CHILD DROWNS IN POND OF SAWMILL

At Mill of Davies Bros., Two Miles North of Banks

ACCIDENT HAPPENED LAST SUNDAY

Two Children Playing on Pond, One Loses Life

Louise Filbert, the 10 year old daughter of P. C. Filbert, was drowned in Davies Bros' sawmill, two miles north of Banks, Sunday afternoon. The little Filbert girl was playing with Dorothy Davies, aged 7, when the log on which she was standing rolled her into the dam. She sank and the little Davies girl gave the alarm. Chas. Reynolds and Eugene Phillips went to the pond to search for the little girl, and they were soon joined by John Pace, who found the body in about five feet of water. The three men worked hard to resuscitate the child, but to no avail. They worked for an hour, using every effort known to them. Coroner E. C. Brown and Dr. A. B. Bailey left for the scene of the drowning, but found it was not necessary to hold an inquest.

The child's father works at Eagle Cliff, Wash., and her mother has been dead for some time. The dead child has been making her home near the mill for some time, the father making occasional visits to see her.

LAUREL CITIZEN GETS BIG MILEAGE MONEY

Isaac Ennis Subpoenaed by United States Court

GOES TO ALASKA AS A WITNESS

Gets ten Cents a Mile, up North, and Returns

Deputy United States' Marshal Griffith was out the last of the week and went on out to Laurel to summon Isaac Ennis as a witness in a big mining case now on trial up at Alaska, court being in session at Nome. The time in coming and going will consume several weeks, as a person can not always get out of Nome when he wants to. Mr. Ennis will get ten cents per mile for each mile travelled, going and coming, and his mileage will be something enormous.

This, however, was no inducement to the witness, and he tried hard to get off, but the summons would not stretch, so he has started for the North to give his evidence to the court. Just why a deposition could not be arranged is not made clear.
