TIME FOR A HANGING BEE.

Another hanging is due in Washington County—and it will come sooner or later. Murder will out. This old maxim does not fail once in a hundred. When the possession of a few dollars becomes a license for atrocious murder, it is time to start protective measures.

The murder of poor, inoffensive, industrious old Andrew Dahlberg cries to society for retribution, and it should be swift. Whoever did the killing must have known something about the lonely habits of the victim and must have known something about his personal affairs. This is enough to give the officers a fair start toward the capture of the fiend who would kill a poor defenseless old soul for a few paltry dollars.

FIVE OVERLOOKED SUBSIDY POINTS.

The Frye-Hanna plea for the ship subsidy scheme is incomplete. For instance, it omits these points:

First—Does the bill compel more American sailors at better prices?

It does not. On the contrary the ship owners may pocket the subsidy and hire foreign seamen at the lowest wages.

Second—Does the bill assure larger American cargoes?

It does not. On the contrary, it makes it possible for ship owners to sail with empty vessels and still get the subsidy.

Third—Does the bill secure faster ships?

It does not. On the contrary, it makes fast trips of no consequence.

Fourth—Does the bill arrange for more mails?

It does not. On the contrary, it leaves the foreign mails as now, to be carried by the fast British and German ships.

Fifth—Does the bill provide for more ships?

It does not. On the contrary, it makes it to the interest of the existing companis to combine, crush competition and divide the subsidy among as few ships and ship owners as possible.

What, then, does the bill promise?

Large bonuses to be added to the dividends of steamship companies which are at present earning good profits without subsidies.

That is all. But in the name of Hanna and McKinley and the campaign chest, isn't that enough? —N. Y. World.

AGAINST DESPERATE ODDS.

Great Britain now has over two hundred thousand fighting men in the South African campaign and yet comes the cry for men. This is very strange—and yet, not so strange either. The Boers of late have been giving Kitchener a great deal of trouble and the other day scooped in nearly six hundred men. The Boers are said to have but a few thousand men in the field, but these few are putting up a gallant defense, both stubborn and brilliant. No handful of people have ever before coped against such mighty and overwhelming opposition in the fight for freedom. The Revolutionary fathers in arms never had such a formidable array of military strength to contend against.

The Boers are fighting for a principle—and that principle was first fomented in the Western hemisphere, that is to say, America. As a nation we give them no sympathy. This is because the country is in the hands of Great Britain's friends. But with all this obtaining, it is well for England that Africa is so far removed from our shores. Were it Canada fighting for her liberty we should see thousands of our best young citizens [illegible] helping to vindicate the very institution is the [illegible] to the Boers. This isolation will cost them their country. Its distance from a land where liberty is the watchword from the cradle to the grave is all that holds American intervention from becoming an established fact. Witness the sentiment fomented here in the Cuban struggle. Sentiment forced the war with Spain and that sentiment was nothing more than a sympathy for a people struggling for the right to govern themselves. There is clearly too much water between the Boers and her best friends.

COLD BLOODED.

Cleveland advises rehabilitation of the Democratic party. Bryan opposes. Cleveland wants return to sound doctrines. Bryan objects. Cleveland led the party to victory twice. Bryan led the party twice but led it to defeat. What is the matter with Bryan that he should be so wise and yet get left, and with Cleveland, that he should be so unwise and yet succeed?—Oregonian.

Here is a cold blooded proposition, indeed. Cleveland led the party to victory, did he? What kind of a victory? To a victory for Wall street, was it not? And to a victory that the people were so willing to dispense with that they have embraced the lust of empire, the bloodrucking trusts for eight years and the worst officialism of the age rather than a repetition of the victory—for the rank and file of voters, even in the last campaign could not divorce in thought of party, Cleveland and his "victory" from the real party of the commonwealth. Out on such crying as the Oregonian is now giving us in its glut of "victory."

We venture the prediction that there is not another county in the state that is as well off financially as Washington County. There is nothing like getting out of debt and then staying out of debt. That is what Washington county proposes to. It has been many years since this county has paid as little interest as it is at present paying. Economy is the road to low taxation and good management the road that leads to economy. Warrants endorsed prior to August 1, 1900, have been called in and a year hence the warrant debt of Washington county will be followed within a few days of endorsement with a call for payment.

The Methodists paid a mortgage off their church at Woodlawn the other day and then proceeded to burn the released paper. It is quite evident that our good friends still believe that a little fire is good for bad things—and they are doubtless right.

Dead Letters.

The following is the list of letters remaining in the Hillsboro post office unclaimed:

Miss Julia Abrahamson,
Mr. Flory Ibach,
Mr. F. L. Neville, 2.

All letters not called for by Dec. 29, 1900 will be sent to the dead letter office. One cent will be charged on each letter called for.
