E. E. LYTLE BUYS THE OLD UNITED RAILWAYS

Now Has Entrance Into Portland's Business District

LUCKY MOVE FOR P. R. & N. CO.

Prophecy of Argus of Months Ago Fulfilled

E. E. Lytle, of the Pacific Railway & Navigation Company, has bought a majority of the stock of the United Railways, and he now holds the whip hand on getting his Hillsboro-Tillamook railway into the business district of Portland. The United Railway Co., which had a valuable franchise in the city, down Front Street, has had a tempestuous existence, because financiers were afraid of the practicality of the men behind the project. In other words, when men of money have anything to do with a railway they want some one in control who has made success of railroad building. Mr. Lytle has made a good purchase, and, as his bonds cover a line into Portland, the road is already financed.

Several months ago the Argus predicted that Mr. Lytle would get control of the United Railway proposition, as he needed it to make good into Portland.

Loss, who succeeded the Los Angeles people, and then found he could not swing the affair with capitalists, wanted too much for the little hold he had, and it was only a few days ago that he finally came to terms and sold to Mr. Lytle.

Mr. Lytle neither denies or affirms the fact that he has bought the deal. The Front Street line is of much value to Mr. Lytle, for, besides giving him an inlet into the city, it gives him a franchise that makes all other lines pay him a toll on each car making down Front Street. This, of course, will cover Southern Pacific and the Oregon Electric lines, both of which will have a big business from this on, and especially after the Southern Pacific takes its freight of the Fourth Street line. That company will either have to pay the steel bridge toll, and carry their freight that way into the terminal, or pay toll to the Lytle entrance.

Mr. Lytle already has sold his bonds for construction to Portland, and the mortgage is on record here at the County Recorder's office. The deal is considered one of the best financial moves ever made on the railway checker board in this section of the Northwest.

When people tell you there is no common honesty, don't you believe them. Within the past three months two purses have been found by men in this vicinity. In each case the parties came at once to the Argus office and had the "finds" advertised. While the sum of money in each case was not large, yet it represented enough to make anyone with dishonesty in them hang to the theory of finding is keeping. It is these streaks of common honesty that keeps the race progressing to higher ideals.

Farm for sale: Eight miles southwest of Hillsboro; 34 acres; 8 to 10 acres under cultivation; balance easily cleared; good pasture; living water; small fruit; log barn; small house; ideal dairy farm and is on milk route. $1,050 and easy terms. Inquire at Argus office.

S. C. Sherrill, who has been principal in the Hilgard, Oregon, public school, has finished a very successful term, and has gone to Amboy, Washington. Mr. Sherrill writes that he likes Western Oregon better than the Eastern part of the state. He writes that the city of LaGrande has struck artesian water, and this will mean a great deal for that part of the state, as the volume of water will be sufficient to irrigate the entire Grande Ronde valley.

Talk about your fat cattle and finely improved farms—but just take a drive out to the Phillips and Bethany. Within twenty years there has been a wonderful change out that way. These sections are largely settled by the Swiss and Germans, and there is no place in the county that has a better air of thrift than these settlements.

OF INTEREST TO TAX PAYERS

Assessor Geo. H. Wilcox states that he expects his force to finish cruising timber for the county by the middle of July or the first of August, and the entire expense of the work will not exceed $5,000 or $5500. If this estimate is not too low, and Mr. Wilcox thinks not, the county will on the additional valuation, receive enough to pay the cruising, and leave several thousand dollars of a balance to the credit of taxation. This should be cheering news to taxpayers who have other than timber holdings, as it will mean fifty cent pieces and dollars galore, spread hither and thither.

It is noted that Columbia County will follow suit and cruise her timber for taxation purposes. This ought to make old Scott Cornelius, assessor of Clatsop County, feel good, as he was the pioneer assessor in the state to make timber cruises for taxation.

LITTLE LAD BURNED

Bently McCormick, the three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. McCormick, residing on Third Street, had a severe burn Tuesday morning, and the flesh on one side of his chest, and one arm, was badly cooked. Mrs. McCormick does not know just how the boy caught fire, and thinks perhaps it might have been from a match, struck by the little chap. She had been burning caterpillars a half hour before, and there was no blaze left from the rag which had been used. As soon as she discovered that the child was a-fire she smothered the blaze at once and telephoned her husband for a physician. Dr. Tamiey responded and dressed the little chaps burns. He will get along all right, but it was a narrow escape.

FOUR DAYS FARMER INSTITUTE WORK

Dr. Withycombe Will be in Attendance and Lecture

Dr. James Withycombe, an old time favorite with Washington County, and who is now vice director of the Corvallis college, has set dates for four Farmers' Institutes, all to be held in this county, and so arranged that every section can have the benefit of these splendid meetings. The Vice Director will be present at each of these meetings and deliver an address, and Wm. Schulerich, of Farmington, who is standard authority on dairy stock, and their care, will lecture at each of the four meetings.

Prof. Webster, of Washington, D. C., writes that he will try and be in attendance and if he arrives dairymen should not miss his addresses, as he is one of the best informed men on dairying in the United States.

The dates are as follows: Sherwood, June 4; Forest Grove, June 6; Banks, June 7; and Hillsboro, Saturday, June 8.
