Opposed to Gold Mono-metallism. Believe in the Bimetallic Standard. Dear Money means Debased Property, and Profitless American Product. Our Countrymen lose in our Creditors' Gain. Has no use for Marcus A. Hanna.

PRaise BUT TO DAMN.

The reformers who are for true reform in National politics will do well to consider fully before they stop to drink in the juicy and fulsome praise of Ohio democrats uttered by the journals corporation ridden. They simply praise but to damn: and commend but to laugh in their sleeves. The lack of ratification of the Kansas City platform which is so loudly commended by the Hanna press and its sympathizers at large, is a welcome thing to them, for they well know that it means Hanna victory in Ohio this Fall. People do not want two Hanna parties; there is but room for one party of this kind. Bryan is right when he says that Ohio should have either declared for bimetallic or for the gold standard. No one will vote the Ohio democratic ticket in order to vote a gold ticket when there is a regular republican gold ticket in the field. The matter of trusts do not figure when the greatest trust of all is satisfied. It is a poor way to catch a trust—this standing and delivering to a trust highwayman. The only real good feature in the platform is its declaration against the monopolies, the organs of which commend the democratic party for returning to its senses. So it will be well for our republican-democrats to not get gay because the party is "returning" to its senses. The republican victory in Ohio this Fall will tell a story of different conclusion. The bankocrats want to put up for but one National party. The democrats will discover this ere long. Principle is always better than fishpots in the long run.

THE NET WAIST GIRL.

The girls this summer are to wear the net waist, a garment so gauzy and transparent that one sees every pulsation of their dear little hearts. One who has inspected these new-fangled waists turns loose as follows:

"The shirt-waist man and the net waist girl go hand in hand today, and all the people, year after year, keep throwing their clothes away. The coat and the vest we laid to rest and where is the fleecy shawl? And clothes get thinner and fewer—what will be the end of it all? Oh, what will the shirt-waist man take next from the things he has to wear? And what will the net waist girl throw off her shoulders now so bare? The shirt-waist man and the net-waist girl go rollicking down the way; have we started a thread that is going to end in the old fig leaf some day?" Condon Globe clipping.

IN OREGON.

Accounts of the intense heat prevalent in Eastern states, inspire the average Oregonian with mingled wonder and sympathy. The suffering to which people are subjected by a blazing sun and winds whose gusts are like blasts from a fiery furnace, with hot nights that brings no relief involve experiences to which we who live west of the Cascades are total strangers. And, according to latest accounts, to the temporary misery and death, there is added apparent certainty that great financial loss to those in the drought stricken district is to follow. In the great corn belts, there is a belief that the crop has suffered so much that even copious rains now, would not repair the damage, while grass is so burned that herds in many states are being hurried to the slaughter houses where they are sold at low figures to cheat starvation.

In Oregon a bountiful grain crop waves on every field, fat cattle graze on green hills or in luxuriant pastures, while a comparatively cool atmosphere with refreshing brezoes cheers the toiler at his work. We of Oregon have our drawbacks, our discouragements and our troubles, but withal we are forever free from the calamitous storms of wind, cold and heat with which our sisters East so often suffers.—Corvallis Times.

A SHORT CORN CROP.

The latest report from the Kansas and Nebraska corn crop is that the stalks are so short that the woodpeckers have to scratch a hole in the ground in which to sit down before they can peck at the ears.

Easterners are elated that their horses now wear straw hats. That's nothing. Jackasses have been wearing shirt waists out in Oregon for some time.

The Rivers and Harbors Committee of the House of Representatives will return East with some knowledge of the needs of the Pacific Northwest. The tour has been wisely mapped out so far as the Northwest coast is concerned.

FARMERS are requested to not forget to help out the Native Sons' Street Carnival this Fall. We will have plenty of visitors, and the better showing we can put up, the better will be the results. Stock of all kinds should be placed on exhibit—and where do you find better horses and dairy stock than in Washington county. The committee will make all arrangements to have stock exhibits cared for. Every known resource should be represented, and one day at least least should be set aside for stockmen.

The Humane Society in some of the Eastern cities has been advocating the bonneting of draught horses, and has been so far successful that most of the horses used by large business firms in these cities are now going about with bonnets on their heads. The headgear in question is of straw shaped like a farmer's hat, with two holes for the ears of the horse, and a brim wide enough to shade the eyes. It is tied neatly under the throat and may or may not have a damp sponge in the crown to keep the head of the animal cool.—Exchange.

Hos. Geo. E. Chamberlain, of Portland, is being mentioned as a candidate for governor on the democratic ticket next campaign. Mr.

Chamberlain is a successful attorney of that city, and is at present the district attorney for Multnomah county. He is able and honest, and has never yet met defeat when before the people. It is not unlikely, however, that he will accept the nomination on account of purely business reasons. He would be a formidable candidate, and should be nominated and elected the state of Oregon might well congratulate itself. It has been some time since the state has had in the executive chair a man of so strict integrity.

Two doses will relieve you. Try it. For sale by Delta Drug Store. Get Green's Prize Almanac.

A GOOD THING.

German syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A. Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in medicine. It quickly cures coughs, colds and all lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does the cause of the affection, and leaving the parts in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidly increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Boschee's German syrup was introduced in the United States in 1858 and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cts.
