WORTH THOUSANDS LIVED LIKE RECLUSE

Martin Sandberg, Native of Denmark, Passes Away

WORTH OVER FORTY THOUSAND
Suffered Paralytic Stroke and Dies Saturday Morning

Martin Sandberg, a native of Copenhagen, Denmark, died at the J. T. Young farm, a mile west of this city, last Saturday morning, Jan. 20, after an illness of ten days, superinduced by a paralytic stroke. Sandberg was about 66 years of age, and had resided here for about thirty years. He lived by himself, and his life was like that of a recluse, living as though he were in abject poverty. During his last illness he was at the home of Will and Loui Wolf, and all that medical aid could accomplish was extended the old man.

Sandberg was very silent about his relatives, but it was known that he had a brother at Copenhagen some years ago, and the probate court has instructed a letter to the American consul at that place, to ascertain his exact whereabouts. Sandberg's estate is estimated at between thirty and fifty thousand dollars, and it is known that he has some valuable mining property, besides his property in this country.

John M. Wall, attorney, has filed a petition, signed by Peter Nelson, W. H. Wehrung and Jacob Schneider, asking that letters administrative be issued pending returns from Denmark.

Subsequent to the filing of the petition by Mr. Wall, Louis and William Wolf through attorney Bump filed a petition asking for the appointment of a temporary administrator and Tuesday morning a third petition was filed by William T. Eisin, Royal Danish Vice Consul of Portland, through attorneys Schlegel of Portland and W. N. Barrett of this city asking that he be appointed alleging that a brother and only heir resides in Denmark and that by virtue of his position he, as Vice Consul would soon be able to learn his wishes. Judge Rood has decided to make no appointment at present.

CRESCENT THEATRE NEARLY COMPLETED

Crescent Theatre, the new play house owned by the Hillsboro Amusement Association, a local private corporation, is fast nearing completion. J. A. Graef, a Portland decorator, being now engaged in finishing the interior. The structure, when completed, will cost upwards of $6500, and is a valuable addition to the town. The opera chairs, which arrived a week ago, will be installed next week, and the entire building will be completed by February 10. Reporters from the local press visited the play house Tuesday afternoon, accompanied by the board of directors and witnessed the setting and working of the scenery by the company's stage hand, Leo Perkins. The scenery is something grand, and stage men who have examined it, say there is none better in the state.

The opening night has been set for Saturday, February 17, with home talent presenting "Tony, the Convict," a drama in five acts, the cast of characters appearing in another column.

On the drop curtain is painted an attractive scene, "In June Time," and together with all scenes other than interiors, is hoisted to the scenery loft above when not in use, the same as in all modern, up-to-date theatres. This enterprise is one of which Hillsboro may well feel proud, and is deserving of liberal support and patronage.

SUTHERLAND-SCHIEDEL

Married, Sunday, January 21, 1906, at the residence of the bride's parents at Laysville, Miss Jessie, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Schiedel and Joseph Sutherland, of Portland, Rev. A. Robinson of the Tualatin Plains Presbyterian church officiating. The bride is an estimable young lady having spent most of her life in Washington County. Mr. Sutherland was at one time a resident of Hillsboro, later engaging in business in Portland.

A few invited friends and relatives were present at the ceremony and after a bounteous wedding dinner the happy couple departed for Portland where they will take up housekeeping.

The Argus joins their many friends in extending congratulations.

If you want brick for any purpose, or building blocks for a foundation, remember that the Groner & Rowell Company, of Scholls, can supply your demands. They have a fine lot of lumber, rough and dressed, in their yard, and will meet all competition. Now that your crops are harvested, would it not be a good idea to consider if tilling will not increase your income. Wet, low spots in the fields, always giving poor results, can be remedied by putting in tilling. Let us help you. We can aid you to avoid crop failure on low lands. House and barn bills for lumber on short notice—and do not forget that we can furnish you estimates on short notice. Post office address—Hillsboro, Oregon, R. F. D. No. 2. Sixty thousand feet of fine, dry shiplap on hand.

