H. Wehrung & Sons carry a full line of Heiar pickles and bottled goods.

N. R. West, of Buxton, was down to the county seat Saturday afternoon.

Wells dug and cleaned. Leave orders at Barnes & Simon.—Humphrey, the Well Man.

Born, October 11, 1906, to Fred M. Townsend and wife, of near Bethany, a daughter.

Are you a smoker? Then call for the Schiller or Excellencia—Oregon manufacture.

Via Jack, of Farmington, has commenced the Winter term at a Portland business college.

For sale, cheap: Span of large work geldings, harness, and wagon.—John A. Hobbs, Hillsboro.

Born, October 5, 1906, to Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Weinstein, of near Mountindale, a daughter.

All kinds of sewing machine needles at Hoyt's—two for five cents, or 25 cents per dozen.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dooley and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Barrett, of near Greenville, were in the city Saturday.

E. A. Barnes, of Portland, and one of Oregon's popular song writers, was a Hillsboro visitor, Saturday.

Gents' and boys' clothing, fall line now in—Kub, Nathan & Fischer Sincerity make—at H. Wehrung & Sons.

Mrs. Maude Portwood, formerly Miss Hoover, of Condon, is here this week, the guest of her cousin, Miss Eva Bailey.

John Koch, of Cornelius, and Toni Sinsy, of Blooming, were county seat visitors, Saturday, attending the Anderson sale.

We lead in groceries—the best brands—prices always the lowest, and 16 ounces to the pound.—H. Wehrung & Sons.

H. P. Rasmussen, who has been residing north of town for some time, has moved to Cedar Mill, where he will lease a farm.

Hon. Ira E. Purdin, daughter and son, were down from Forest Grove, Saturday, attending the funeral of the late W. R. Barrett.

For sale cheap:—A five-acre tract joining Hillsboro townsite; house and barn.—H. A. Miller, Summit, Oregon.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. James Dilley, of near Forest Grove, October 14, 1906, a daughter. Dr. Large was the usher at the occasion.

Taken—From my place on First and Railroad streets, a 14-inch steel beam plow. Party taking same will please return at once.—E. L. Crocker.

Deputy District Attorney Tongue went to Portland Saturday afternoon, to assist District Attorney Allen in taking the testimony of Mrs. Snyder at the Hotel Portland.

Speaking of groceries—if you want the finest staple and fancy groceries to be found in the market, try John Dennis. We is after your trade, and once a customer, always a customer.

Thirty six head of work horses arrived Saturday night from the Lytle ranch, Sherman County, and the animals were taken over to Tillamook, the first of the week, to be used in construction by the P. R. & N. Co.

For Sale—Gentle driving mare; bay; weighs 1150; drives double or single, and lady can drive her Good traveler. Is Hambletonian.—Conrad Viohl, 1 1/2 miles southwest of Hillsboro, near the Stanton place.

The county board met Saturday to receive bids for constructing a piece of road above Banks, on the Buxton road. No bidders appeared, however, there being a scarcity of men who want to tackle work of that kind at this time of year.

Wanted—Salesmen. Many make $100 to $150 per month; some even more. Stock clean; grown on Reservation, far from old orchards. Cash advanced weekly. Choice of territory. Address Washington Nursery Company, Toppenish, Washington.

After an absence of a year in upper Alaska, above Dawson, Miss Jennie Greer returned Friday morning and is at the home of her father, R. H. Greer. Miss Greer says she is glad to get back to civilization, and says that she notes many improvements in the city since her departure.

Wm. Schulmerich, of Farmington and Jos. Schulmerich, of Banks, returned Saturday from a trip to Coos Bay, where the former addressed several Farmers' Institutes. He says that Coos Bay is on the boom and that lots at North Bend which sold at fifty dollars last year are now selling at a thousand. A firm is talking of putting in a denaturized alcohol plant at Coos Bay and the dairymen at first talked against the proposition but Dr. Withycombe assured them that it could in no way injure the dairy industry—rather, it would be an aid. If the plant goes in it will mean 6,000 acres of potatoes next season and a business worth over a half million profit per year. Cheap coal for fuel makes Coos their favorite.

