LONG & MCKINNEY

The taxpayers of this county will doubtless appreciate the veto of Governor Chamberlain in killing the appropriations of two Normal schools. There is reason to believe that the legislature tied up their Normal appropriations as they did in order to prevent a veto. Drain and Monmouth, the latter being the parent Normal of the state, were cemented together, and the Eastern Oregon and Ashland schools tied together, this latter because the Governor would hardly kill the one school in the inland empire, and it was hoped that sentiment would keep him from killing off Monmouth. The ruse did not work, and while this county was the only one which voted a great majority against the general appropriation bill, the state at large did not want four Normals. Those who voted for Chamberlain as a "non-partisan" and were abused for it, are now chuckling in their sleeves at the governor's action; and justify their ballot as a good business investment. The veto of the state printer flat salary law was a wise move. The people amended the constitution last June and we should have had a law to take effect at once. That was the understanding. But the law will take effect until two years hence. The governor says that this legislature should not anticipate the action of the next legislature, and let that body provide for legislation subsequent to its next meeting. Three thousand dollars is a mighty good emolument for the office, and there are thousands of good men who could handle it at that figure, and still keep the wolf from the door.

The legislature put Gov. Chamberlain "in a hole." As the doughy governor has a mountain of public sentiment behind him and a good heavy veto gun in front of him he appears to have a comfortable view of the situation, and the little man appears to have a good marksmanship. It must be real nice to have people put an executive in a hole that is lined with opportunities and upholstered with the cushions that have springs strong enough to throw a man out of the aperture.

Words of Praise

For the several ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed, as given by leaders in all the several schools of medicine, should have far more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has the honor of mastery on every bottle-wrapper, in a full list of all its ingredients printed in plain English. If you are an invalid woman and suffer from frequent headache, backache, gnawing distress in stomach, periodical pains, diarrhoea, catarrhal, pelvic drain, dragging-down distress in lower abdomen or pelvis, perhaps dark spots or specks dancing before the eyes, faint spells and kindred symptoms caused by female weakness, or other derangement of the feminine organs, you can do better than take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The hospital, surgeon's knife and operating table may be avoided by the timely use of "Favorite Prescription" in such cases. Thereby the obnoxious examinations and local treatments of the family physician can be avoided and a thorough course of successful treatment carried out in the privacy of the home. Favorite Prescription is composed of the very best native medicinal roots known to medical science for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, contains no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Do not expect too much from "Favorite Prescription"; it will not perform miracles; it will not dissolve or cure tumors. No medicine will. It will do as much to establish vigorous health in most weaknesses and ailments peculiarly incident to women as any medicine can. It must be given a fair chance by perseverance in its use for a reasonable length of time. You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this remedy of known composition. Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets the best laxative and regulator of the bowels. They invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. One a laxative; two or three a cathartic. Easy to take as candy.

