GUILD & MCKINNEY

WASHINGTON COUNTY, OREGON Population, 20,000. First County in dairying: 1100 cases condensed milk But still it allus brings the blush daily : two big condensers : billions of feet merchantable timber, thirty million feet annual cut, will nearly double product this year; richest of garden lands in the world; bulk of county can drive to Portland and returu in a day; finest market; great hop district: fine school system; finest climate on coast: mild winters: no county debt; best natured and best read people in world, population considered Pest in everything.

HILLSBORO

County seat: 2,000 people; Six churches, Protestant and Catholic; two banks; two telephone systems. railroads; and electric line coming.

AND THERE YOU ARE!

IT IS NOT TO LAUGH

To the hundreds of his friends in Washington County the undersigned wishes to say that he thanks them all for the loyal support given bim in the years now past and gone all; in their future; in their successes and failures; in their griefs and joys; in their families, and all that have treated him always with the J. Palmateer, Hillsboro, Oregon. kindliest of consideration, and helped him to build up one of the finest county seat newspapere in the northwest, without exception; and irrespective of political affilia- are: tion has this been done. He likes you all, and if he has an enemy in the county he wishes him welland he isn't much, anyway. Mr. Guild, the new editor of the Argue, is not unknown to Washington County people. He is a practical newspaper man, and makes his home here. If you wish to do Mr. Long a favor you will help the new Argus firm, and make it easy for him to get out a bright paper. He will do his part. As to the future of the writer of this, he may be here for some time, and, who knows, may be working for the Argus once in awhile, just to keep his hand in. Thanking the best read people in the state, and with the kindliest wishes for their personal welfare, it is farewell; adios; und lebe wohl.

L. A. Long.

JUST A FEW WORDS

Having purchased Mr. L. A. Long's interest in the material, subscription list and good-will of the Hillsboro Argue, the writer will hereafter be associated with Mrs. Emma McKinney in its publication. The new editor is a republican.

He is, however, of the Roosevel!, anti-trust brand, and believes in keeping close to the common people, on all questions affecting their interests. It will be the policy of the Argus to treat those who differ from its policy with courtesy, remembering that every man has a right to his convictions, and that acrimonious discussion of politics and religion do more harm than good.

The Argus will be essentially a local paper, striving as best it may to give the news fully and reliably.

To the press of the county, it extends the right hand of fellowship and will ever strive to treat its contemporaries in a fraternal spirit. H. G. GUILD

Ex-Senator Frank Mulkey, of Portland, visited Tillamook last week, and returned home Saturday in the rain, getting thoroughly wet. In an interview in the Oregonian, Mr. Mulkey philosophically remarked that the pleasure of the trip fully compensated for all discomfort. That ought to please the Tillamookers, who never like to hear anything said against the rain.

Portland has a wood trust, along with some others. It sells fir wood at $6 per cord. Lafe Pence, a philanthropist of the Rose City, has advertised to "bust the trust" by selling the same kind of wood for $5.50. Meanwhile, the people smile, and wink the other eye.

An Eastern apple king says that Ashland, Oregon, has the best orchard in the world. The apple king must have failed to visit Washington County orchards.

The Argus is indebted to Mr. L. A. Long, former editor, for valuable assistance in getting out the first issue, under the new manage- this party, given below, you must come

THE DEACON TAKES NOTICE

M' Hillsh'rotown seems lonely now, The people all re gone A-pickin' hops out on the plains-in course, it aint "bong-tong."

Of health to ev'ry cheek. An' puts a pound or two of flesh On those that 'pear quite weak

An' then, again, it helps along, An' gives the kids a chance, An' kinder loosens up your soul With story, song an dance.

Hop pickin' time jest takes me back, To when I was a boy, An' knew them all the county 'round-A county full of joy.

An if I wasn't quite so old With life so nearly spent.
I'd take wife Sue, go pickin' hops,
An' camp out in a tent.