Dr. D. W. Ward, of Forest Grove, was down to the county seat, Monday, on the Stewart insanity case. Dr. Ward in speaking of the W. R. Hearst fight for the governorship of New York, says: "I have known Hearst since he was a mere boy. When he took hold of the Examiner it was on its last legs. From the time he took charge it became a paper, and before a year it was making money. Hearst was always a radical, and I think he is doing the nation a great service, irrespective of party."

County Commissioner W. J. Butner, of near Beaverton, was up Saturday, and says that 28 shot went through his jumper a week ago Sunday when he came near being riddled by a careless shooter. Had he been a foot or two back the entire 28 shot would have gone into his stomach and Uncle William would have been awaiting a monument in some cemetery. He has about recovered from his injuries, however.

The Carstens-Hartley sawmill, above Banks, has been sold to Fred Briske, of Portland, who has taken possession. The deal was a cash proposition. Louis Carstens, the senior member of the old firm, has been in the sawmill business for seventeen years, and has made many friends by his square dealings. The new owner also bought 160 acres of timber land along with the mill.

Al. Schiller, a brother of Ed. Schiller, the Portland cigar manufacturer, was out one day last week to answer a charge of trespassing on a ranch near Cornelius. Judge Bagley fined Mr. Schiller five dollars for his experience after the festive Chinaman. Al. has concluded to buy a ranch out here just for the purpose of hunting.

Passengers on the Sheridan local last Saturday night were held at this station for nearly an hour, owing to the inability of the engine to move the train after it had switched two stock cars, containing horses, on the warehouse switch. Forest Grove and Cornelius passengers were plentiful and the complaints were long and loud.

"I saw something a few days ago that was outside the realm of possibilities here in Oregon a few years back," said Zina Wood, the other day. "A train load of wood was hauled past the ranch, and the engine was burning fuel oil. This looked rather odd in a country that has as much timber as Oregon."

For sale:—160 acres, one mile west of Buxton; 40 acres under cultivation; 80 acres bottom land, and valuable timber on 80 acres; 20 acres slashed. Nine room new house; barn, 60x60; good orchard; two springs; branch of Dairy Creek runs through place. Inquire owner's name at Argus office.

John Becker will move from Greenville to the county seat in a few days. Hugh Purdin is fixing up a place for Mr. Becker to work through the winter, on the place recently purchased from the Burris estate, North Hillsboro.

Pure, clean tare seed for sale in small or large quantities. Will deliver 500 lb orders at your nearest trading point. Have also a quantity of rye, mixed slightly with tare, and limited quantity of clean cheat seed. Jno. A. Hobbs, Hillsboro.

Wanted—About 12 or 15 hands to work in Oregon Nursery at West Union, immediately. Prefer boys from 16 to 20 years of age. For further particulars inquire at this office or call No. 286 Farmers' Line, Pacific States Phone.

Miss Irene Cadwell, one of the piano instructors at Pacific University, last year, and who has been a guest at the Tongue home, left the first of the week for her home in Lakeport, California.

John W. Connell is offering for sale some fine bull calves out of the W. W. Cotton herd, recently purchased, and sired by the Cotton registered bull.

Mike Krebs, of Krebs Bros., the big Polk County hoggrowers and buyers, was in town the first of the week, circulating among the hopmen, getting samples.

George Bacon, of Forest Grove, was in town Monday, on business at the court house.

J. B. Downing was up from below Beaverton, Monday.

Ambers Thornburgh, of Forest Grove, was in town Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chaney Benefield, of Manning, came down Monday on the P. R. & N. for a county seat visit.

Wanted: Stock hogs weighing from 80 pounds upward; also sheep.—J. G. Haines, Beaverton, Oregon. Independent phone.

John Walters, of below Cedar Mill, was in town Monday. He starts soon for Pomeroy, Wash., to spend the winter.

Robt. Tanneok, of West Union, was in the city Monday. Mr. Tanneok had a very successful public sale last week.

Mrs. N. A. Barrett, of Portland, was in the city Monday, returning from a short visit with her brother, W. C. Jackson, of Glencoe.