my coat off to go to bed. It makes me mad to think of the years I have wasted in undressing. "Cook said she was awake at 4 o'clock in the morning and heard some one coming upstairs. I easily convinced her that she was mistaken. This is life, this is. By thunder, why does any man ever marry? "Hads't a Thought of Home. "Friday—Out again last night. I cannot tell the reader what a relief it is for me to put on my coat and coat after dinner and walk about without being questioned and compelled to hurry right back. "Went to a bowling alley and went to a club. Dropped in to see some pictures. Hads't one single thought of the house. No chills went creeping up my back as I thought of Mrs. Bowser meeting me in the hall and saying that she was glad we had no son to follow in his father's footsteps. Thought the cook might have some remark to make at breakfast; but, on the contrary, she gave me an encouraging smile. When I woke up I found that I was fully dressed, even to my shoes, but I never slept better in my life. America is noted for rapid transit, and yet millions and millions of people will spend an hour out of the twenty-four dressing and undressing. "Wasn't cautioned when I left the house not to invest in chickens, pigs, cows, autos or winter toques. Went right out with my head up and able to look the world in the face. How I have stood Mrs. Bowser's sarcasm as long as I have is a mystery to me. "Saturday—Changed my clothes after I got home and had dinner and went to a poker party. It was what is called a 'stag' party—that is, you drank as many highballs and gin fizzes as seemed proper and lost all the money you wanted to. "Very pleasant lot of fellows and all surprised to see me. Heard some of them hinting that Mrs. Bowser must be dead. "Talked politics and played poker. "Talked Cuba and played more poker. "Talked Panama canal and had a flush. "Held three and straights and big pairs and never once thought of Mrs. Bowser. Free as air and feeling like a four-year-old. Men Poofs to Marry. "What asses men make of themselves when they marry! Just let Mrs. Bowser give me one sassy word when she gets back and— "I have an indistinct recollection of dropping something at poker, but whether it was a cent or $10 I shall never know—in fact, I don't care. When I set out to have a good time there's nothing stingy about me. "I remember speaking about going home at 2 o'clock in the morning, but some one asked what's the use, and I said no more. Don't remember getting home. Don't remember a policeman kindly unlocking the front door for me and calling me a regular Jim Dandy. Can't remember the cook finding me lying in the front hall when she came down. The first I knew I was up and dressed and pitying the man who ties himself to a wife. "Policeman met me at the gate as I started for the office and wanted to know if I was going to pay for that window. I didn't even ask him what window he meant, but when he said the damage was $4 I pulled out the money and paid it like a man. Cook brushed feathers off my clothes and picked straws out of my hair before I set down to breakfast, but she was discreet—very discreet. She said she used to pick up feathers and straws when she went to sacred concerts. "Sunday—Woke up with a recollection—several recollections; also a sore throat and a headache. Breakfast in bed. More recollections and headache than breakfast. Sympathized in His Loss. "Cook very kind and thoughtful. Discovered that I had lost my watch and sympathized with me. "Discovered that I had lost my wallet and said it didn't matter as long as I had had a good time. "I don't think I came home in an ambulance. Neither of my legs are broken, and why should I have done so? I don't think I slept on the front steps. When a man has a house he sleeps inside instead of outside of it. I sort of wish Mrs. Bowser was home. Cook says I have quite a fever. She attributes it to political excitement. Mrs. Bowser is one of the best hands in case of fever I ever heard of. I might reach her by telephone, but— "Monday—Doctor has been here. Says I have had a narrow escape. Says a man of my age ought to have a wife to hold him down. Says there's no particular harm in moving pictures, vaudeville shows, sacred concerts, poker games, gin fizzes, highballs, rabbit clubs and sleeping in the front hall if taken in moderate doses, but that I seem to have overdone the thing. "Cook is kindness itself, but she isn't Mrs. Bowser. "I now begin to understand why men marry and why a man is an ass who doesn't. There is something sacred about home. There is nothing sacred about a sacred concert. "Cook continues her kindness. She has just hinted that she has nothing to tell Mrs. Bowser, who will arrive early tomorrow morning. I am counting the hours. I shall explain to her that it is a hard cold, but she will suspect the truth and forgive me. "Dear Mrs. Bowser! Durn highballs and a life of freedom!" M. QUAD.

WEINHARD'S (On draught) The best of all Beers. Bottled for Medicinal Use. At W. V. WILEY'S

This Spray is Endorsed By A. B. Cordley Of the Agricultural College. Speaking of the Phoenix Lime and Sulphur Liquid Spray, Mr. Cordley, of the Corvallis Agricultural College, writes Dunne & Co., as follows: "Corvallis, Ore., Sept. 7, 1906. Dear Sir: In reply to your letter of the 4th inst. I am glad to be able to report that the result obtained from the use of your Phoenix Spray were very satisfactory indeed. I tested it by diluting one to three. The diluted sprays were applied thoroughly and favorably to trees that were simply infested and even a weaker solution has apparently completely eradicated the pest from sprayed trees. I find that examination made about two weeks ago fails to reveal any living scale upon either fruit or leaves. (Signed) A. B. CORDLEY.
