BRYAN'S ADDRESS.

Bryan's address was a masterful effort. On the money question he is supported by the ablest logic of Hon. J. H. Mitchell, on all sides of the question; on his remarks as to the Puerto Rican tariff measure now pending in Congress, he is supported by the Oregonian; as to the trusts, he is supported by all citizens except those who profit by the formation of trusts; his Americanism is unquestioned by the sturdiest element of our country. People will long remember the address of Mr. Bryan as one replete with the spirit of standing for the highest American ideals. Here and there you will find a "Ben Cornelius" or a "Jim Eddy" who know more than even Mr. McKinley, who will tell you that Bryan "knows nothing." This is all they have learned from the Oregonian, and they are not to be blamed for their foolishness.

Mr. Bryan is an orator as well as a statesman. He tells you who he is; he does not straddle; he goes to the point; he is no man's "Friday." He stands the Jefferson of today, as Jefferson stood nearly a hundred years ago, against the "Hamiltons" who are ready to surrender our best institutions to corporation undoing. His is the type of clear headedness that made Jefferson's name famous, even until the present.

THE UNION TICKET.

The Union ticket was nominated by the largest delegate convention ever held in Washington county. It was a representative body of people and the men named for the respective offices are representative citizens. The nominations were not the result of ring rule, nor were they the creatures of any one man. The utmost of harmony prevailed and not a jarring note marred the occasion. There was no false counting in the primaries which selected these delegates; there was no teller to count out men who were duly elected. There was no "Boss Cornelius" to say who should be elected or who should not be elected. It was pleasant to note two hundred delegates all working in harmony, laying aside personal preference for the wish of a majority. The spectacle of Jasper E. Reeves declining to make the run for the nomination to the shrievalty when he had great strength in the convention, must have excited wonder in the minds of men like Mr. Cornelius and his cohorts. All this aside, the ticket is a good one, and one which should commend itself to the voters of Washington county. There is not a man on the ticket but who received the nomination fairly and squarely. No name before the convention was "counted out." Can the ticket put up by Mr. Cornelius, have as much said for it? Not much!

WEBSTER DAVIS RESIGNS

England is engaged in the work of exterminating a brave people in two little republics in South Africa because these people refuse to surrender their liberties and put on the British yoke. Hon. Webster Davis, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, who has just returned from the bloody scenes in the Transvaal, where he has been on a visit during the past three months, states that the American people are misinformed in regard to the situation there, as the only information we are allowed to receive reaches us through British sources. He says that right and justice is on the side of the Boers, and that the work of extermination that is being carried on by the British is the most criminal and barbarous ever practiced by a civilized or a savage ent McKinley with the facts and urging that the United States government express its sympathies for the Boers, and use its influence to bring the war to a close, and finding that the administration at Washington was in sympathy with England, he resigned his position in order that he might state the case to the American people and give them an opportunity through public meetings and otherwise to express their condemnation of the unjust, unwarranted and brutal war that England is conducting against a brave and deserving people.— National Watchman.

THE DEWEY candidacy for the presidency is flat; has evaporated into moonshine. It is not very often that a candidate for the office of president has no party; has no ideas; and has no standing to entitle him to the distinction. The trouble is here: Dewey imagined that because he sunk a fleet which was third class he was a popular hero and could get a national endorsement at any time. The nation is grateful to Dewey for his services as admiral and it has paid him for those services, but when it comes to the presidency he has found that the people are looking for a statesman, not a naval officer and a man who has spent his life in a training where war brings the most successful climax. His candidacy at this time looks too much like a "job." Six months ago, when we were blood crazed, he might have had the nomination. At that time he did not know where he was politically, and he is no wiser today. But he has found out that the people are not enthusiastic over his announcement that he is a presidential candidate.

C. E. never did stand for Cold Water, anyway, did they, Brother Clize?

Perhaps Mr. McKinley will sometime discover that the people, also, may take a notion to exercise a little "plain duty" and leave him at home.

With A. T. Knox for secretary to aid Benj. Cornelius as a Chairman, the Simon crowd in this county have a combination which is a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

The "Queen's Bobby" has suddenly discovered that there are still a few Boers left in South Africa. And those stories in America are correspondingly despondent.

Dewey has not yet taken the first row of presidential copies and the chances are that he will have to do more crossing than did Buller on the Tugela before he will get that nomination.

The Multnomah republicans have placed a genuine Corbett ticket in the field and confidently expect the people to elect it. As the old man's sack is of very good length, money will flow like Weinhard's lager of a Saturday night. How long will the people of Oregon endure this sort of thing? And, to think, too, that our virtuous Governor says no money is spent in Oregon senatorial elections.

THE ADMIRALTY CANDIDATE.

One noted day in 'ninety-eight, Our Dewey sunk the Spanish fleet, Austerlitz and changed the fate of men, by vict'ry most complete; But what if he run the ship of state, With its load of the most precious freight

Shall we prepare our eyes to see The old sea dog a president, And sitting on the seat and by yemen beset on office bent, When he tries to run the ship of state With its load of the most precious freight

A peerless admiral is he, A master of ships and on the sea; Skilled with ships and on the sea; But fears we have, he wasn't built To control the craft the fathers built To ride on seas unknown and difficult.

We're 'fraid he'd turn the government Into a naval establishment, Make guns and boats and armor-plate, Disturb the world, our debt inflate; Contractors fatten; and the trusts Would take and make us live on crusts.

And, too, how bad it would beek Our hero hold his way to seek Along the banks of sad, Salt Creek. Which is too oft the lot of some, Who'd rack y' sail the ship of state With its load of the most precious freight

HAVE YOU LAND TO CLEAR?

If so, you need a tree and stump machine that will enable you to clear it the easiest and cheapest way possible. These machines are built by a firm of 40 years' experience and cannot be beaten. It will pay you to investigate. Will furnish testimonials on application.

READ THE FOLLOWING TESTIMONIALS—"I can recommend the No. 2 Machine to all who want a strong, handy machine. It is the best in the market for the money."

"I bought a No. 2 machine from Mr. Pearson and find it easily handled, durable and light, easy to set and move around, and strong enough for two horses." "Hillsboro, Ore., March 2, 1900.—I have been using one of these machines for three months on my farm, two miles southwest of this city, and it has given perfect satisfaction. It will do all that Mr. Pearson has claimed for it, and were I to live on a farm where I had any considerable grubbing to do, and could not get another machine I would not sell the one I have for $100. It is a great labor saver and is well worth what I paid for it—in fact it is an almost indispensable adjunct to a farm where there is any grubbing or stump-pulling. Of course, I blast the larger stumps first, and then use the puller to take out the large roots. It is a very powerful machine, and I will be pleased to recommend it to those who have this nature of work to perform."