N. I. Burnett, of Greenville, was in town Monday. Mr. Burnett was at one time in the hop business, but states that he ploughed up his yard last year, and went at farming straight.

For sale: 40 acres of brush land, easily cleared, near Kalama, Wash. Running water on place. Three miles from county seat. Goes at $10 per acre.—A. Pautmeier, Hillsboro, Ore., R. F. D. 2.

Man's way too. And you're not the kind that changes. Look at me and see what you'll be! But you mustn't. I've opened my grave to you as a warning. Make it up with Steve now at any cost. Write to him, and be sure you eat your share of humble pie. You deserve it, I dare say, for you are a bit of a flirt. Dora. Write at once and every day till you hear from him." And she bolted into the house, leaving Dora staring at the unexpected romance, the secret of Miss Prissy's lonely life.

What a pitiful tragedy, rather! And one could live on and on! Oh, if she could see Steve! It might be weeks before a letter! If she could only see—She stopped abruptly, shocked with the audacity of a thought that popped into her head. The next moment she swerved from her course and sped away on the trail of Steve.

She was uncertain of the distance. It might be fifteen or twenty-five miles; but, long or short, she would make it in time. He was going to stay at his uncle's. That was a guide-post.

The open surprise and curiosity of Steve's relatives at the questions as to his movements from the flushed pursuer, little more than a stranger to them, overwhelmed her with an agony of embarrassment. It was plain that they had heard nothing of the short engagement and its violent rupture, and she was not in a position to explain, for only humiliating defeat might meet her attempt at reconciliation. She was obliged to leave them with an obviously unflattering opinion of a girl who was confessedly chasing a young man and who only blushed painfully and looked distressed instead of giving satisfactory reasons.

"That was a big piece of humble pie. It almost choked me!" she gasped when once more pedaling for dear life. "But, anyhow, I know he's going to stop twice more and intends taking the early train at Lynchburg. It was worth it to learn so much. I can—I will—make it!"

Noon came and passed. The weary miles seemed to stretch interminably, but she pushed on, feeling that the only possibility in existence was failure. A friendly boy assured her of the route and gave her directions for saving a couple of miles.

This maneuver came near being her Waterloo, for on the crosscut she met young Lawson, a one-time suitor, whom she had rejected in favor of Steve.

"Why, Miss Dora!" He stopped, blocking her way. "Are you lost or merely working off injured feelings?"

"Neither," she replied curtly, at tempting to pass.

He ungallantly wheeled his horse, preventing her, saying slyly: "Your face answers as to your feelings. I might ask you how you like the sack yourself, but I'm generous. Oh, he laughed at her look of surprise, "it's no secret that Steve shook you and it's out this morning."

"You are very wise!" she retorted, endeavoring to pass.

"Oh, it's common wisdom," he grinned, still preventing her. "It wasn't gentlemanly of Steve to jilt a girl so publicly. Come, now; let me unlie you Mrs. Lawson at once, and you'll turn the laugh on him good and hard."

"Steve did not jilt me! I was to blame myself!" Dora flared. "Let me pass, please. I must go!"

"Why, you don't mean that you're tagging the fellow to try to coax him back?" he jeered insolently.

Scarlet, but disdaining denial, Dora evaded him and fled, murmuring with a long breath: "That was a horrible piece of humble pie! But it's better than eating bitter bread the rest of my life!"

With a sickening fear that she was already too late, she scorched desperately over the remaining miles and dashed, panting and disheveled, into Lynchburg, coming almost immediately upon Steve, with Don and the buggy, at a safe stable. With a pang she noted that Steve was pale and baggared. He, too, had suffered, and yet he looked so stern and grave. Her courage faltered. He might not—but she must take it, this last and biggest piece of humble pie, and if Steve were implacable she was so exhausted she was sure she would die and there would be no Miss Prissy's fate for her.

As she timidly approached Steve turned, saw her and with an exclamation darted to her, and at the sudden light in his eyes Miss Dora lopped over in his arms, half fainting, murmuring heartbrokenly: "Oh, Steve! Steve!"

