YOUTHFUL HORSE THIEF CAUGHT HERE SUNDAY

Spent Night in County Jail,
Guest of Sheriff

STOLE DR. WHITING'S HORSE

Is Former Inmate of State Reform
School

Warren Mallory, aged about 12 years, and not very tall for his age, was arrested here Sunday night and lodged in jail. Young Mallory, who has been in the reform school, having been dismissed a year ago and placed in the home of a Mr. Cline, on Mississippi Avenue, Portland, took Dr. Sandford Whiting's horse and buggy, Sunday afternoon, and drove out to this place, leaving the horse and buggy outside of town.

The lad went to the Goff place, south of town, and told Mrs. Hill, who was there, that he had found the horse and buggy near there, and left it at that place. Mrs. Hill telephoned and found that no one had lost the conveyance here, and then sent in the outfit by Ed. Schulmerich, who was passing. The lad came over town by himself and was later picked up and Sheriff Connell gave him quarters in the jail over night.

Dr. Whiting came out Monday morning, accompanied by Sheriff Bob Stevens, and the youthful criminal will have another chance to reform at the state school. The lad appeared as though he has been well cared for. He told Sheriff Stevens that he intended to stop in Hillsboro or somewhere near here, on a farm.

It is thought the boy is a son of the Mallory who was sent from here to the pen a year or so ago, by Judge McElride.

THIS ONE WON'T DO

Two weeks ago the Argus had a gospel story about a South Tualatin woman who lost her wedding ring while taking young chickens out of a nest, and then found it a year later on the neck of a rooster who had grown from a chick—the rooster being killed to make the parson's dinner. Last week another wedding ring story, where the circlet, lost 11 years ago, was found back in Arkansas, and sent to a Hillsboro couple. Now comes another—but the Argus can't vouch for this one. This is the yarn: Three years ago a lady lost a ring in the Wood hopyard, south of town. Every search was made but to no avail. Later, the hope was baled and sold and one day, when C. Blaser was drawing a glass of beer, lo and behold! out came the ring. The Argus always believes in good stories, but draws the line right here. The ring and glass of beer must be produced before we can swallow this latest flyer.

FIRE AT GREENVILLE

The Maccabees of Banner Tent, Greenville, will have a bonfire on Saturday, June 8, when they will burn the mortgage on their hall. There will be an all-day picnic at the Dooley grove, and the Verboort band will furnish the music. There will be a ball game, speeches from Portland orators, and a general all-around good time. Everybody invited to attend—and bring your basket dinners with you. The L. O. T. M. will have one of their splendid drills, and the affair will end by a big ball in the evening, in Greenville.

Argus and Oregonian, $2.00.

L. L. Langley, of Forest Grove, and who practices law in Portland, tells of a neat confidence or bunco game played on him in Los Angeles, recently, when two chaps made way with a suit case, in which Langley had $140. Langley was about to take the train, and was talking with one of the depot attendees, at the ticket window—Lote says it was a girl—and a fellow picked up his umbrella and started for the door. Langley caught the chap just outside the door, and he apologized in a very gentlemanly manner. To Langley's dismay, when he reached the room again his suit case was gone, and with it the $140. The two had evidently worked together, and the umbrella was only taken in order to give the confederate a chance to get away with the suit case.

Farm for sale: Eight miles southwest of Hillsboro; 34 acres; 8 to 10 acres under cultivation; balance easily cleared; good pasture; living water; small fruit; log barn; small house; ideal dairy farm and is on milk route. $1,050 and easy terms. Inquire at Argus office.

D. B. Reasoner started Tuesday for Scholls, with a crew of eight men, to put in the span across the Tualatin. The road will be closed to travel Thursday, and Mr. Reasoner states that he will have the structure in within three weeks. The contract price of the structure is $1747.44, and the lumber is furnished by the Groner & Rowell Company, their yard being right at the bridge approach. The bridge will be covered and shingled.

Deceased was aged 41 years, and was born at Beaverton. The husband, Peter Filbert, and a sister, Mrs. W. G. Gilbert, and her father, survive of her immediate family.

