ROOSEVELT AND SIMON.

President Roosevelt, over his signature, promised Senator Simon that he would appoint Geo. A. Steel to the Registry of the Oregon City Land office, and then deliberately went back on his word. This seems a clear example of Roosevelt's famous assertion that he liked a "man of action, not a man of words." It is now getting so that in the face of political protest, the Presidential word is no more sacred than that of a precinct politician. Mr. Simon has many enemies, but there are many even of these who stoutly aver that Roosevelt's broken written pledge will come back to haunt him. Roosevelt's defense that Mitchell and Fulton were against Steel goes for naught in the face of the fact that the Senate would not act upon the appointment until next December, and he might at least have lived up to his word and made the appointment. This seems but another parallel to Mr. Roosevelt's action in swearing his residence away from New York to avoid taxes and then a few months afterwards running for governor of New York. Again, taking up the question of the Senate not confirming—why did Mr. Roosevelt again send in the name of Crum, the nigger politician, after the Senate had turned down the appointment? Politics—oh, politics, what bangles are committed in thy name when a man's rights are on a nomination, running in the distance.

THE PRODIGAL SON.

Oregon's prodigal son—Binger Hermann—has returned and he is asking his political father, the First District, to kill the fatted calf, and Binger wants to eat the calf, hide and all, with no choice morsel for his political brethren. "Our Binger" is certainly a political wonder of the first water. His administration as Commissioner of the U. S. Land Department was not acceptable to his superiors and he was asked to resign. Everybody thought that this would be the last of Hermann, but alas, here he is asking for more political office. And, by the way, from all reports, he has nearly enough strength to get the nomination on the first ballot. There's nothing like the Congressional "itch." It works while you sleep," as a famous proprietary medicine advertises. It haunts its wearer from one campaign to another and from one office to another and just now the Hon. Binger has a terrible dose of the disease. Whether he will get the salve of nomination applied to the scab, remains to be seen. Let us hope not, as representing a great state.

PORTLAND loses a valuable citizen in the death of H. W. Corbett, the many times millionaire. Mr. Corbett was a worker and believed in the progress. His purse was always open to public enterprise and to his generosity is due the fact that a sentiment was nourished encouraging the Lewis & Clark Fair. The day before he died he resigned from the presidency of the Fair Board. He was U. S. Senator from Oregon from 1866 to 1872.

PERHAPS the Forest Grove Times' man would like again to run for Mayor of that city—thus he might get a "vote of confidence" in his own balliwick; inasmuch as he is such a terrible "reformer."

Jos. Sax, of Tigardville, and who is suffering from a bad ankle as the result of being overturned in a wagon, was up the other day, visiting the county seat.

The month of March was the biggest in point of receipts in Recorder Kuratli's office for a long time, the fees amounting to $308.45. This is due to the brisk movement in real estate.

At a caucus held Tuesday night at Cornelius the following ticket was nominated for the coming city election: for mayor, Hon. Benj. Scholfield; councilmen, H. S. Sturdevant, Ed. Austin, P. O. Brown and F. Schoen; recorder, A. A. Phillips; treasurer, C. C. Hancock.

PAPER ON HOGS

Farmington, Or., Jan. 29, 1903.
MR. W. E. COMAN,
G. F. & P. A., S. P. Co.

DEAR SIR:
Your letter of January 28th, in regard to properly feeding and fattening stock, especially hogs, in the Willamette Valley and Western Oregon, at hand. Also copy of Dr. Hutchinson's letter on the same subject.

I have read the Dr.'s letter carefully and find he has fully covered the marketing end, in showing that hogs should be properly fattened before shipping to market to be most profitable to the shipper.

I will give my experience in raising and fattening hogs, which has proved to be the most profitable stock I have on the farm at present prices of pork and bacon. I have the hogs that are slaughtered in the Fall and Winter farrowed in March or April. They are pastured in April, May, June and July on alfalfa clover. I find alfalfa preferable to red clover as it is eaten with more relish by hogs and cattle. The end of May or first of June a field is sown to rape. The land should be finely pulverized and 3 lbs. of seed sown broadcast per acre. The seed should be harrowed in with a peg tooth harrow and the land rolled or clod-mashed. The rape can be pastured all Fall and Winter, and the shoats will be in fine condition to fatten.

