, and stocks here and ad commercial and bill, are 658, 000 bales greater than a year ago.

Corn is unchanged in price, and still in large foreign demand, exports having been in four weeks 12,155,904 bushels, against 8,133,641 last year.

SHIRT WHICH DISPLACES SUSPENDERS which are easily attached or detached by loops or suspenders to the trousers. This relieves the downward pressure of trouser braces on the shoulders, which has a natural tendency to contract the chest. This shirt, it is claimed, is the most comfortable garment a man can wear, inasmuch as the weight is equally distributed over the body. For cricket, cycling, rowing, and, in fact, all kinds of sports, it is most invaluable. It is also recommended for dress shirts, as it not only allows one to sit upright at table, but always keeps the front of the shirt in position, and prevents it from bulging out of the waistcoat. Two figures of the new design are shown, back and front. By these it is said that while the new shirt has an equal pressure all around, the ordinary braces pull heavily on the neck portion of the shoulders.

Wives of the Walts King. Johann Strauss, the waltz king, wa scarcely laid away to rest in the Friedhof when a series of disputes arose over his possessions. Strauss secured to his wife and stepdaughter, as well as his sisters, moderate incomes for life, and then made the Society of Friends of Music his heir-at-law. He disinherited his brother, the wellknown Eduard Strauss, and made no provision for the destitute widow of his brother Joseph. The chief effort to dispute the legality of Strauss' will is to be made by his second wife, from whom he claimed that he was divorced. When Strauss contracted his second marriage both he and his wife were

Roman Catholics, and were united in a Catholic church and with the rites of that religion. The Austrian marriage laws are exceptionally severe, and mar- in its prime. cure a legal separation from one another, but never an absolute divorce which enables them to marry again. The re-sult is that Roman Catholics who have secured a separation resort to all sorts of evasions of the law in order to marry again. Johann Strauss receded from Roman Catholicism and became a Protestant, then emigrated to the Duchy of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, resided there for a period, obtained an absolute divorce from his wife and married a third time. This evasion of the Austrian marriage lawsdeprived Strauss of the court favor which he had enjoyed, and it seems certain that in the strict legal sense his second wife is his rightful widow, whereas his third wife, for whom he has provided, had no authentic claim on him. The Austrian laws of succession provide that a wife can never be disinherited, but has always a claim on at least one-third of the property left by her husband, so that the second wife of the great musician has every prospect of obtaining this share of his wealth. At present she is in poor circumstances, and earns her living in a photographic studio in Berlin.

Walls Plastered with Coins. Miss Dalsy Dentz, of Dentzville, N. J., a suburb of Trenton, has probably the largest collection of coins in New Jersey. Some of them are many hundred years old, and they represent the currencies of nearly every country in the world. Some idea of the size of the collection may be gathered from the fact that the ceiling of Miss Dentz's boudoir is completely covered with United States money, while the four walls are hidden behind the coins of Aslatic, European, African and South American countries. There is considerable history attached to this collection, especially to the English coins, which were found near Princeton in a queer shaped hat by one of Miss Dents's relatives while in search of minerals. The hat is similar in shape to those worn by the Hessian soldiers during the revolution and is still in Miss Detnz's possession. There are many valuable coins in her collection and were she to convert them all into present American currency they would yield quite a snug sum.—Philadelphia

The Wind Made Snowballs. Last March there was a remarkable exhibition at Grafton, N. H., of the comparatively rare phenomenon of "snow rollera." Freshly fallen snow was rolled by the wind into innumer able cylinders, some of them as large as a barrel, which dotted the hills and fields. Similar rollers have been seen in recent years in Connecticut, in Kansas and in the State of Washington. The size varies with the strength of the wind.

Creeping Numbness is a Danger Signal

Mr. G. H. Snyder, a well known citizen of Lawrence, Kan., salet:

"I am now seventy years of age, About three years ago I experienced a coldness or numbness in the feet, then creeping up my lega, until it reached my body. I grew very thin in fieth, appetite peer and I did not reitab my food. At last I became unable to move about. I consuited several distinguished physicians, one telling me I had locemotor staxis, another that I had creeping paralysis. I took their medicines but continued to grow worse. Almost a year ago a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale Feople. Before I had finished my first box I found they were benefiting ma I used twelve boxes in all, and was perfectly cured. Although it is six months aftee I used my last pill there has been no recurrence of the disease."—From Lawrence Journal.

A Fable in Stocks.

Once upon a time an operator in stocks was sold short, and ruin stared him in the face unless the market should break. In his desperation he remembered having heard that honesty is the best policy. He tried to dismiss the foolish thought, but in vain. Finally, like the drowning man catching at the straw, he resolved to try being honest. The very next day he put purifier and tonic that brought into exist- his design into execution, and he hadn't been honest more than 15 minutes when 17 of the leading bulls fell dead, they were so surprised at him. Hereupon the market naturally broke, and the operator could get all the stocks he wanted at his own figure.
