

P. R. & N. WILL APPEAL FROM JUDGE'S DECISION

Hill Road Wins Suit Against P. R. & N. Company

FROM HOBSONVILLE TO GARIBALDI

Only Three Miles of Route Involved in Suit

In the matter of the suit between the Astoria & Columbia River Railroad against the Pacific Rail...

The Court held that "It was not equitable for the P. R. & N. Co. to build the pass and another route over which it might build, although its surveys were held to have been first over the pass."

An Argus reporter talked with Mr. C. E. Lytle, the company's representative at Hillsboro, yesterday, about Judge Burnett's decision, and was told that the P. R. & N. Co. would appeal the case to the Supreme Court, with good chances, as it believes, of a reversal of the lower court.

Mr. Lytle said the only thing involved in the suit was the spur route from the main line at its junction with the Miami river, up the beach from Hobsonville to Garibaldi—a distance of only three miles.

The contention of the P. R. & N. people in the suit was that they were entitled to a choice of the route, being first in the field, and having first secured the right of way.

ENGINEER DONALD IN CITY TUESDAY

Says the Salem Line Must First be Completed

HILLSBORO LINE TO BE BUILT

May Start This Fall, and May Not Until Spring

Chief Engineer R. L. Donald, of the Oregon Electric, was in the city, Tuesday, and assured an Argus reporter that the Hillsboro extension of his company would be built, and that without question. Mr. Donald thinks the line would pay from its inception. In talking to the Argus representative, he said:

"The first proposition, of course, is to get the Salem line to operating. We take every man that has work in him, and put him at the front. We could really use more men than we can get, these days, owing to the scarcity of laborers. We now have an engagement on the Portland end, the other side of Bertha, handling earth for fills, and taking it away from the steam shore. If the weather holds good long enough, and we complete the Salem line as soon as we expect, we may be able to reach Hillsboro this Fall, late in the season. The line, however, is an assured fact. The only question is, whether it will be policy to put capital in grading that under the weather conditions we could not complete until next year, or hold it until Spring, and then get busy with a large force, and complete early in the summer. Yes, the line will be built—and it will pay handsomely."

Yesterday was the last day in which the $5,000 bond was to have been filed with the city as a matter of good faith, but no bond arrived. The matter of a franchise, however, can again be taken up and put through in short order if the company concludes to build this Fall.

COUNTY TIMBER CRUISE SIXTY-FOUR HUNDRED

Cruisers Make Their Contracts Good and Get Pay

FOUR MEN WERE EMPLOYED

Estimate is Fully Completed, and Gives 4 Billions

County Assessor Geo. H. Wilcox now has the total cruise of standing, merchantable timber in Washington County, eligible to assessment, and as returned by Cruisers Prescott, Nease, Cavell and J. R. Bailey.

The total estimate is 4,664,955,750, or to use the lumberman's terms, 4,664,955 M. feet. It is a safe proposition to say that this will add four and one half million dollars to the tax roll. Some of this cruise covers unpatented lands, but they soon pass to patent, and the timber will then be taxed.

Much of this will be assessed at $1 per M., and some will be valued as high as $1.25 per M., where it is close in and near a railway line, or where there is a good water course.

The cost of the cruise has exceeded the first estimate by nearly a thousand dollars, this being due to the fact that more acreage was explored than was originally intended.

The County will have paid out $6,421.20 for the cruising, when all the bills have been paid. The original estimate of cost was about $5,500.

The county will get its cruise cost back, and several times that amount, on its very first tax payment.

If the county and state tax shall be 10 mills, this timber will pay a tribute of $45,000 taxation. If 8 mills; then $36,000. If 7 mills; then $31,000.