"That was all, but enough. 'The humble pie I've eaten! I certainly deserve entire absolution!' Dora cried self-righteously when the high stepping Don was prancing home with them.

"Humble pie!" Steve exclaimed. "Your little piece is nothing to the hunk I've got to swallow—going back after all the fuss—and how I'm to do it I don't see unless we're married at once and run away on a long trip."

Dora blushed, but said nothing, and—silence gives consent!

Safety in Thunderstorms. According to Professor Rowland, the safest of all places in a thunderstorm is an iron bedstead. Lying on this, one is in a kind of metal cage which acts as a lightning screen. This is contrary to a very generally accepted theory, as metal of all kinds and forms is generally avoided under the belief that it attracts the electric fluid. Trees, experience shows, are very dangerous places to shelter beneath in thunderstorms, and isolated trees more so than a clump, especially if near water. An oak tree by the side of a pond is considered by electricians as peculiarly unsafe, but water and damp ground are to be avoided quite as much as trees.

If the storm is directly overhead it would be safer to lie on the earth flat than to stand up. Indoors the safest place—next to the iron bed—is in the middle of the room, and a room in the middle of the house is safer than one at the bottom or top. All drafts and air currents should be avoided, and all metal objects, such as mirrors, picture frames and wire bell pulls, should be kept as clear as possible.

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with overwork. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the deflection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, or a renewed appetite, costiveness, flatulence, or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, dependent, frequent headaches, pain or distress "small of back," gnawing or distressing feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or so effectively as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and stews, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to it until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle wrapper and trusted to every oath. Its ingredients are gathered and distilled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret medicine of known composition.

Proclamation

Whereas, there was submitted to the electors of the state at the last general election as required by law, an initiative petition for a proposed amendment to Article IV of the Constitution of the State of Oregon, to be designated in the Constitution as Section 13 of Article IV of said Constitution, for the initiative and referendum on local, special and municipal laws and parts of laws, and

Whereas, on the 23rd day of June, 1906, the Secretary of State in my presence as Governor of the State of Oregon did canvass the votes given for and against said proposed amendment, and

Whereas, it was ascertained and determined upon such canvass that there was 47,678 votes cast for said proposed amendment, and 16,735 votes against the same, and that said proposed amendment received an affirmative majority of the total number of effective votes cast thereon and entitled to be counted under the provisions of law,

Now, therefore, I, George E. Chamberlain, as Governor of the State of Oregon, in obedience to and by virtue of the power and authority vested in me by law, do hereby make and issue this proclamation to the people of the State of Oregon, and do announce and declare that the whole number of votes cast in the State of Oregon at said election for and against said proposed amendment was as hereinbefore stated, and that said proposed amendment received an affirmative majority of the total number of votes cast thereon and entitled to be counted under the provisions of law, and is hereby proclaimed to be in full force and effect as a part of the Constitution of the State of Oregon from the date of this proclamation.

Humble Pie By Louis J. Strong Copyright, 1906, by P. C. Eastment

"You're a heartless coquette! You've driven my boy away forever! He's gone—he's gone!" Mrs. Hale wailed, with angry, tearful eyes. "Gone?" Dora repeated, the indignation red fading from her cheeks. "Yes, gone! And I hold you little better than a murderer, miss!" with which startling declaration she was leaving when Dora caught her arm. "Mrs. Hale, please tell me, do you mean that Steve is really gone now?" "Yes, I do mean that he is really gone now." Mrs. Hale's eyes snapped with vindictive satisfaction at the girl's distress. "He went across country in his buggy, meaning to stop at his uncle's to tell them goodbye. He'll take the train at Lynchburg. Oh, I'll never see him again, and it's your doing, you good for nothing!" She left the unpleasant epithet unspoken and stalked away.

Dora fled to her room and fell upon her bed in a tempest of grief. It had not seemed possible that Steve could carry out his threat and leave her. As she thought of it the long years ahead without him seemed to envelop and smother her. She sprang up, gasping. She must get out. "I'm going for a long ride, mamma," she announced later, and pulling her cycling cap over her swollen eyes, she rushed away.

She skirted the village with head down,