The rain which commenced last Thursday night has been a godsend to Washington County, and is conservatively estimated to have been worth a half million of dollars, or more. The hay crop is now assured, while a week or more of dry weather added, and the cut would have been away short from the average.

Speaking of groceries—if you want the finest staple and fancy groceries to be found in the market, try John Dennis. He is after your trade, and once a customer, always a customer.

Elmer Smith, of Portland, has bought the White automobile, formerly owned by A. C. Shute, cashier of the Shute Bank. The White is as good as new, as Mr. Shute has given it the best of care. The consideration was $750. Mr. Smith takes the machine to Portland.

For gentlemen's, ladies' and children's hose you can do no better than to buy of John Dennis. We have them for everybody, and at prices that are values.

CREDITORS JUMP ON UNITED RAILWAY CO.

Bond is Put up However, and Work Proceeds

FRANCHISE WILL SURE BE HELD

Valuable Concession on Front Street
Will Not be Lost

That the men back of the United Railways, of Portland, the company that has a franchise on Front Street, this right having been given them by the Portland city council on the representation that there would be a rail line built to Hillsboro, mean business, is shown by the fact that when the company's material was attacked by creditors, the other day, a bond was at once filed, and work proceeded after but a few hours' delay.

Herman Wittenberg and Walter Moore, two of Portland's substantial capitalists, are now back of the project, and they are going to see the matter through. The franchise is a very valuable one, as all roads must pay this company for trackage. That Portland capitalists will not see the franchise revert to the city, is assured.

The Southern Pacific will want trackage over this line, and so will the P. R. & N. The Oregon Electric must come under this franchise, also, and taken together, it is too valuable to permit it to die.

The funeral took place at Hillsdale, Saturday.

NOW FOR THE TUNNEL

Twenty-five or thirty husky Butte men went up to the tunnel on a special train, Monday afternoon. They are all big fellows and not a little fellow among the lot. If the Argus editor wanted to whip or subjugate the Philippines he would just double that crew and build rafts and by next Thanksgiving he would be sailing back, with "nary a Filipino" under the mangoe trees.

MOURNED AS DEAD FOR EIGHT YEARS

In the List of Killed at San Juan

REACHED BROTHER ON VISIT

Thos. Loudon, of the Sixth U. S.
Regulars

Thos. Loudon, who was with the Sixteenth U. S. Regulars at Santiago de Cuba, and was in the battle of San Juan Hill, the only real land battle in the Cuban end of the war, was in town Tuesday, accompanied by his brother, C. W. Loudon, with whom he is visiting. Mr. Loudon was reported as one of the dead at San Juan, and when he arrived in Portland from Colorado, the other day, he telephoned his brother to meet him in Hillsboro, the next day. "Who is this," said the Glencoe brother. The answer came back, "This is Tom Loudon, your brother." "Well," said Chas., "I—I—aren't you dead?" "Not much," was the Portland response. The army reports published at the time gave Private Loudon as one who had passed in at San Juan. Mr. Loudon is now with the U. S. Engineers, under civil service. He will remain several weeks visiting with C. W. and another brother, Jas. Loudon, and then return to Denver.

HIGH MINDED HEN

C. Blaser hunted a hen's nest all last Summer on his place down on Leveirich lake, but without avail. The hen would go up on the side-hill, lay her egg, and then cackle in derision. Blaser would go up and hunt, while the hen would just cackle a little louder.

Late this Spring he chopped down a fir, and ninety feet from the stump he found, where the tree forked, a hen's nest, with several young chickens, dead, and several eggs that were not fit for easter service. There had been an old tree leaning from the steep bank, which reached within a few feet of the crotch of the tree in which the nest was located and the hen went out on the incline and took up a homestead on the standing timber. While she was hatching the leaning tree fell and when the chicks came out of the shell they could not get to terra firma, and neither could the old hen get back. Ninety feet is pretty high, but Blaser still has the rule with which he measured the tree.
