NOT A MATTER OF INDIFFERENCE.

The election of last spring is still fresh in the minds of the people of Washington County. While THE ARGUS has always been partisan, at that election it laid aside its partisanship to participate in a campaign which would mean more of purity in public life. We all remember how the Corbett lieutenants in this county carried primaries by corrupt methods; we all know how primary larceny abounded and how openly these corrupting influences were carried on. THE ARGUS made and based its fight against a furtherance of such work. Proceeding as it was the vileness of the practices going on under the guise of practical politics was bound to leave its impress on the youth coming into his powers. THE ARGUS, with all its feeble ability implored the people of Washington county to rebuke the practices—which in private life would have been called theft—and such a rebuke as the county never before witnessed followed. We now find a man elected on the Union ticket gone over to the Corbett fold, thus representing not a single vote cast for him and making mean and miserable the principles on which his election rested. The Washington County delegation in the legislature went there unpledged as to United States Senator but the question of one of them going to the corrupt Corbett regime was remote and absurd. For something—for some reason and that reason is easily discerned by those who understand how Corbett's boodlers work, Vincent has gone into the filth out of which the county waded at the last June election. THE ARGUS owns nobody; it has nobody controlling it; but it does know that this breach of faith is painful and humiliating. It does know that the balance of the delegation must feel the action, keenly, of one who should have stood by them.

When it is considered that the people of this county felt that we had enjoyed a moral and political washday, so to speak, and then find that corruption has found one who was elected as a moral protest against unclean politics, they must feel in sympathy with this paper when it holds that we should stand ready to endorse almost any move that will remove this old gentleman Corbett from the field of Oregon politics, and with his removal that of the Graham Glasses and his immediate political helpers. If the vote last spring is indicative of anything, it would appear that the people of Washington county should stand ready to sanction any move that will mean political burial of this gross, corrupting force in Oregon politics—Corbettism. We do not think that any faith would be broken in scotching this element, and if this wholesale purchase goes on—and it will—by Corbett and his people, it would be no political sin for the balance of the delegation to find a way to accomplish Corbett's permanent retirement. Any decent republican would answer.

A CROWN OF SHAME.

Oregon's crown of shame is that it has a governor whose preachment is so laudable while his actions belie the text. We all remember how this man Geer has again and again been charged with selling a public office, without prosecution following the scandal, if it be a scandal. We all remember how one Hi Plummer publicly stated that he had paid Geer one thousand dollars and for his money, Geer, if elected, was to pay him back in an office of state employ. The various newspapers of the State, barring the two dailies in Portland, gave the matter the prominence it demanded. In one little paper in Eastern Oregon the Governor sought to reply. The defense was very weak and silly. The Governor's defense should have been the courts, but here is where he was afraid that Plummer might produce overwhelming proof of the charge.

This man Geer now publicly addresses the Oregon legislature and asks for probity. If they follow the executive's lead, we shall have a pretty session of grafting. Let us hope, however, that the legislators will be true to their trust, and let us hope, when 1902 rolls around that Oregon will rid itself of this crown of shame—the man with a voice but sans action and purity of motive. What a farce must the gubernatorial message be to those familiar with his career.

A BASE BETRYAL.

The question is now being asked, "Who is this man Vincent, a member of the delegation representing Washington county in the house of representatives?" And well might the question be asked.

This man—a so-called man—is a reputed homeopathic doctor residing at Tualatin, in the southeastern portion of this county. For several years past he represented himself to be a populist and affiliated with that party. In 1898 the the populists, democrats and silver republicans effected a union and nominated the candidates on the union party ticket, which this so-called man supported. At the last state election, the union party still being intact, nominated its ticket, and A. W. Vincent was one of its nominees for representative. He accepted the nomination, subscribed to the declarations of that organization, and was elected.

It is doubtful whether any of the candidates on the union party ticket could have been elected had there not been a division in the republican ranks upon the issue of "Corbett" and "anti-Corbett." It is a well known fact that large numbers of anti-Corbett men voted for the candidates of the union party organization of this county, including this man Vincent. It is needless to say that the members of the union party organization of this county were and still are equally opposed to the candidacy or election to the U. S. senate of Mr. Corbett, or any other republican for that matter.

All of these facts were and are as an open book to this so-called man Vincent. And now what do we see? Against the earnest protest of the other members of the delegation from this county, and of the union party committee, this so-called man deliberately went into the republican caucus and thereby assisted in the organization of an admitted "Corbett house!" He voted for all of the caucus nominees, including the republican speaker-elect, Reeder, as against one of our own members of the house, Representative Edson, who was the regular caucus nominee of the democrats, populists and silver republicans for that office! Briefly, then, we have the record of this so-called man Vincent. Is there a man who possesses a thimbleful of brains and can not understand the moving cause of this startling change of heart? Who is it that refuses to believe that here is another "Corbett vote" secured in the "good old way?" If the Almighty was unable to administer adequate punishment merited by Judas Iscariot, it is to be hoped that for the safety of his Satanic Majesty the Almighty has conceived, by this time, a method of future punishment commensurate with the crime this so-called man Vincent has perpetrated against society and his constituents. Men of this stripe should be socially and politically ostracized. Many men have suffered this for crimes not nearly so black as this which the man Vincent is now guilty of.

JOHN M. WALL,
Sec. Union Party Com.

THERE are but eight or ten of the old veterans of the first five regiments of the Cayuse War yet in life. Why cannot Oregon give these men relief instead of appropriating to monument funds? What is there wrong about this? Did not these old men practically save the country for the country? Have they been honored? Are they not entitled to being honored? THE ARGUS believes that Oregon would do well to remember them in their hour of age. Congress does not seem disposed to read history and find out that we ever had an Indian war out here in the early days of the Pacific Northwest.

A Siberian Comfort...

There is no sphere of existence that hasn't its compensation. In bleak Siberia during the long winters, each native sleeps with his feet on a dog. Americans would hardly approve of this method, but we can have a better one and it's cheaper than keeping a dog.

A hot water bottle is an improvement on the Siberian plan for keeping the feet warm. It affords a lot of comfort at very trifling cost, and it's odd that anybody would be without one. We have a good assortment of hot water bottles, the dependable, guaranteed kind, and are making very satisfactory prices on them.
