LONG & MCKINNEY

WASHINGTON COUNTY, OREGON

Population, 20,000. First County in dairying; 1100 cases condensed milk daily; two big condensers; billions of feet merchantable timber, thirty million feet annual cut, will nearly double product this year; richest of garden lands in the world; bulk of county can drive to Portland and return in a day; finest market; great hop district; fine school system; finest climate on coast; mild winters; no county debt; best natural and best read people in world, population considered. Best in everything.

HILLSBoro

County seat: 2,000 people; Six churches, Protestant and Catholic; two banks; two telephone systems; big milk condenser; sawmill; two railroads; and electric line coming.

AND THERE YOU ARE!

IMPORTANT TO READERS

Owing to the increased cost of print paper and all material used in the conduct of a newspaper, the Argus will, after October 1, 1907, charge $1.50 per year as its subscription price. The paper has steadily raised on its price, and the type trust has done the same, until it is longer impossible to turn out a dollar a year paper with anything to the credit side of the ledger. Any subscriber of the Argus, can from now on until October 1, call and pay as many years ahead as he wishes, at the old rate. After October 1 the Argus and weekly Oregonian will cost $2.50 per year; the Argus and Semi Weekly Journal, $2.25 per year, and the Argus and Pacific Monthly, $2.00 per annum. This is a move that is only in consonance with business judgement and business necessity. Papers must buy their stock from the trust, or through agents of the trust, and it is all the same thing—and the newspaper man who can conduct a paper at $1.00 per year can make a living 'on the sands of the Sahara, without capital, without resources, and without anything. The Argus regrets to take this move, but it is either that or operate for nothing. Thanking the hundreds of people who have supported the Argus for years, and trusting that they will all remain with the Argus under its new schedule, we hope to see our patrons still continue their support. It is understood that all the county papers, not one of which can be making anything under the old subscription charge, will advance the rate in consonance with the above.

The state of Oregon can not throw too many safeguards around the banking system, and the Oregonian is to be commended for its intelligent effort, prior the last meeting of the legislature, for a statute covering safety to depositors. Ill-timed speculation has ruined many small holders of money, when they had their nest egg placed in some bank, ostensibly sound, and yet rotten, through gross mismanagement, that may, after all is said, have had nothing to do with criminal intent. But it is well, however, to have a law that will not only close a bank when over the safety line, but that will carry punishment for reckless investments, when other peoples' money is the motive power.

FARM FOR SALE

100-acre farm for sale; fine soil; 87 acres under plow; balance good pasture; no timber. Located one mile from Witch Hazel Station; four miles from county seat. Ten-room house; two barns; good water, two wells. This is fine for dairy, or purchaser could cut into small tracts. If sold soon, goes for $80 per acre. Abstract to date goes with deed. Address or call on G. J. Palmaier, Hillsboro, Oregon.

Wade Armentrout, of near Banks, was in town this morning.

Edward Minemoyer and Chas. Kostur, of north of Reedville, were in town this morning, having a feed of the Kostur place made to Minemoyer, the sale having been made yesterday. Mr. Kostur likes Oregon, and may stay, buying somewhere else.

Ringling's circus will be in Portland Monday and Tuesday, August 26 and 27. Nine men out of ten will tell you that they want to go and "take the boy down."

T. G. Todd, of beyond Forest Grove, was in town the first of the week, greeting his many friends. There's always a welcome for T. G. down this way.

Geo. Laemerman and Jos. Steinman, of above Greenville, were in town today, finding the total of the county timber cruise on their places.

Jacob Jacky, of near Glencoe, was in the city yesterday.

The Roman Candle Maker.

"The most solitary person in the world during working hours," says René Bache in the Technical World Magazine, "is the maker of roman candles. He occupies an isolated cell somewhat like that of an old time hermit, save that its precincts are more contracted, and nobody comes near him while he is engaged in his patient toil. The wages he gets are high, but not by reason of the loneliness to which he is condemned. He is paid for the risks he is obliged to take. The quarters occupied by this erratic artisan are a tiny house, which might almost be called a hut, with a floor space not more than six square feet. Standing by itself, at least sixty yards from any other structure, the little building is of wood, of the simplest imaginable architecture. If it were to be blown up, the financial loss would be almost nil, a point of some importance, inasmuch as its diurnal tenant is obliged to use considerable quantities of explosives in the business which engages his attention, for a roman candle is a sort of magazine or repeating gun, with a paper tube for a barrel and balls of fire for projectiles."

She Knew Him.

Mrs. K. had engaged a robust, middle-aged colored woman to do some housecleaning. During the progress of the work Mrs. K. said:

"A colored man came along here one day last week and wanted work, and I let him wash some windows, but he did not do the work at all well."

"What 'fo' lookin' man was he?" asked the helper.

"Well, he was a big, strong fellow, and he had but one eye. He said that his name was White. He did very poor work."

"I specs he did, lady. He's de wus' no' out in dis town."

"Oh, then you know him?"

"Know 'im? Why, lady, I's mabbed to 'im!"—Exchange.

The Exception to the Rule.

You're reading of a heroine who saves a rushing train by crawling over a slender bridge in time of wind and rain;

she waves the danger signal—a wisp of burning hay—

The train is stopped—and here it comes, night doth follow day:

"Then she fainted away!"

But take a bargain Monday—a great crush at the store;

Around the ribbon counter the tides of commerce roar;

She plunges in the vortex and fights as best she may.

And at the end you will not fail to get this news pase:

"Then she fainted away!"

Hillsboro Has to Bow to the Inevitable—Scores of Citizens Prove It

After reading the public statement of this party, given below, you must come to this conclusion: A remedy which cured years ago, which has kept the kidneys in good health since, can be relied upon to perform the same work in other cases. Read this.

J. S. Cooper, farmer, living three miles northeast of Salem, Ore., on R. P. D. No. 7, says: "I just as emphatically recommend Doan's Kidney Pills today as I did some three years ago. At that time I prescribed the remedy at a drugstore and used it with the result that the backache was banished and the other annoyances caused by a derangement of the kidneys disappeared. The troubles started from too heavy lifting, resulting to my back being strained and ever after there was a dull aching over my kidneys and through the loins. I got prompt relief from Doan's Kidney Pills. I also know of some of my neighbors who have used your remedy and found it most reliable."