George Stapleton, a Portland attorney, has brought suit against J. Thorburn Ross and W. N. Ferrin, of Pacific University, alleging that undue influence was used to get one Isaac Abrams to give the University land worth $25,000, below Albina. Ross contends that he is trustee for the property, only, and that he is in such a position because Abrams sent for Ferrin, asking for a conference, stating that he wanted to make a gift to the school. Ferrin says he went to see the old gentleman, and that later the deed was made to Ross, in trust. The matter will doubtless go to the Supreme Court before they are through litigation.

C. D. SNYDER'S FATHER COMING TO OREGON

Does Not Think His Son is Murdered

SAYS MAY HAVE FLEDTO AVOID LAW

Tempest in Teapot—Or Was Snyder Really in Bank Robbery

R. M. Snyder, of Kansas City, Mo., is coming to Oregon in a few days to see if he can ascertain what has become of his son, C. D. Snyder, who for over a year lived under the hill between Vinelands and Mountindale. Snyder was indicted this fall for shooting a cow belonging to Jos. Bucher, an old Civil War veteran, and, when the trial came, Snyder was nowhere to be found. He had mysteriously disappeared, and for a time it was thought his wife would go insane from grief. On top of this, there were many who believed that Snyder and two Portland parties, one of whom was Mr. Perry, knew something about the Forest Grove bank robbery, and Snyder's wife thought he must have met foul play at the hands of the other two, for she says the husband was home on the night the bank was robbed. Snyder was a peculiar fellow, and had been in trouble back in Missouri. He was an ardent sportsman, and spent the $150 his father sent him each month in the realms of sport. After his disappearance his gun and grips were found deposited in a Portland gunstore.

He frequently visited Hillsboro while living north of Glencoe, and one day when here last fall he slapped his wife, while in front of the postoffice. The two were married by Justice Reid, in East Portland, in the fall of 1904.

Everything to locate the man will be effected by the father, who seems to be very anxious about him, but who adheres to the belief that Snyder simply became frightened at the case against him, and fled.

Somehow, I allus like the wood; In Summer time they're best, All gittin' green with coat of sheen, An' logs, and shade, for rest!

There's allus somethin' in the trees That stan' so still an' grand, That makes me feel so dog-gone small Like in some mystick lan'—

An' then I feel so solemn like, I gaze in wonder thro' The leaves that shut out all the sky 'Cept jes' a glimpse of blue.

Then from a limb up near the top There comes the hooter's call, An' then I wish I'd bro't my gun To shoot—and hear him fall!

Just then the dogwood 'akes my eye, With rims so big an' bright, Seems like ol' Nature loves their blooms An' makes them fer delight—

An' then the squirrel's sassay cry Comes to me on the breeze, An' like a kid, I try once more, To find him 'mong the trees!

So, after trampin' round fer hours, I feel my eyes grow tired; An' lay down on some mossy bank An' sleep as long as desired—

Then in an hour or so I wake, A-feelin' mighty fine; I seem to fill my ol' lungs up With smell of fir an' pine!

An' when the wind blows from the sea An' scatters leaf an' bloom, Sounds like an organ playin' deep In some cay-theatral's gloom—

So when I get my satisfy I start fer home 'bout dusk, A-whistlin' softly some ol' tune What sounds like music—Musk.

An' when I climb the pasture fence I stop an' linger there— I dread to think of Winter time, When all the trees is bare!

I start an' hurry down the lane; Sue meets me at the door, An' makes me promise that I won't Go to the woods no more—

But Sue, she knows, an' so do I, That when Spring comes again, An' Sumner's sun is shinin' bright, We'll both go down the glen!

"As the Twig is Bent The Tree's Inclined"

How is it with the young people of your household? Are they saving money? Have they learned to appreciate the value of the dollar? Are you endeavoring to instill into their minds correct ideas concerning thrift and economy? Are you seeking the opportunity to "bend the twig?" Would you like to listen to a plain suggestion? If so, here it is:

Send the young folks to our bank with the first spare dollar that comes into their hands. The next dollar should be treated in like manner, and the practice so continued until a fixed habit of saving has been established. A goodly bank account will soon result; the young folks will get an inkling of the ways of business, and, being thus "inclined" are likely to grow up into straight and thrifty manhood.
