Opposed to Gold Mono-metallism. Believes in the Bimetallic Standard. Dear Money means Debased Property, and Profitless American Product. Our Consequent loss is our Creditors' Gain. Has no use for Marcus A. Hanna

THE BAIT OF THE CHARLATAN.

The Oregonian exclaims: "The monopolists of the country are doing more to push socialism to the front in our time than all theorists could accomplish in all time." This is peculiar, isn't it? Strange kind of company the Oregonian supports, politically, and otherwise! There is not a plank in the Hannaita platform which was not directly or indirectly written by the monopolists. Sane men know this, and only the demagogues like the writers on our big metropolitan papers longer try to deceive the weak and foolish by pretending otherwise. But so long as we have demagogues to push their slush into the public by-roads just so long we will have people simple minded enough to believe them and think they are economists of wonderful acumen. Truly, the days of the charlatan and his following are not yet past the statute of limitations. We all know that papers like the one above mentioned will support the monopolists. Little by-plays like the exclamation herewith noted are but for effect—the bait of the charlatan in political economics.

HANNA'S CAMPAIGN BOOK

The republican campaign book is a corker. It was got up by the tariff grafters and trust promoters. The compilers took it for granted that a very large majority of the voters were mullet heads, and so they piled it on to a most ridiculous extent. Everything good in the whole country was credited to the republican party, and everything bad was charged up to the democrats and populists. Divine providence was in charge of the grand old party, and it was working under the direct guidance of Almighty God. Roosevelt had a commission signed by the Almighty himself. But the thing was so overdone that the president has ordered the whole edition of a million burned and another got out. The consequence is that the republican campaign book has been withdrawn and the committees are engaged in gathering them up as fast as possible and consigning them to the flames. Pretty soon a copy of it will bring a high price on account of the scarcity.

The democratic national committee ought to publish a large edition of that book and circulate it all over the United States. It would be a vote getter sure.

One story is to the effect that some prominent clergyman made a rotest to the president, claiming that the book was blasphemous on account of the claims made that it was party of the tariff grafters and trusts were under exclusive divine guidance. Suggestion was also made that the circulation of it should be stopped under the postal laws and laws of several states which prohibit the printing and circulation of blasphemous literature. Whatever the facts may be, the book has been suppressed by a national committee and another will be completely revised. Our Uncle Mark has lots of trouble these days.—Nebraska Independent.

If the contest that has started in a republican party in Iowa concerning the revision of the tariff on, it will not be long before at party will have to hold more harmony meetings than the demagogues ever dreamed of. The manufacturers who suffer from the exorbitant charges of the trusts, especially those that use steel and iron, when they see their competitors in foreign countries getting their material at half what it costs us, get rantankerous. These manufacturers have all been great abolitionists, but they now begin to understand that too much tariff will be the ruin of them. Your Uncle Mark feels very sad over the matter, but he can't make them stop quarreling.—Ex.

ALTOGETHER TOO APPARENT.

The learned Oregonian takes exception to President Roosevelt's latest public non-utterance on the tariff revision question. This is amusing, after having watched the discursive plaudits showered on the executive by that paper. For weeks and weeks, the cabinet, almost to a man, have been telling the people of the east that there will be no tinkering. They are the mouth pieces of the president. Roosevelt makes his strong suit on Cuban reciprocity, but says nothing about tariff revision. To this the Oregonian objects. Does the Oregonian think there is a strong demand for tariff reform? If so, does not the Oregonian know that such a sentiment is rank treason. If we follow the concepts of our latter day economists? Have we not heard for several years that any opposition to the administration is treason? Have we not heard that the citizen who wanted to get out of the Philippines was a traitor? Haven't we found thousands of "copperheads" in our country, amongst whom is that old "reprobate," Senator Hoar?

The Oregonian should mend its ways. It must not question the pulse of the administration even if such questioning is but a blind to keep under and in subjection the "gold" democrat, because treason is treason, and even if not meant, sets a bad example. Let the president alone; like the king, he can "do no wrong." You can't beat the Hannaites on a tariff issue, because the manufacturing east and middle states want the tariff, Dingley bill and all. The only way you can beat them is by a massing of the votes who are opposed to a government run by the corporations and trusts. These votes can't be massed just now. They may be in 1904, but it isn't hardly likely. In the meantime let us laugh at the efforts of the republican copperheads and traitors who are against the Dingley law, which, by gosh, can't be beat!

