

COL. JOE MECK DAY SET FOR SEPT. 29

Lewis & Clark Fair Will Honor Pioneer Virginian

FIRST UNITED STATES' MARSHAL Appointed by Polk in 1848; Voted for American Occupation

The Lewis & Clark Exposition Commission has given a day for the celebration of the memory of Col. Joseph L. Meek, Oregon's first United States' Marshal...

Col. Meek was a Virginian by birth, and in 1828 started for the Rockies, to trap for a man by the name of Sublette...

The day set for Meek's commemoration is Friday, September 29, and a fine program will be arranged.

Washington County is Col. Meek's home, and hundreds should make it a point to turn out and visit the Fair when the fame of the old history maker is celebrated.

The committee to arrange a program is as follows:

W. N. Barrett, B. P. Cornelius, L. A. Long, J. W. Bailey, James H. Sewell, W. V. Wiley, J. W. Connel, Hillsboro; Mayor C. N. Johnson and J. A. Thornburgh, Forest Grove; Mayor Thos. Talbot, Cornelius; S. A. D. Meek, Mountaineer (son of Col. Meek); Dr. F. M. Robinson, Beaverton; D. B. Emrick, Scholls, W. L. Moore, Greenville, and C. F. Tigard, Tigardville.

The program will be published in next issue.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT ON TUESDAY EVENING

Offo Johnson Shot With Revolver in Hands of Brother

BULLET ENTERS YOUTH'S BACK Lodges Behind Ear, and Will Recover. Purely Accidental

Otto Johnson, a son of Sam Johnson, of Shady Brook, beyond Glencoe, was accidentally shot Tuesday evening, about supper time, by Oliver Johnson, his brother, the bullet entering between the shoulder blades and lodging behind the ear. Harry Zimmerman, of beyond Shady Brook, had just reached the Johnson home from Hillsboro, and he and a daughter of Mr. Johnson were about to run a foot race as the result of a small wager. The Zimmerman boy placed his coat on the fence post and laid two unloaded revolvers on the opposite post. Otto Johnson, aged 14, snapped the revolvers, and placed a cartridge in one of them. He was to give the signal for the race to begin. Changing his mind, he gave the revolver to his brother Oliver, telling him to snap the gun as soon as he had made a mark for the boy and Miss Johnson to start from. He was just stooping to make the mark, when Oliver Johnson, not knowing the revolver had been loaded, snapped the weapon, catching Otto bent over. The fact that the boy was bending over probably saved his life, as the bullet followed the line of least resistance and ploughed underneath the skin, as above stated. It was one of these unfortunate accidents where no one is really to blame. Dr. Linklater was called to attend the wound, and the patient is getting along very nicely.

Dr. Linklater conferred with an eminent surgeon in Portland, and it was decided to leave the bullet rest until after the shock of the accident has passed away.

Agent Hinshaw is liable to lose that smile unless the railroad company furnishes cars for shippers. The demand is getting greater every day and it is estimated that there are 200 cars needed to move the crop adjacent to this shipping point. So far the relief amounts to nothing, outside of a car or two occasionally.

The following from this county are drawn on the federal trial jury now in session on the land frauds, in Portland: Ira E. Purdin, John E. Bailey, Forest Grove; J. E. Reeves and T. H. Adams, Cornelius; W. H. Wehrung and D. B. Reasoner, Hillsboro and H. V. Whitney, of Buxton.

W. G. Hare, of Hillsboro, a student at Ann Arbor law school, and who has been spending the summer vacation in Portland, where he has charge of the Washington County Lewis & Clark exhibit, leaves for the east in a few days to resume his studies.

Lula Curtis, aged about 12, and visiting with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Kruger, of beyond Phillips, fell from a "teeter" board, Sunday, and sustained a fracture of both bones of the left arm, just above the wrist. Dr. Linklater set the injured member.

Clarence Mays and wife, and David and Riley Rice came in from Glencoe this morning, and went to the Fair. Mr. Mays has sold his interest in the Mays Bros.' store to a brother, from Benton County, and he intends locating in Portland.

James H. Sewell, of Northeast of town, was in this morning, and states that he started picking in his yards Tuesday morning. The Wm. Bagley Sr. yards were entered this morning.

The County of Washington will in a few weeks make a public sale of all lands that the corporate body has bought in at delinquent sale and the two county official papers will publish the sale at once.

Lieut. Margetts, of Port Flagler, Puget Sound, and his wife, formerly Miss Mabel Ballard, are here this week, guests of Mrs. Margetts' relatives, J. A. Imbrie and family.

Mrs. Mary A. Young and daughter, Miss Zelba, who have been the guests of Dr. S. T. Bowser and family for several months, departed for their home in Illinois this morning.

Fred Emerson, at the last moment, outfitted and went out with Adkins, Gragg, Reasoner, and Lou Miller, on their deer hunting expedition.

E. B. Tongue and Cal. Jack have built a veranda around their summer house on the Dairy Creek bottom, west of town.

Sam Sorenson, who has been spending the summer on the Columbia, was up from Farmington today.

Hon. S. B. Huston and family returned Tuesday evening from their Nye Creek cottage, at the Newport Beach.

Miss Mona Williams returned Tuesday from an extended visit to Portland and the Fair.

Miss Jennie Reasoner returned Friday from a week's visit in Portland.

Arthur Bacon came down from above Mountaineer, yesterday.

Miss Mae Morgan, of Astoria, is the guest of Miss Elizabeth Milne.

Mrs. W. H. Boscow, of Spokane, Wash., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Boscow.

The Misses Eva Catching, Faye Corwin and Alice Wehrung have returned from Newport.

M. D. Cady, for several years in business at Beaverton, was up to the county seat yesterday.

Attorney John M. Wall returned last evening from a trip to North Bend, Marshfield and Gold Beach, attending court at the latter place. While at North Bend Mr. Wall was the guest of M. E. Everitt, formerly of this city, and now in the drug business there. He went down by steamer and returned by stage, over 60 miles of mountain road, via Roseburg. He says Southwestern Oregon is great for timber and mineral, and predicts a great future for North Bend.

Forest Bridge, of Schenectady, N. Y., was in town yesterday, and notes many improvements here since he left, notwithstanding there are those who are saying the town does not go ahead. Mr. Bridges says that there are always several hundred students at the big electric plant where he is located, some of them coming from Japan, Russia, India, and every nation on the globe.

Forest Grove and Hillsboro seem to have hard luck in getting railroads. While it cost Hillsboro something, yet they have the satisfaction of seeing a grade very close to town. The Portland-Forest Grove railway contractor, getting short in money, is what stopped the Tillamook road. It begins to look, however, as both the roads will be built without any very serious delay.

Wen Davis, of near Glencoe, was in town yesterday, and will have an auction sale, on Monday, September 25, when he will sell a herd of 16 splendid dairy cows, that have shown excellent tests—better than the average herds. It will pay dairymen to attend this sale. Mr. Davis can show the returns of his herd to any one's satisfaction.
