A business man, whose name is not to be disclosed, received a subscription list asking for and pledging aid to the Japanese starving. The man in question has always been a liberal giver to the poor in this place, but he returned the list to Portland, remarking that the poor at home should always have the first consideration. This man was an ardent partisan of Japan in its recent struggle with Russia, but he thinks that a Nation that had millions to spend in battle should have a few "yen" to send into the famine provinces.

The Argus this week came near chronicling the death of Jos. Ego, of near Middleton, while that gentleman is as lively as any person can be who is gifted with good health. Some time ago a man by the name of Jos. Ego died in California, intestate, leaving a memorandum of some property in Oregon. Edwin Mays, a Portland attorney, wrote Attorney Wilcox about the will, saying that he wished to some clients of his, who had claims against the dead man, could get their money. The tax roll was consulted and the name of Jos. Ego was found. Mr. Wilcox sent the desired information, and it was mailed Friday evening. Stewart Vaughan and John Winters arrived about noon and the Argus reporter asked them about it. They stated that they had seen the Middleton Ego only a day or so back and that Ego had paid Winters a large sum of money only a day or so before. This exploded the idea that the Middleton Jos. Ego is dead—and killed a first class death notice of a man who expects to live fifty years yet. It will be amusing when Mays sends out a petition to probate Ego's property.

The Deacon Visits Nature's Stronghold

You talk about the Newport beach, An' praise of Seaside's san's, But Dairy Creek's the place to teach You 'bout of Nature's plans.

Jes' wander down of Dairy Creek Up past the bun-ga-low An' there you're sure to get your pick From water fowl to crow;

'Tis there you'll see the ol' muss'rat A-glidin' 'long the stream, An' hikin' 'after somethin' fat. His sharp eyes all agleam—

Then when he sees you in the boat, He makes one plunge, an' 'quik, The little cuss that wuz a float Sinks in the sullen creek—

An' then, ahead, aroun' the bend His bubbles greet your eye, But 'fore you've time to send a shot He flirts his tail 'good-bye!

An' that's the last you'll see of him— The air is full o' musk; He's in his house, so snug an' trim, An' won't be out 'til dusk.

The mink, the sly-est of 'em all, Comes out to try his luck, An' first you know, you hear a squall; He's caught a baby duck!

Then sudden 'e heard a beaver's tail A-slapin' in the mud; He makes it fly 'ee like a tail; Shakes trees, both trunk an' bud.

Jes' then you hear a clatt'rin' scream: Kingfisher, like a flash, Dives like an arrow in the stream— Gee! How the waters splash!

At this, the crow sets up a yell To raise the neighborhood— The gosh—he can allus tell The doin's in the wood.

An' as you set there in the boat, A driftin' from the jam, You sudden hear the quail's wild note From 'way below the dam;

An' then the China rooster calls His mate from Besser's Lake— Then party soon a fir burr falls, A chipmunk's meal to make.

Jes' then you hear the tom-tit's peep: The chickadee's shrill cry; The ol' house grouse wakes out o' sleep— Hooks from a tree near by.

A 'drummer' on an ol' fir trunk Jes' makes the valley ring, So tamed proud, he mus' be drunk, An' thinks he is a king!

All this you'll see, mos' any day, On Dairy's bottom ground— It's mighty clever sights, I say, An' jes' a mile from town.

Above, below, the bun-ga-low, There's allus lots to see 'Long Dairy Creek, a mile or so— Quite good enuff for me!

Ol' Dairy Creek; a stream of joy; For fifty year or more— In fact, since I wuz but a boy I've wandered 'long your shore;

So, now, that I am gettin' old, An' reached my three-score ten, I love to bathe me now an' then.

Orange Cole, who owns the Finney property in this city, writes from Benedict, Neb., for another year's run of the Argus, winding up with his request with, "I appreciate your paper very much." This is gratifying, showing that if a prophet be without honor in his own country yet can a country newspaper be appreciated away from home.

Judge Rood heard the petitions for administration of the estate of the late Martin Sandberg, the first of the week, and decided that letters should issue to G. W. Schulmerich, cashier of the Commercial Bank.

B. G. Leedy, Master of the State Grange, and A. T. Buxton, both of this county, are starting a campaign to have the two Grange bills placed on the statutes by the general vote. The Grange is going after legislation, and it should see to it that it gets it.

THE LIGHT OF OTHER DAYS.

Not very many years ago alcohol was used for lighting in combination with other fluids under the name of "Camphene," but it suffered banishment because it was too dangerous.

Alcohol is generally harmful when taken in the form of medicine, especially to a delicate system.

Dr. Pierce's tissue-rebuilding and function-strengthening plan of treatment is following after Nature's plan.

He uses natural remedies, that is native medicinal roots, prepared by processes wrought out by the expenditure of much time and money, without the use of alcohol, and by skillful combination in the most exact proportions.

Used as one of the active ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, BLACK CHERRYBARK specially exerts its influence in cases of lung and bronchial troubles, and this "pneumovax" is, therefore, a sovereign remedy for bronchitis, laryngitis, chronic coughs, catarrh and kindred ailments.

The names of the medicinal ingredients of this world-famous remedy are: Golden Seal root, Queen's root, Stone root, Black Cherrybark, Bloodroot and Mandrake root.

"I have had such a wonderful experience with Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery that I do not hesitate to recommend it, believing it to be a wonderful medicine to build up the tissues of the system," writes Miss Beulah Brown, Secretary Eastern Literary Association, 22 Korman Avenue, Appleton, Wis.

"I worry and nervous troubles had completely run-down my health, and was in a state of nervous collapse. I took twelve bottles in all, and each week knew that I was getting better and stronger, until finally I was as well and strong as I had ever been. I have the utmost faith and confidence in your medicine, and wish to thank you for my good health, which is a blessing to anyone."

For 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing, you can get a free copy of the "Common Sense Medical Adviser," paper-covers; or cloth-bound for 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Golden Medical Discovery" whenever a laxative is required.