The American Economist, the trust organ, calls editors like those of the Oregonian and other papers advocating tariff reform, the "Silly Billies" of the republican party. The Economist hits the nail on the head nine times out of ten, for over nine out of ten of these will follow the lead of the Economist in supporting people who are pledged to let the tariff question alone. The trusts are not after any reform. There isn't any need of reform as far as they are concerned. They are more than prosperous, and they have paid for tariff laws which have enriched them at the expense of the consumer—surely not the foreigner, for they get American manufactured articles at about half price—so they want no just change. Yes, the "Silly Billies" will get in the band wagon. Meantime readers must laugh at their hysteria.

The talk of an extra session seems to have died out, but Gov. Geer may be keeping his own counsel and intend to call the legislature together for reform legislation. It would be a good idea to have an extra session if only to see whether those reform planks, in the matter of the flat salaries mean anything, or if they were just placed in the platform to catch the votes of suckers. Of course, as all know, the big salaried guns do not want their salaries lessened and they are having their organs talk about the terrible expense the extra call would entail.

Oh no! I wouldn't hurt the trusts to stand a ten per cent reduction on the tariff schedule in many instances! If they see that people are kicking so much it will be easy for them to have a revision plan written to hold the party together, and then do as they please after election. Simple living in the world.

The Washington sheriff in whose county Tracy was caught, says he will relinquish the claim of reward so far as he is concerned, if the boy Goldfinch, who told of the outlaw's whereabouts, is given a pro rata share. But it is said that the boy would not tell the captors anything about the circumstances, and they were obliged to take their own counsel in getting to the famous escape. If the boy was keeping still on account of admonitions from the sheriff, he is entitled to his share of the reward just as though he was present and helped capture, for he was the medium through which the bandit was located.

Have you noticed that the whole administration is out campaigning, even if times are piping good?

The secret of many a person's success is footwear. Did you ever notice the feeling of confidence a good, durable, shapely pair of shoes gives the wearer? If you have not you are not a student of sociology. Come to us and fit yourself with a good pair of shoes, and see the proof of this statement. We have shoes for all of celebrated makes, and at prices that defy competition. We buy large shipments and can sell cheaper than those who buy smaller lots.—H. Wehrung & Sons.

Photographs wanted.—The Lewis and Clark Exposition Company will have need for a large number of photographs to illustrate publications on the Pacific Northwest, which will be issued to advertise the 1905 Fair. Donations of views of landscape, cities, mountains, farms, growing crops, forests, mines, fisheries, river scenery, seaside resorts, etc., suitable for the half-tone process, will be appreciated by the company. Photographers, or persons and amateurs, who desire to make donations, should address their photographs to Henry E. Rad, secretary of the 1905 Fair, 246 A. S. Commercial, Portland, Ore. This subject of the year should be included in the collection of photographs. The photographs should be made of the subjects mentioned, and the photographs should be given to the photographer in all cases where use is made of his pictures. Photographs are desired from every section of Oregon. None except those that will make good reproductions are wanted.

E. B. Sappington's hunting trip to the Trask netted him several deer and a bear. Three of his old-time hunting companions were out with him. His "harshness" was rather less, but the boys all had a taste of him just to keep up their reputation as huntmen.

You may not believe that clothes make the man—but you always feel better when your suit is of good quality and fits you. Go to H. OREGON'S Blue Ribbon State Fair

Salem

September 15th to 20th 1902

No time in the history of the Oregon State Fair has there been such a good feeling among the agricultural classes towards the success of the fair as exists at the present time. Every section of the state seems to be taking an interest in the fair and promise to give it their hearty support. There are reasons for this awakening of the people to the support of the fair. One is the management has worked hard and faithfully to make the fair as broad as the state itself. The transportation companies have come to their assistance and made liberal rates on hauling rates of all kinds. Another is the people are beginning to realize that it is time to let the outside world know of the wonderful resources of our state, and believe that the State Fair is the proper place to meet the better class of home-seekers. This will make the fair doubly valuable. It will give those who are looking for homes on the Pacific Coast an opportunity to see in a body what our state can produce, and where it is produced, without traveling all over the state at great expense. It will also give the exhibitor the best possible opportunity of showing his products, whether it be grain, grasses, fruits, vegetables, livestock, minerals or manufactured goods.

You are invited to attend and see the greatest industrial exposition and livestock show ever held on the Pacific Coast. Good facing every afternoon. Camp ground free. Come and bring your families. For information, write

M. D. WISDOM, Sec'y, Portland, Oregon.