Last Summer I pastured 42 shoats on 2 acres of rape for two months. The shoats kept in growing condition all the while. This plainly shows the value of rape for hog pasture. I would recommend alfalfa clover for Spring pasture in the Willamette Valley and Alfalfa wherever it can be grown. Alfalfa hay has about the same feeding value as wheat bran and makes an excellent winter ration for stock hogs, when run through a feed cutter, with a little skim milk added.

Pean and barley mixed makes the best ration for fattening hogs that I have used. 5 pecks of each should be sowed per acre. They ripen together and can be harvested with a binder, and yield from 40 to 60 bushels per acre.

The year 1901 I kept account with 12 hogs. When put up to fatten they averaged live weight 75 lbs. each. They consumed an average each of 450 lbs. of rolled barley and 300 lbs. skimmed milk in 60 days. When slaughtered their average weight dressed was 161 lbs. The meat was cured, and the ribs, lard and bacon sold for $204.50. Value of shoats as fed consumed $98.00. Net income $106.50, besides the offal. I have gone into detail on this to show what can be done when the product is finished on the farm.

Hogs should always have comfortable clean quarters. If their beds are not dry and warm they require a large amount of extra feed to keep up the animal heat of the body. They should always be kept in a growing condition also. It is a mistake to grow hogs too large, for it requires more feed to produce a pound of gain on a 300 lb. hog than one weighing 200 lbs.

I have noticed several carloads of hogs shipped on your West Side Division, their manure showing large quantities of undigested whole wheat. It is extremely unprofitable to feed wheat in this manner, or any other grain. All the saliva required to swallow dry grain aids the animal to digest its food better.

In conclusion I will say that farmers of Western Oregon should try the clover and rape for Summer feeding and grow peans and barley for fattening hogs. At present we have a market for many more than are produced. If we increase the production of hogs it will not be long before we have a first-class packing establishment in our midst. Then we will be able to compete with the East in their own domain by furnishing them a better article than corn fed bacon.

Yours respectfully,
WM. SCHULMERICH

BUYING AN ORGAN.

"Any Kind" Not the Right Kind. A Bellows, Pipe and Showy Case do not Make Tone.

A home is forlorn without music in it; there is something left out—lacking Life without music is like food without salt—it has lost much of its flavor and is flat. A man should give as much attention to providing his family with the means of enjoying music as he does to furnishing them with shelter, food, clothing.

AN ORGAN.
With a full, rich, round tone will accomplish this admirably and at very little cost. It will properly cultivate the ear to an understanding of correct tone quality and lay the foundation for an extended musical training. But "any kind of organ will not do." There is a wide difference in the tone quality and mechanism of organs. There are the cheap, commercial makes, with tin whistle tones, whose bellows soon become wheezy and whose influence upon the musical taste is vicious. They are made for no other purpose than to sell. The price is small but they are expensive from every view point.

OUR ORGANS
Six different makes and those whose names are a standard of excellence the country over. They are the old reliable Burdett, the well-known Kimball, the popular Needham, the Crown, the Peerless and our own special make, the "Pacific Queen," constructed especially for the peculiar climatic conditions of the Pacific Coast.

OUR SPECIAL OFFER

To introduce this organ we are making an extra special offer of $46.00. This price leaves absolutely no profit to us. You get the organ shorn of all profit consideration, paying only the actual cost of its construction and transportation. This is a little more than you would pay for the ordinary, worthless, cheap organ, but you will find this one substantial and reliable in every respect and as fine in tone as can be produced and you only have to pay $8.00 down and $4.00 a month until paid for, the organ being forwarded to you on receipt of your first payment.

Write for one of our Pacific Queen organs now. This extraordinary offer is limited only to the first 100 sold by us. You run a risk if you delay your purchase.
